Celebrating all of our history

In his speech to citizens of Thief River Falls gathered at the Capital for a Day celebration in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, May 13, Minnesota Gov. Tim Pawlenty reflected upon the importance of examining where we've been and where we're going. The history of this state is important for many reasons.

Officials have long examined our history in terms of settling this land. Minnesota is truly blessed with hundreds of unique and wonderful communities because of the innovative and enterprising citizens. Not all of us look at snow and cold as a challenge to surviving. Thankfully, many of our citizens look at snow and ice as an opportunity. And so this willingness and ability to adjust has been a characteristic of citizens of Minnesota. Pawlenty also pointed out our willingness to care for each other as another characteristic that has become an important asset.

Thief River Falls and the other four communities chosen to represent Minnesota as Capitals for a Day were chosen from specific environmental regions or biomes of this state. Thief River Falls, for example, is representing the tallgrass aspen parklands biome.

The sesquicentennial or 150th anniversary journey in Minnesota starts with its statehood, but it is also inclusive of the native American history our environmental history. So, at a time when we look at man's accomplishments and a future filled with potential and opportunities, we should also look at the history of a people who came before us, and our impact on our environment with an eye toward whether our use and impact on the environment is sustainable. Will our use and impact on our environment sustain our future? That's a very important question and one which seems should be an obvious part of this sesquicentennial celebration.

Arctic Cat reports fiscal 2008 fourth quarter results

On Thursday, Arctic Cat Inc. reported net sales of $168.9 million for the fiscal fourth quarter ended March 31, 2008, compared with net sales of $172.6 million in the same period last year. Fourth quarter net earnings were $424,000, or $0.02 per diluted share, versus a net loss of $1.6 million, or $0.08 per diluted share, in the prior-year fourth quarter.

As previously announced, Arctic Cat's fiscal 2008 fourth quarter sales and earnings were impacted by the continued weak retail environment for all-terrain vehicles; the reduction of a planned, large multi-store retail customer order; and an ATV parts supply issue on the Prowler utility vehicle that was resolved before the end of the fourth quarter.

Arctic Cat posted full-year net sales of $621.6 million compared with record net sales of $782.4 million last fiscal year. The company reported a full-year net loss of $3.3 million, or $0.18 per diluted share, versus net earnings of $22.1 million, or $1.15 per diluted share, in fiscal 2007.

"After seven consecutive years of record sales, we are disappointed in the company's performance," said Chris Twomey, Arctic Cat's chairman and chief executive officer. "We anticipated that fiscal 2008 would be a challenging year as we lowered our production levels to reduce dealer inventories. Our results were further impacted by macro-economic issues that weakened consumer confidence and discretionary spending."

Arctic Cat previously announced planned reductions in its fiscal 2008 production of ATVs and snowmobiles in response to the difficult retail climate for recreational vehicles.

"We achieved our goal to significantly reduce dealer inventory levels in fiscal 2008 through planned production cuts," said Twomey. "Although recreational vehicles continued to experience a tough retail market, we believe our current dealer inventory levels will enable growth in sales to dealers in our fiscal 2009."

Business line results

ATV sales totaled $142.9 million in the 2008 fourth quarter versus $145.8 million in the same period last year. For fiscal 2008, Arctic Cat's ATV sales were $350.3 million compared with $431.5 million last fiscal year. ATV revenues were lower for the quarter and full year due to declining industrywide ATV retail sales and the company's previously announced 10 percent cut in its ATV production levels.

Snowmobile sales were a negative $7.1 million in the 2008 fourth quarter compared with a negative $1.8 million in the prior-year quarter due to sales incentives and lower shipments. For the 2008 fiscal year, Arctic Cat's snowmobile sales totaled $161.9 million versus $247 million in the prior year, largely due to the company's previously announced 30 percent reduction in fiscal 2008 snowmobile production levels to align inventory with retail demand.

Sales of parts, garments and accessories in the 2008 fourth quarter grew 15 percent to $33 million versus $28.6 million in the prior-year quarter, driven by increased sales of snow-related parts, garments and accessories. For the full fiscal year, parts, garments and accessory sales rose to $109.4 million, up from $103.9 million last, fueled by snowmobile parts, garments and accessories, as well as AT parts and accessories.

Outlook

"We expect the company to return to profitability in fiscal 2009," said Twomey. "We are focused on achieving growth by offering innovative products that drive market share gains and lowering costs through our strategic sourcing initiative and by further leveraging our efficiency."

Twomey added, "Following our planned, lower snowmobile production last year to align dealer inventory with retail demand, we expect increased snowmobile revenues. We also anticipate flat to slightly higher ATV revenues, based on increased Prowler utility vehicle and international ATV sales, as well as an overall richer product mix."

For the fiscal year ending March 31, 2008, Arctic Cat expects net sales to grow between 5 percent and 8 percent, and be in the range of $650 million to $674 million. Full-year diluted earnings per share are anticipated to be in the range of $0.18 to $0.28.

Arctic Cat's first quarter net sales, for the period ending June 30, 2008, are estimated to be in the range of $85 million to $95 million versus net sales of $87.9 million in the same period last year. The first quarter net loss is estimated to be in the range of $0.50 to $0.60 per diluted share versus a loss of $0.39 per diluted share in the prior-year quarter. Arctic Cat expects its fiscal 2009 first quarter results to be negatively impacted by a lower tax credit caused by an estimated 13 basis-point change in the company's first quarter effective tax rate compared to the prior-year first quarter. The company anticipates positive revenue and earnings comparisons in its second and third quarters, driven by increased snowmobile sales, and parts, garments and accessory sales.

Volunteers needed for Kickn' Up Kountry Festival

Ardell Larson, president of Kick'n Up Kountry, Inc., has announced she is accepting applications from individuals wishing to be volunteers for the 2008 Kick'n Up Kountry Music Festival, Labor Day weekend, Aug. 29, 30 and 31, at the Pennington County fairgrounds.

"We are always in need of talented, responsible volunteers to help maintain the high quality of this annual event," Larson said.

Volunteering to work at the Annual Kick'n Up Kountry Country Music Festival is a great way to experience a wide range of country music. One of the best parts about volunteering is that volunteers get into the festival for free.

"There are many different types of jobs," said Larson. "We need volunteers at the festival ranging from security, parking and tickets, to campgrounds, janitorial and set up and tear down crews, apparel and souvenir sales, and EMTs. There are many different options when you volunteer."

Volunteers get a free ticket to the reserved seating section. If an individual volunteers for one day, he or she gets a ticket for that day's show only. If an individual volunteers for the two days, he or she gets a ticket for the whole event. Volunteers will also receive a free Kick'n Up Kountry Staff T-shirt.

Most festival volunteer jobs do not require specialized skills (there are a few exceptions). All new volunteers must be trained by an area coordinator who is responsible for making sure their area runs smoothly. Training occurs at group meetings before the festival.

To become a festival volunteer, complete a Festival Volunteer Application. Go to www.kicknupkountry.com, print out and return the completed application to the KUK, Inc. office; or call Ardell Larson at (218) 754-2861.

Boy Scout Pack 96

Pack 96 of Goodridge, MN has been a busy pack this past year. The pack started up in the Fall with lots of help from Greta Kovar. We started our year off with a pancake breakfast to raise money for uniforms and T-shirts. Parents and the community really came out and showed their support to our program. Thanks to The Lions, Lion Tamers and St. Ann's Men's Club, they also donated money to help pay for uniforms.

We currently have 13 boys in our pack and hope to have more join our wonderful program this Fall. We have done many fun activities such as sledding, ice skating, attending a Sioux hockey game of the REA in Grand Forks, N.D., toured the police station, mystical magic at the library, May baskets for nursing home residents and had the Civil Air Patrol from TRF demonstrate about flag etiquette. We participated in the Scouting for Food and candy sales. The Goodridge community showed great support and we collected 255 lbs. of food for the TRF Food Shelf.

We are having our Blue & Gold banquet to honor our scouts and present badges and awards as well as a spaghetti supper. Our adult leaders have worked hard to have a fun, learning experience for all involved. We hope to keep growing and improving our program.

If you are from the Goodridge/Grygla area and would like to get your child involved, our meetings are the third Tuesday of the month at 6:30 p.m. Please call Cubmaster Randy Olson at (218) 681-6740 for more information.

Art Lee of Bemidji delivered a humorous and informative presentation on being Norwegian during the Recognition Dinner held during the Capital for a Day celebration in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, May 13.

Discarded cigarette causes fire Thursday

A discarded cigarette caused a fire Thursday afternoon in the city of Thief River Falls. No injuries were reported.

The fire was reported at 3:10 p.m. Thursday at John Sampson's home, 903 Taft St. According to the Thief River Falls Fire Department, the fire started when a cigarette was tossed out near a deck. The cigarette landed between the house and a deck. It then caused about $400 in damage.

A city building inspector put out the fire with a fire extinguisher before the fire department arrived at the scene.

Thank You

To the wonderful woman who came down in that cold, wet, weedy, nasty ditch to help me out through the window of my car on Monday afternoon. Thank you - I am very grateful. Also thanks to the woman who brought a blanket to me.

Johnson, Prowlers knock off Spuds

One day after losing a 10-8 home field decision to Red Lake County, Thief River Falls went on the road and pulled out a 1-0 eight-inning Tuesday high school baseball win over Moorhead – a team that had beaten the Prowlers earlier this year 6-5.

The Rebels put together a 12-hit offense in the Monday match-up at the Multi-Events Center. The Spuds were held hitless at Matson Field by by Spencer Johnson, who struck out 14 and allowed only three base runners via a pair of walks and an error.

It was the second straight no-hitter for Johnson, who was coming off a 7-0 May 5 win over Roseau. The senior left-hander is now working on a string of 17 consecutive no-hit innings. He has struck out 54 batters and has given up just four base hits in 25 innings this spring. Opponents are hitting a miniscule 0.51 against the North Dakota State University recruit.

"What can you say about Spencer's effort? Two no-hitters in a row. Amazing," offered Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz.

Johnson hooked in a classic pitcher's dual with the Spuds' Paul Roers, who gave up just three hits, struck out eight and walked three.

"It was an amazing battle between the two teams," said Zutz. "Both pitchers threw extremely well."

The game's only run crossed the plate in the top of the eighth when Briar Verbout drew a lead-off walk, advanced to third on back-to-back sacrifice bunts by Jordan Espeseth and Sam Mattison, then scored when Johnson drove a long double through the wind to left field.

Moorhead threatened to extend the extra-inning game in the bottom of the eighth when Jordan Daschadis reached base on a one-out error, then stole second and third.

With the tying run 90 feet away and just one out, the Spuds' John Cahill struck out. However, the pitch was in the dirt and Thief River Falls catcher Dan Nelsan had to go after the ball and make the throw to first base to get the out.

Daschadis broke for home on Nelson's throw, but Johnsan alertly came off the mound to cover the plate on the play and took a return throw from first baseman Cody Conners to make the tag for a win-clinching double-play.

"That was an unreal way to end a game," acknowledged Zutz. "We made big plays. We were mentally sharp throughout the game, doing the little things that kept Moorhead off-balance."

The win improved the Prowlers' record to 10-3 heading into the weekend's Hibbing Invitational. They will close out the regular season schedule with games at Warroad Tuesday and at Detroit Lakes Thursday.

Warroad golfers win title on two courses

Nineteen teams played nine holes at both sites on Wednesday in the Red Lake Falls/Fertile-Beltrami Invitational boys high school golf tournament.

Warroad won the event by a 319-322 margin over second place East Grand Forks. Thief River Falls tied for fourth at 337.

Medalist was Dustin Fanfulik of East Grand Forks, who shot an even-par 72. The Prowlers were led by Marcus Daniels and Zane Gothberg with 83s.

"We played much better in Red Lake Falls than we did in Fertile," reported Thief River Falls coach Dick Tyler. "We had two 39s and two 41s in Red Lake Falls, but had four 44s in Fertile."

Daniels and Gothberg had matching rounds of 39-44. Zach Pederson (43-41–84) and Christopher Forney (39-46–87) rounded out the four scores that counted toward the Prowlers' team total.

"It's disappointing that we have yet to shoot a score in the 70s," noted Tyler. "It seems to be a mental block."

Forney to play for Green Bay team in USHL

Michael Forney is taking his game elsewhere. After two frustrating, injury-plagued seasons with the University of North Dakota hockey team, the Lincoln High School graduate announced that he will play for the Green Bay Gamblers in the United States Hockey League this winter.

Forney was a highly-recruited player with international experience when, as a high school senior in 2006, he signed with UND.

But he separated a shoulder while playing in the Minnesota state high school hockey tournament that year, and a month later fractured a bone in his ankle while skating with the U.S. 18-under team in Sweden.

Screws were placed in his ankle. Early in his first season in Grand Forks he separated his shoulder a second time – an injury that led to off-season surgery.

As a sophomore, those screws in his ankle caused pain that slowed his progress. They were removed recently.

All that added up to very limited playing time at the college level.

When talk began to circulate that he might consider a move, a number of teams from the Tier I Junior ranks contacted Forney, who then became the No. 1 overall pick in Wednesday's 2008 USHL Entry Draft by the Gamblers.

The top pick belonged to Green Bay because of the Gamblers' league-worst record in 2007-08. A trade also gave the Gamblers the No. 2 pick, and they selected anoth-

Begley second baseman Janna Dyrdahl had the ball in her glove and was ready to tag Thief River Falls runner Lacey Stennes on a stolen base attempt in the sixth inning of Tuesday's high school softball game at the Multi-Events Center. Shortstop Melissa Dahl came over to back up the play. Bagley catcher Mackenzie Storhaug threw out four would-be base stealers, but the Flyers fell to the Prowlers 3-1.

Prowlers beat Bagley

A three-run second inning was enough to net Thief River Falls a chilly 3-1 Tuesday high school softball win over visiting Bagley.

The Prowlers gave up a run in the top of the second before their first three batters reached base and scored in the bottom of the inning.

It started with Lacey Stennes beating out an infield hit and stealing second. Katie Rook followed with a single to right field to tie the game at 1-1.

A Jessie Clark bunt was turned into a two-base, run-producing throwing error to put the Prowlers in front.

Clark moved up on a ground-out and scored what would prove to be the game's final run on a single by Meagan Abrohamson.

Bagley's second inning run featured a lead-off single to short right by Kelsey Erickson, ground-out and wild pitch that put the runner at third with one out.

Erickson was caught in a rundown trying to score on an infield grounder off the bat of Mackenzie Storhaug. But an error on the throw to second in an attempt to complete a double play allowed Storhaug to circle the bases.

After that, Thief River Falls pitcher Jenna Hoglo threw five innings of two-hit, shutout softball as the Prowlers ran their record to 11-3.

Stennes and Hailey Peterson had 2-for-3 games to lead the Prowlers' nine-hit attack.

Bagley stayed close thanks in part to Storhaug's arm. The Flyers' catcher threw out four would-be base-stealers with pin-point throws to second.

In a game that included just one walk, play was completed in a quick 67 minutes.

Laura Heschke and Alyssa Peterson of the Prowlers were two of the five members of the conference all-academic team who carried a 3.5 or higher grade-point average.

Rebels rough up TRF for 10-8 baseball win

Red Lake County banged out a dozen hits and became the first team since 2006 to reach double figures in the run department against Thief River Falls Monday when the Rebels pounded out a 10-8 high school baseball win over the Prowlers in the wind and rain at the Multi-Events Center.

Casey Cardinal was 3-for-3 with a double and two home runs to lead the Red Lake Falls/Red Lake County Central sports cooperative, coached by Lincoln High School graduate Chris Nelson.

Cardinal's two-run first inning home run jump-started the Rebels' offense, and the visitors never looked back. They were up 5-0 through three innings, and after watching the Prowlers chop the difference to 5-3 in the fourth, met the challenge with a four-hit fifth that featured Cardinals's second home run of the day.

Thief River Falls did make it interesting when a two-run Nick Gagner double and a run-producing Cody Conners ground-out made it a two-run game in the bottom of the seventh. But with a runner on and two out, Red Lake County Central pitcher Nolan Knott put an end to the comeback with a strike-out.

It was just the third loss in 12 starts for the Prowlers, whose previous setbacks came at the hands of large-school foes West Fargo and Moorhead.

Gagner was 3-for-4 with four RBI to lead the Prowlers' offense. But his streak of three straight complete-game shutout wins on the mound came to an abrupt end.

Thief River Falls catcher Amanda Lara tagged out Kelsey Erickson, then turned her attention to a second Bagley runner at first base during the second inning of Tuesday's high school softball game hosted by the Prowlers. Erickson was caught in a run-down between third base and home plate. Thief River Falls won 3-1.

Weather offers break to golfers at Detroit Lakes

Battered by cold, wet, windy conditions for most of the 2008 season, boys high school golf teams finally got a break from the weatherman Thursday at the Detroit Lakes Invitational.

Detroit Lakes Red won team honors with a 293. Second place Moorhead came in at 306. Thief River Falls was tenth in the 14-field with a 334.

Ryan Kuehne of Detroit Lakes was meet medalist with a 70 on the par-71 Detroit Lakes Country Club.

Pioneers sign three baseball recruits from Rebels' line-up

Three high school baseball players on the 2008 Red Lake County team have signed letters of intent with Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

Casey Cardinal, Nolan Knott and Jeff Weiss signed their two-year intents with Pioneer head coach Steve Gust May 8 in Red Lake Falls.

"All three of them were at the top of our recruiting list as three of the area's best ball players," Gust said. "We're delighted to have them join what we expect to be a very good Northland baseball team next season."

The three helped Red Lake County to a third place finish at the 2007 Minnesota state high school baseball tournament. They also led the Red Lake Falls American Legion team to a third place state finish last summer.

"They have a lot of talent, but just as important, they have a lot of desire," said Gust. "That's something you can't teach."

Cardinal is an all-conference catcher with one of the area's top bats.

"We expect Casey to contribute right away," Gust said. "If he works hard at it, he can be an impact player."

Weiss is a shortstop and right-handed pitcher.

"Jeff is an all-around good athlete. We can never have enough athletes on the team," Gust said. "He gives us some good depth up the middle."

Knott is a hard-throwing right handed pitcher.

"Anytime we can sign a guy who throws in the 80s, it's a good thing," Gust said. "He can throw with the best of them, but he'll have to learn how to pitch better to succeed at this level. He has the potential to be one of our top pitchers."

Sportsman Club will meet

Pennington County Sportsman Club monthly membership meeting will be held Wednesday, May 21, at 7 p.m. at the Eagles Club in Thief River Falls.

Forney will play for Green Bay team

-er college player – Northern Michigan goalie Reid Ellingson.

Players often go the Junior route out of high school before heading to college programs. But it's not unusual, as shown by Forney and Ellingson, for the process to work the other way when things don't go as originally planned.

Despite his lack of ice time, Forney made the grade in the classroom by earning WCHA All-Academic honors, along with another former Prowler, Aaron Bendickson at Wisconsin.

At this point, Forney is simply looking for a chance to play regularly and try to regain the touch that made him a third round NHL draft pick of the Atlanta Thrashers.

He will attend a Thrashers orientation camp this summer before joining Green Bay.

The 12-team United States Hockey League is the only Tier I Junior program in the United States. Unlike Canada's Major Junior system, USHL players retain their college eligibility.

In 2008-09, the USHL East Division will include Green Bay, Indiana Ice, Waterloo Black Hawks, Cedar Rapids Roughrider, Chicago Steel and Des Moines Buccaneers. The West Division features the Omaha Lancers, Sioux Falls Stampede, Sioux City Musketeers, Lincoln Stars, Tri-City Storm and the expansion Fargo Force.

Born out of the old Midwest Junior Hockey League that began operation in 1973, the USHL has undergone a number of changes over the year. Rosters are made up of players ages 16-20.

Green Bay released coach Marc Mazzoleni during the 2007-08 season. Dave Insalaco finished the year as interim coach before Jon Cooper was named coach and general manager May 12. Cooper was Coach of the Year with the St. Louis Bandits of the North American Hockey League last winter.

Forney is hoping a solid year in the USHL, coupled with his two years of experience at the college level, will draw recruiting interest for a return to NCAA Division I hockey in 2009-10.

Rural Reflections

Grant Nelson

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

Mike and Deb's rat terriers take shelter by Mike after Deb delivered a stern lecture about straying from home.

Dog Gone Deb

Today's column was what happened after I received an e-mail and picture from my sister, Deb. First, I have to give you some background to give the story context.

Deb is the oldest of my siblings and has always looked after us. I would describe Deb's matronly ways as part mother hen, part border collie and just a dash of drill sergeant. Debbie likes to know that every member of her family (human or animal) is happy but protected under her benevolent umbrella. If something bad happens to one of us, it also happens to her. She is a person to whom many have looked to, including me, during times of need, and has a very deep well of compassion.

Deb and her husband, Mike, have three rat terrier dogs that are energetic and smart enough to get themselves into trouble from which they cannot extract themselves. When they took off on an adventure that was neither planned nor approved by Deb, Tigger, Miss Scarlett and Woody rediscovered that they are also included under the Debbie umbrella. Their little adventure caused a lot of anxiety for Deb, as she seeks to guarantee that danger stays far from her three little rats. Her pursuit, and the recovery of her pets, was successful - no harm came to them, but the dogs received the pointy end of a heart-to-heart conversation with their human mother.

There's a certain investment Deb makes in those she cares for and she protects that investment with diligence. Although always kind, she also lets you know what her expectations are. I'm sure these expectations were explained in great detail to Tigger, Miss Scarlett and Woody. It was probably delivered in a voice louder than her "indoor voice." So, I'm sure they were as relieved to get back home as was Deb, but for totally different reasons. This is where my part of the narration ends. I'll let Debbie tell you the full story through the e-mail and picture she sent to me a few weeks ago.

"I let the rat terriers out the door after dinner tonight. I ran back in the house for something and found they had headed down the road. I blew the whistle, called, and the only one who'd come back was Tigger, the first one we purchased. I got in Mike's car and drove the one-eighth mile down the road where Miss Scarlett and Woody were investigating the deep ditch. I ordered them in the car. I'd taken Tigger with me, as he had hopped in the car in the yard. I bawled them out on the way home and ordered them into the house. Mike was sitting in his recliner trying to heal from the day and all three terriers jumped in his lap as if to say, 'Dad! Protect us from Mom!' It made me laugh, so I took a few pictures so you could see what three dogs, in trouble, and seeking shelter from 'Dad,' look like."

lesser privaleged children of Mazatlan.

As a service to the Familia Center, the St. Bernard's missionaries painted the sides of the main building and the guard shack. The group also hammered trough brick to create a garden that will be used to grow fresh vegetables.

Rath said there was a translator present for both of the first day's activities, but only rough translation was available at the Familia Center.

"There was a language barrier," Rath said. "We had one girl who spoke rough spanish. Even though there was a language barrier, our kids knew what [the Mexican children] were saying.

Wednesday afternoon, the group visited Ciudad de los Ninos Orphanage, an orphanage that is dedicated to the protection and assistance of children from 4 to 12 years of age. The orphanage is run by eight catholic sisters.

The high school seniors played soccer with 20 of the 30 orphans staying at Ciudad de los Ninos Orphanage. At first, the older missionaries tried to take it easy on the much younger orphans, but by the end of their time playing soccer it was clear that the orphans could fend for themselves.

"You could tell our kids didn't know soccer like [the orphans] did," Rath said. "They kind of schooled us in soccer."

Thursday the group went into "Old Mazatlan" to see a traditional barter system in action.

"You really see how some of these people live," Rath said.

The group also attended at traditional mass in Mazatlan. Rath said the experience was meaningful, despite the natural language barrier.

"We know what mass is like here," Rath said. "There it's the same, just a different language."

Thursday was also the last day for the high school seniors to partake in ocean-front activities like boogie boarding, which is basically surfing in a belly-down position, and parasailing.

Thursday's activities concluded just as the previous days had. The group returned to its hotel around 7:30 p.m., prayed together around 9:30 p.m. and everyone called it a day at 11 p.m.

During their stay, the group ate each meal together. The trip also strengthened the friendship bond that already existed among the 15 high school seniors.

"Every night, all 15 of them would sit by the pool and look at the ocean.

The group of 15 high school seniors and four chaperones left the hotel at 8:30 Friday morning and flew out of Mazatlan at noon. They returned to Thief River Falls early Saturday.

Mission trips, like this year's trip to Mazatlan, can be expensive and are almost impossible without support from the church and fundraising efforts from each participant. To offset the cost of the mission trip, the church held events like bake sales and fish frys, and even door-to-door pizza sales.

For this year's junior class or anyone else that has given thought to volunteering their time to a mission, Walrath has some sound advice.

"Expect the unexpected," Walrath said. "You never know what its going to be like until you go there and see it. If you are even thinking about going on a mission trip I strongly recommend it. You will see and do things that you will probably never experince again."

basketball, football, golf, and track, and was valedictorian of his class.

He is one of those students who make excellence look easy. Zackery is graduating with honors from NCTC with an associates of arts degree with an emphasis in criminal justice. He will be transferring to the University of North Dakota, Grand Forks, N.D., next year to double major in criminal justice and the honors program. Upon graduation from UND, he plans to attend law school.

Zackery Larson

While at NCTC, Zackery has been involved in all areas of student life. He was a member of the Pioneer men's basketball team, a member of the Phi Theta Kappa honor society, and was on the staff of NCTC's student newspaper, The Northern Light.

Zackery was selected to the USA Today All-State Academic Team. He was also active with the "Better World Books" program, which sends recycled books to the underprivileged. He is the son of John and Sharon Larson of Moorhead.

Dianne Kays has been named 2008 Alumni of the Year.

Dianne Kays

Dianne Kays graduated from the McConnell Travel School in Minneapolis before being hired as a travel agent by Bergan Travel in Thief River Falls. It has been the community's good fortune that she decided to remain in Thief River Falls, where she has contributed in so many ways.

Kays graduated from Northland in May 1982, before heading to the University of North Dakota to complete her bachelor's degree in information management in 1985, graduating Magna Cum Laude. Since then, she has actively served in many roles as wife, mother, community advocate and volunteer. She has served on a multitude of organizations and committees and has spearheaded projects such as the playground equipment installation project at Challenger Elementary School. Kays assumed the rule of president of the School District #564 Early Childhood and Family Education Board. As the president of the Thief River Falls Swim Club board of directors for five years, Kays concluded her term with the design, purchase, and installation of the Prowler swimming record board at the Franklin Middle School Pool. Currently, she is helping the Thief River Falls Education Foundation reach its goal of adding two additional tennis courts at Franklin Middle School. Kays has participated in three "Biker Bob" fundraising rides that benefit part-time students at NCTC. Kays actively serves in her church and enjoys sewing and quilting. She is married to Tom Kays and they have two children, Jonathan and Brian.

Earlier this month, NCTC announced that Lisa Scherping had been named 2008 Student of the Year in the nursing program. Scherping was honored at a ceremony on May 5. She is a native of Little Falls and received her associate of science degree in nursing at the college's nursing graduation ceremony on May 15.

Commencement exercises begin at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls, with honor students leading the way. More than 380 students participated in commencement exercises for NCTC Thief River Falls on Thursday, May 17. Additional graduation photos will appear in the next edition of The Times.

deer." Schad added that he appreciates the cooperation of private landowners during this difficult time. "We couldn't have accomplished what we did without the assistance of local citizens and federal sharpshooters. Both deserve our thanks."

Landowners and tenants, and their agents designated in writing, can continue to take deer without a permit in the landowner/tenant area under the provisions of a special emergency rule that took effect March 31. The rule is currently scheduled to expire Aug. 31, but the rule may be modified or ended earlier in the summer based on discussions with local residents and landowners. A final decision will be made in the next several weeks.

The DNR will finalize plans for the fall hunting seasons in this area by July. Specific details on permit area boundaries, special and regular hunts, and other provisions will be announced mid-summer.

DNR efforts to eliminate bovine TB in wild deer are part of a cooperative effort with the Board of Animal Health and Minnesota Department of Agriculture to regain the state's bovine TB-free status. To find out more about the state's response to this issue, go to www.bah.state.mn.us/tb/index.html

Bike and skate park hours are announced

"Lena" entertained area residents and served up some lefse at the Thief River Falls Capital for a Day Recognition Dinner, which took place in the Imperial room of the Ralph Engelstad Arena on May 13. One theme for this event celebrated the community's Norwegian heritage.

suggested a more interactive approach - bringing community leaders to the classroom for conversations with youth - to involve students in the future of the community.

Dahl plans to attend Mealester College in Minnesota. Lee plans to attend Bethel University, and Worker plans to attend Boston Architectural College.

Students from area schools were included in a community conversation on Capital for a Day that focused on the future of the community.

During his visit, Governor Pawlenty talked to citizens, signed autographs and posed for pictures with children. He also attended the 2008 Thief River Falls Chamber of Commerce Small Business Awards of Excellence Breakfast, which recognized some of the community's leading and innovative business leaders.

Recipient of the Business of the Year Award was Oil Boyz, and Joseph Haj was named Entrepreneur of the Year.

Enterprising businesses and civic organizations were an important part of the day's events.

Throughout the day, 20 local businesses, clubs and organizations exhibited displays on the concourse of the Ralph Engelstad Arena.

Over 500 people attended the community picnic at noon. The event was held inside the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center because of inclement weather.

Recognition

One of the highlights of Capital for a Day was the recognition dinner held that evening in the Imperial room of the Ralph Engelstad Arena. During the evening, guests heard a presentation on the history of the community and innovation of residents living in Thief River Falls, and were entertained by Art Lee, a retired Bemidji State University history professor. Lee focused on being Norwegian in Minnesota. Cay Shea Hellervik, commission chair of the Minnesota Sesquicentennial Commission, encouraged citizens to participate in the state's Sesquicentennial (150th anniversary) activities. Hellervik talked about Orlin Ostby's planned Sesquicentennial Stroll, which recreates Delmar Hagen's 1958 trek by ox car down the Pembina Trail to St. Paul - a journey of over 400 miles. Ostby plans to begin on July 1, 2008 and arrive in the Twin Cities on the first day of the State Fair.

But the main purpose of the evening was to recognize Bob Carlson. Carlson has served 34 years on the city council as a council representative and mayor, and 18 years on the county board as a commissioner.

Don Stewart, Skip Swanson and Thief River Falls Mayor Steve Nordhagen roasted and praised Carlson for his dedication to the community. Swanson noted that Carlson never met a microphone that he didn't like.

Stewart said what he admired most about Carlson is that he puts the best interest of his constituents and taxpayers above all else.

"The only conclusion I could reach is that Bob love's government," said Skip Swanson, Pennington County Commissioner. He added that the community is fortunate to have such a committed individual working for county government.

Nordhagen, who noted that because Carlson had served for such a long time, Carlson was the only mayor he ever knew while growing up. The one important bit of advice that "Mayor Bob" shared with him that he has tried to follow and is more appreciative than ever now that he is mayor, is his advice to try to attend every function he's asked to attend.

For a moment, it looked as if Carlson was at a loss for words. He thanked everyone who has supported him over the years and nominated him for this award. He said he has been blessed to live and work with so many good, loyal and dedicated people.

During his terms in office, Carlson said he has tired to live by four goals: never knowingly lie to a constituent, be supportive of an open government, be yourself, and work hard. Over his many years in office, he said these goals have served him and the community well.

He concluded his comments by saying he appreciated this award and thanked everyone from the bottom of his heart.

Renee Henney, USPS postmaster in Thief River Falls, and Thief River Falls Mayor Steve Nordhagen, unveiled the cancellation stamp that was being used during Capital for a Day in Thief River Falls on May 13. The unveiling took place during the opening ceremonies at the Ralph Engelstad Arena Tuesday morning.

Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty unveiled the state stamp issued during the state's sesquicentennial (150th anniversary) during the Capital for a Day celebration in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, May 13. Thief River Falls was one of five cities in the state honored to host a Capital for a Day event.

Four teachers to retire from Red Lake Falls

Red Lake Falls - "Teachers have a way of making a lasting impression on their students, their schools and their communities. At the end of this school year, the Red Lake Falls School District will lose four such teachers to retirement.

"Linda Mickelson, Kay Fischer and Lorna Schlichtmann from J.A. Hughes Elementary School, and Steve Philion from Lafayette High School will say farewell to the schools they have spent a combined 158 years teaching." Mickelson will retire after 45 years. Fosston School Board acts on vacancy Fosston - "The Fosston School Board voted unanimously May 15 to not fill the open board seat until the November elections. Former member Dave Hubbard's resignation was officially approved at a special meeting March 3. He has been working as an interim hospital administrator in Montana for several months.

"Originally, the school board decided to fill the vacant seat with an interim member until the next election. The Minnesota School Board Association recommends that such openings be filled within 90 days. It was decided at its regular meeting March 13 to open the position to the public. Three people responded. They were former school board chairperson Larry Roed, Jerry Slough and Richard Balstad. A decision was to be made at the April meeting.

Family ties between some of the candidates was discussed.

It was established, at that time by Superintendent Dan Salberg, that such connections are not illegal or inappropriate as long as the member with family ties abstains from voting on those issues directly affecting those they are related to.

It was proposed that the candidates make presentations to the board. One candidate withdrew his candidacy. - The 13 Towns of Fosston, May 20, 2008, by Dan Kindall

Odor problems at Excel Dairy again

Warren - "A delegation of residents living in the vicinity of Excel Dairy, north of Thief River Falls, complained that odor problems with the dairy operation are not getting better and asked for action from the Marshall County Board of Commissioners at the board's meeting Tuesday."

"Earlier at the meeting, commissioners heard an update from County Attorney Michael Williams and Sheriff John Novacek regarding their findings on the odor issue with the dairy. The board asked Williams to determine what authority the board has to try to bring about an improvement in the odor situation in the area of the dairy operation." - Warren Sheaf, May 21, 2008

Seventy-seven flags and crosses have been added to Greenwood Cemetery. The crosses and flags represent the number of soldiers from the area who have died for their country since the Civil War. The crosses and flags are also reminders of the Memorial Day service, which in Thief River Falls, takes place at 10:30 a.m. on Monday, May 26, at Greenwood Cemetery. All citizens are encouraged to attend the event. Earl Gibson, Charlie Meyers and Orville Ellingson put up the crosses and flags, but received assistance from Norm Blackstad, Howard Nelson and Don Olson. These flags and crosses aren't the only decorations in the cemetery. As citizens prepare the cemetery for Memorial Day and spruce up graves, officials remind everyone that at Greenwood Cemetery, all artificial flowers must be taken down by June 10.

Orchestras plan concert

High School and Middle School concerts on May 27

The Franklin Middle School and Lincoln High School orchestras will perform their last concert of the school year at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, May 27, in the high school auditorium. This will also be the final concert for 14 senior students in the orchestra: Andrew Helgeland, Eric Swanson, Alicia Rader, Amanda Rader, Dylan Johnson, Calli Adamson, Mallory Asp, Jamie Hunt, Amanda Hamre, Kristen Stenvik, Trient Bastian, Krystle Cullen, Elissa Northup and Hannah Kainz. Admission is $5 for adults and $3 for students and seniors.

The Franklin Middle School Sixth Grade Orchestra will start out the concert performing "Tangents for Strings," a song made up of ostinatos played by each section, 'intersecting' like tangents. The orchestra will also perform "Wipeout," the famous song by the Surfaris. Demonstrating what students in the orchestra have learned, they will perform "Fugue in C," "Springtime," "Tchaikovsky Festival," and "Brandenburg No. 3" from the textbook. Students will then join the Franklin Middle School Seventh Grade Orchestra for a performance of "Bin Rhythms" by Richard Meyer. "Bin Rhythms" uses rhythms created from the body: clapping, stomping, rubbing, hissing and popping, as well as the sound of pizzicato strings.

The Franklin Middle School Seventh and Eighth Grade Orchestra will then play "Soul Bossa Nova," the theme from the Austin Powers movies. "The Best of Queen" features three famous Queen songs - "We Will Rock You," "Another One Bites The Dust," and "We Are The Champions." They will also perform a medley of songs from the wildly popular Disney movie "High School Musical," including "Start of Something New," and "We're All In This Together." They will then play a minimalist song called "Helium." The music gives the impression of floating through the air like a balloon. The orchestra will end its portion of the concert with the music from the movie "Pirates of the Caribbean."

The Lincoln High School Orchestra will perform Vivaldi's "Spring" from the "Four Seasons." Andrew Helgeland will perform the violin solo. "Spring" is perhaps the most famous of Vivaldi's "Four Seasons," which are traditionally the best selling classical instrumental albums in the United States. They will also perform "Smoke on the Water," the famous 70s rock tune featuring Eric Swanson on

Will high fuel costs hurt MN tourism?

by David Hill
Editor

Tourism in Minnesota has become a $10 billion industry. It generates $1 billion in state and local taxes and supports over 240,000 jobs. It's importance to Minnesota is second only to the agriculture industry.

John Edman, director of Explore Minnesota tourism, Minnesota's department of tourism, became a tourist of sorts last week as he traveled with governor during Capital for a Day in Thief River Falls on May 13. Looking at what Thief River Falls has to offer, Edman said he couldn't help but wonder what it would be like to climb into a canoe and explore the area's rivers and scenic wonders.

Like Edman, area residents and business leaders can't help but wonder what's around the next bend. Tourism has been a major part of the state and regional economy, but in the wake of high energy prices, will it remain as important?

Edman said he expects tourism to remain a vital part of the state and local economy. He said that in talking with industry leaders, it is their belief that people may not go as far, but will instead, opt to discover what's in their own back yard.

When you look at all the expenses of a trip, however, Edman said most people will discover that fuel prices are only a small part of the total overall cost. Nevertheless, fuel prices are something that has everyone talking.

A weaker dollar also benefits tourism. Edman said the number of foreign travelers to Minnesota is expected to increase. Canadians, especially, will probably travel to Minnesota to take advantage of the beneficial exchange rate and shopping. Edman said he expects to see an increase from other markets, as well. Outside of Canada, he expects to see more travelers from the United Kingdom, Germany, Japan and Scandinavia.

New dollars coming into a community - dollars not generated in sales to local residents - is generally better for the state, so the foreign market is important. Nonresidents also tend to stay longer and spend more.

A large percentage of the state's efforts to attract tourists is directed outside of Minnesota. Edman said roughly 65 percent of their marketing effort is directed at nonresidents. A total of 35 percent is directed at residents.

The community of Thief River Falls has been positioning itself to take advantage of the anticipated increase in Canadian tourists. Dave Bergman, local representative for

TRF City Council approves LEC lease with county

Council to continue discussions about splitting costs of dispatch

by April Schelnoha
Reporter

The Thief River Falls City Council has unanimously approved paying $14.25 per square foot, or $75,981 per year, for leased space at the Pennington County Law Enforcement Center. However, on a vote of 7 to 1, the council approved continuing discussions with Pennington County about equally splitting the cost of salaries and benefits for dispatch personnel. Those matters were discussed at the council's meeting Tuesday.

Those matters have led to several discussions and changes to the proposal. Pennington County Sheriff Mike Hruby's initial proposal was $17.50 per square foot. He later proposed $16.50 per square foot. Those offers were too high for the city's budget. City Administrator Jodie Torkelson and County Auditor Ken Olson have held several meetings, resulting in a verbal agreement of $14.25 per square foot. The council approved the lease of space at the LEC. In letters between both sides, that amount is listed as being for space at the LEC and operating costs for the LEC.

The current LEC agreement was considered temporary when it was signed in 1975. Since fall 2007, the city and the county have discussed the creation of a new operating agreement for the LEC. That matter coincided with a dispute about the city's share of costs for the LEC's radio system. The radio system issue has since been resolved.

Even though the council approved the lease Tuesday, it hasn't officially voted on paying for a portion of dispatchers' salaries and benefits. By a vote of 7 to 1, the council approved pulling the 50/50 cost-share agreement out of the original agreement that also contained the $14.25 per-square-foot lease. Council member Elvera Cullen voted in opposition to that motion. She didn't publicly state why she chose to vote that way.

The cost-share agreement was also included in letters between Torkelson and Hruby, and in the discussions between Torkelson and Olson. Under Hruby's proposal, the city would pay 50 percent of the costs associated with the dispatchers' salaries and benefits.

In an April 21 letter, Torkelson wrote, " ... the city's position on dispatch continues to be that if the

Today's recipes might make your holiday weekend easier and very tasty too.

CHICKEN AND WILD RICE WITH ASPARAGUS

1 cup uncooked wild rice, rinsed
2 cups chicken broth
1 (4 ounce) can mushrooms with liquid
2 tablespoons butter
6 boneless chicken breast halves with skin
1/2 package onion soup mix
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 1/2 pounds fresh asparagus, trimmed
1/4 cup melted butter
Paprika, if desired

Spread rice in 8x11 glass baking pan. Add chicken broth and mushrooms and dot with the 2 tablespoons of butter.

Place chicken breasts in the center of the dish, skin side up, and sprinkle with the dry soup mix. Spoon the undiluted mushroom soup over the chicken layer. Bake, uncovered, at 350 degrees, for 1 hour.

To clean asparagus, break off woody bottoms and trim little triangles if they seem woody. Wash. Arrange asparagus around outer edges of baking dish and brush with the melted butter. Sprinkle entire dish with paprika and bake 15-20 minutes more, until asparagus is tender. Recipe serves 6.

Make a double batch of this tasty and light treat and you can have it for snacking too. Use different flavors of gelatin for fun. Note the nutritional info on this recipe too:

FLUFFY PINK SALAD

1 small package sugar-free cherry gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 can (20 ounces) unsweetened crushed pineapple
1 1/2 cups hot cooked rice
1 cup light frozen whipped topping, thawed

In bowl, dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Drain pineapple and set pineapple aside. Add juice to gelatin and stir in rice. Chill until mixture begins to thicken.

Fold in whipped topping and pineapple and chill well. Recipe makes 10 servings.

Nutritional Info: one serving (1/2 cup) equals 79 calories, 19 mg sodium, 0 chol, 16 gm carb, 1 gm protein, 1 gm fat. Diabetic Exchange is 1/2 starch and 1/2 fruit.

Have some of these tasty muffins for breakfast this Sunday morning. They'll light up your day:

BLUEBERRY STREUSEL MUFFINS

1/3 cup sugar
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 egg, beaten
2 1/3 cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 cups fresh or frozen blueberries

Streusel

1/2 cup sugar
1/3 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 cup butter or margarine

In mixing bowl, cream sugar and butter. Add eggs and mix well.

Combine flour, baking powder and salt. Add to the creamed mixture alternately with the milk. Stir in vanilla. Fold in blueberries. Fill greased or paper-lined muffin cups 2/3 full.

In small bowl, make streusel topping by combining sugar, flour and cinnamon and then cutting in butter until crumbly. Sprinkle over muffins. Bake at 375 degrees for 25-30 minutes or until browned. Recipe makes 12 muffins. (Remember, if your muffin tins are small, you may find the recipe makes more than 12, so adjust your cooking time accordingly. We don't want them to overbake - we want tender, moist, yummy muffins.)

And speaking of breakfast, try this one on the kids this weekend. Serve it with some fresh fruit and it's a good start to the day. I bet they'd be good with some hard cooked eggs served on the side:

EASY AS PIGS IN A BLANKET

1 (8 ounce) tube crescent rolls
1 (12 ounce) package smoked link sausages, precooked

Separate rolls into 8 triangles. Place a sausage on the wide end of each triangle and then roll up. Place, tip down, on lightly greased baking sheet. Bake at 400 degrees for 10-15 minutes until golden.

Roseau County Museum participating in National Women's History Month in '09

Each year since 1987, March has been designated as National Women's History Month to ensure that the history of American women will be recognized and celebrated in schools, workplaces, and communities throughout the country.

The Roseau County Museum is participating in Women's History Month in March 2009. The first celebration of Roseau County women will include One Woman 2009, Women in Education, and Women in Military. The 2009 Roseau County Women's History Month Committee members are Linda Vatnsdal, Leeann Johnson, Loralee Marvin, Carolyn Eeg, Dawn Johnson, and Carole Wilson.

Women's History Month will be celebrated annually in the coming years, with special categories of women emphasized each year. The displays that will be created for 2009 will be updated and displayed again in subsequent years.

The One Woman 2009 category will recognize one woman from each township/city who has made a difference in the life of their community. Each township board and city council has been asked to submit the name of one woman. The woman can be from the past or present, living or deceased, current or former resident. Information about each woman will be included in a display at the county museum during the month of March 2009. The boards/councils will be asked to submit another name in subsequent years.

The Women in Education category will highlight a few of the many wonderful things that women have done in schools from the time schools were first begun in pioneer homes and churches up until present-day. It will show all facets of education, including teachers, paraprofessionals, cooks, custodians, bus drivers, administrators, secretaries, School Board.

The Women in Military category will highlight the service of women in the military from the earliest years to the present.

Are you interested in helping the committees for this project? Names of women need to be collected, research needs to be done, and displays, videos and maps need to be created. Volunteers are needed. Contact the Roseau County Museum or one of the Roseau County Women's History Month Committee members. Rural Reflections

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

Dear Dave,

This week's letter is more than just a tool for communication, it is a test of my character. I am writing this letter under great pressure, as I simultaneously water the lawn, try to keep our cat, Magoo, from walking on the keyboard, plus deal anxiously with the specter that Lisa will soon be home and I've yet to even consider what to make for supper. I guess it's really not as dramatic a situation as first I thought.

Farming is in full swing, here and last week this fact caused me to consider an idea. The writer Kurt Vonnegut once said, "I can think of no more stirring symbol of man's humanity to man than a fire engine," which is certainly true. I wonder, though, if the hopper-bottom bin has ever been considered for that lofty symbol. When you consider what rugged work it is to clean out a bin, then how nice it is to instead stand outside of a hopper bin and let gravity do the work, it's seems like an awfully humane invention. I see a lot of them filled with seed this time of year, and it just got me thinking.

I'm sure you'd appreciate it if my deep thoughts abruptly ended after that last sentence, but I also thought about cats recently and how differently they regard their own tails as opposed to the human perspective. I for one, can never pet a cat without reverently running my hand the full length of its tail. I also watch their tail for signs of mood and temper, which for me, makes the tail an important part of any feline. I've observed our cats and found that they seem more detached from the end of their spine. When exiting through a door, I've noticed they will sometimes leave their tail dangerously perched between door and frame, and when they finally do bring their tail to safety, they seem to regard it an a most impatient way. It seems a cavalier and distant way in which to care about something so closely attached, but that can be the way of a cat.

Well, enough dime store philosophy. Thank goodness I didn't waste my time learning that stuff in college, as apparently I was born with all I need. The last we spoke, you were busy at the Case/IH dealership in Carrington, N.D., and I know that is a steady-state situation, so I won't bother to ask if anything has changed. I am constantly seeking to live my life as though today were 1973. Tomorrow, I will continue that course. I plan to look at another Hesston haystack maker for use around the farm. I borrowed one a few years ago from a neighbor, but decided then that it was easier to hire it done. I have since reconsidered, but suspect the real reason for this change of heart is that I just crave this 1970's era technology. It seems things were more simply made with extra steel, instead of extra technology, during that era. I now have 70's era snowmobiles, farm equipment from that time and a taste for that period's groovy music. As a bonus, my wife and I have a manufacture date from a time prior to the 70s, so she and I are both a little retro. All I need is that '73 Plymouth Fury and muttonchop sideburns and I will be set.

I guess this letter got to be pretty much about me, didn't it. I'll try to do better next month.

Your little bro'

State grant supports training for area workers

Project will also promote manufacturing careers to high school students

- A $352,993 Department of Employment and Economic Development Minnesota Job Skills Partnership (MJSP) grant will enable the development of Manufacturing First, a customized program that will train hundreds of current northwestern Minnesota manufacturing employees and high school students. Marvin Windows and Doors, Polaris Industries, BayPharma, Pine Technical College, and the MJSP will lead the three-year training collaboration.

Pine Technical College, located in Pine City, will work with the businesses to develop the Manufacturing First program, which will focus on four areas: manufacturing industry; company specific; manufacturing core skills; and work-based learning, including job shadowing and internships. Four hundred trainees, including current company employees and 30 high school students will receive training. Trainees who complete the program successfully will earn certificates of completion.

"We believe stronger partnerships and better alignment of resources between education and manufacturing businesses will strengthen the industry in the long term," said DEED Commissioner and MJSP Board Chair Dan McElroy. "In addition, new and current employees will benefit by learning core skills needed to be successful."

The MJSP offers technical, financial and job training assistance to businesses, communities, educational institutions and workers. The board brings businesses with specific education needs together with educational institutions to design customized training programs.

For more information on the grant, contact Rodger Coauette, Executive Director, Northwest Private Industy Council, 218-281-6020 or email rodger.coauette@state.mn.us

Open house planned at Old Mill State Park June 1

Minnesota State Parks' Sesquicentennial celebrations will begin by holding an Open House at the Old Mill State Park on June 1. The Newfolden Lions Club will be serving free coffee, lemonade and cookies from 1-5 p.m. in the shelter building at the park. They will also be selling hot dogs, chips, root beer floats and homemade doughnuts. Come and take part in these activities. Free entrance to the park will be provided. Permits will be on sale for the remainder of the year. The Old Mill State Park is 11 miles west of Newfolden and 13 miles east of Argyle.

Prevented plant acres require early FSA report

Area producers and farm operators who have been affected by disaster conditions this spring, and who plan on requesting prevented planting credit at their Farm Service Agency offices, are reminded that earlier deadlines apply for these reports.

Form CCC-576 is required to be filed with FSA, by crop, within 15 days of the final Federal Crop Insurance Corporation planting date. Some common final planting dates for northwest Minnesota include: Corn – May 25 for Marshall and Pennington counties and counties south (May 31 for Beltrami County and northern counties), Small Grains (wheat, barley and oats) – June 5, and soybeans and sunflowers – June 10. Farmers may check with their crop insurance agent for more details on final planting dates if in doubt. The annual crop reporting deadline for producers, farm operators, and Conservation Reserve Program participants who do not have prevented planting acreage remains July 15. County FSA offices may be contacted for more information or to set up an appointment.

Producers seeking prevented planting credit will need to file their requests prior to the deadline to be eligible for consideration. In their applications, producers must establish to the satisfaction of the County FSA Committee that: 1.) all cropland feasible to plant but prevented from being planted was affected by a natural disaster rather than a management decision (Note: The unavailability of equipment, seed or fertilizer, even if this unavailability is because of or related to the natural disaster, is not an eligible cause of prevented planting.); 2.) Preliminary efforts made by the producer to plant the crop are evident, such as field tillage, orders for purchase, delivery of seed and fertilizer, and financing documents. Of primary importance will be the description of the disaster that prevented planting of the intended crop.

The County FSA Committee will review prevent plant applications, crop insurance information, FSA field visit documentation and known weather conditions prior to approval or denial of the requests. If the committee knows that an area was affected by a natural disaster, the acreage may be approved without a field visit, as long as the request was timely filed in accordance with the above deadlines. Applicants for FSA prevent plant credit can expect to be notified in writing of the county committee determinations once they have been processed.

Producers who have planted crops that subsequently fail due to a natural disaster, and wish to receive credit for the failed acreage should contact their FSA office prior to destroying the crop. Once again, supporting documentation will be required at the time of application.

Farmers who have questions about the prevented planting, failed acreage, or general 2008 crop reporting and certification process should contact their county FSA office.

Feelin' Fit 'n' Fine program to begin

Quin Community Health Services and local public health departments in Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Red Lake and Roseau counties will again sponsor a Feelin' Fit 'n' Fine contest for children 3 years old to sixth grade. This contest is a way of promoting healthy eating habits, physical activity and healthy behaviors. This contest will take place June 9 to Aug. 1.

Children will receive scorecards with 16 squares and a list of qualifying activities. Each time the child completes an activity, parents or another adult initial a square and specify the activity. Once the scorecard is filled, students bring their scorecards into one of the pickup locations and receive a prize. In addition, scorecards will be entered into a weekly drawing. Students are encouraged to complete as many scorecards as they like during the eight-week program. At the end of eight weeks, a grand prize will be awarded in each county.

Qualifying activities include sports, bike riding, skateboarding, dancing, attending summer camps or school, watching no television for a day, wearing a bike helmet, wearing a seat belt, cutting out pop, gardening, eating five to 10 servings of fruits and vegetables, games and reading. Participants are encouraged to be creative and think of other healthy behaviors and activities to do.

Detailed contest information will be distributed to students in area schools prior to the end of the school year. Quin CHS strongly encourages new participants to give the program a try. Former participants will be excited to learn that enhanced prizes are being offered this year. There will also be an improved prize selection for fourth through sixth grade students.

For more information about Feelin' Fit 'n' Fine or prize locations, contact Quin CHS at (218) 874-7845.

Four students score high in financial literacy challenge

Four Lafayette High School students, Kristin Chaput, Tom Healy, Alyssa Thibert and Alex Thibert, scored in the top 25th percentile of the students nationwide in the U.S. Treasury Department's inaugural National Financial Literacy Challenge. They received certificates of recognition. Paula Miller's Family and Consumer Science classes took the challenge.

This challenge was a new initiative recommended by the President's Advisory Council on Financial Literacy. HOSPICE TO LAUNCH MEMORIAL DAY APPEAL

First Care Medical Services Hospice will launch the first of two annual fundraising appeals over Memorial Day. Hospice provides care and support to terminally ill patients and their family members. Patients that have received a prognosis of 6 months or less to live as certified by a physician and that choose comfort care rather than curative are eligible for Hospice. Most hospice patients are cared for in their own home, but hospice provides care in nursing homes as well. Care includes visits from nurses, aides, social workers, spiritual care providers and volunteers. Additionally, hospice provides on-call nurses 24/7 and covers all medications, equipment and supplies related to the terminal illness. First Care has office locations in Fosston, Fertile and Thief River Falls, providing both hospice and home health in the surrounding communities. During their last fiscal year, an average of 16 patients were on hospice each day, with length of stay in the program averaging 2.5 months.

Why Does Hospice Fundraise? The Hospice's cost of care is 10-20% more than Medicare reimbursement, according to the National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization. The experience of First Care Hospice is consistent with the national experience and there are several reasons for this. Hospice is reimbursed on a flat daily rate, regardless of the patient's medical condition or needs. However, patient and family needs vary greatly. Some patients may need a nurse or aide visit daily, others less often. Medication needs also vary greatly, but typically increase dramatically as the patient declines.

Hospice fundraising dollars are also used for grief care and to support the hospice volunteer program. Grief care is required by Medicare regulations for the hospice patient's family members for 13 months after the death. However, no reimbursement is provided during this time period. Over 200 people receive grief care each month, which includes one-on-one support, group meetings, mailings of information on coping with loss, volunteer visits, and cards acknowledging difficult days such as the deceased person's birthday or wedding anniversary. Hospice volunteers are an important part of the hospice patient care team. Last year, hospice volunteers provided over 800 hours in direct patient care, along with 500 hours in fundraising and office support. If you would like to know more about hospice care, contact First Care by calling (866) 514-1142.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Remember to value their sacrifices today and tomorrow

It's a busy time of year. It's the end of the school year and many of us have graduation ceremonies to attend, and homes to prepare for guests. After a long-delayed wait, we're finally able to get into gardens, mow lawns, go for walks, play tennis, baseball, softball and golf. I'm like many area residents who have so many activities and events taking place that without my calendar and lists, I'd be lost. I find that this time of year, I often have to schedule time for rest and reflection.

Memorial Day is a day of remembrance for those who died serving our country. At one time, Memorial Day was known as Decoration Day. In the past, communities used to celebrate Memorial Day and Decoration Day with parades, somber and respectful services, and decorating graves of soldiers and loved ones. Many still do these things, but the activities of the present seem to pale in comparison to those of the past. Many believe that's happened because there are too many distractions.

There are some in our country who would like to end the distractions of a three-day weekend and establish May 30 as the official day for Memorial Day - no more three-day holidays to distract us from the original meaning and spirit of Memorial Day. To these people, Memorial Day is much more than a three-day weekend.

Especially since 9-11, patriotism has been stirred within the breast of many citizens within this country. Wars in foreign countries have led to the inevitable death of soldiers, and this too has touched the lives of many, even residents of northwestern Minnesota.

In northwestern Minnesota, forgetting soldiers who made the ultimate sacrifice for their country, won't happen. This is too important and sensitive to too many of us.

A few years prior to 9-11, however, Memorial Day services would attract only a handful of citizens. Attendance at area services has now swelled. Although we enjoy the new patriotism, we shouldn't forget how easy it is to think about other things - that are perhaps less important as a matter of national significance. There is no danger of ever forgetting, but let's not let the sacrifices of our soldiers be put in a position of being taken for granted. Let us remember those who made the ultimate sacrifice, and value of our freedom today and tomorrow.

Remember to show respect to the flag

To the Editor,

Let the record show that I love a good controversy. It sparks discussion and can effect change and understanding. One such controversy blazed from the pages of The Times on Wednesday, May 21, and set tongues a-wagging as such controversies so often do in close-knit small towns. It seems that a gentleman dared to take umbrage at the way the Lincoln High School choirs and visiting artists sang the Star Spangled Banner at the spring concert. The loose soulful rendition set to gospel-type music vaguely resembled the original, and clearly offended Mr. Strong.

Easy now folks. There's no need for a lynching today. Mr. Strong certainly was NOT denigrating the high school choir, the artists or the talented choir director Darcy Reese. Let's face it, they can sing the phone book and sound great! Rather, I believe he rankled at the prospect of a time-honored national anthem being musically interpreted in an untraditional manner that brought about untraditional behavior. Many felt that the arrangement was wonderful and heartfelt, but admitted that it did not elicit the traditional response of saluting the flag. I feel that his remarks helped point out that we as Americans no longer uphold many patriotic traditions.

Saluting the flag is a behavior almost gone with the wind. It's reminiscent of a bygone era when God and country were revered and celebrated. I also noticed during the song that not many were saluting the flag, taking off their caps, or putting their hand over their hearts. I suppose many consider standing "good enough."

I wonder if these traditions that we used to hold dear are even taught to the newer generations. We can't just rely on schools to teach these things to the children. Political nit-picking seems to determine whether or not students can even say the pledge of allegiance in schools these days!

So, we have to teach American traditions from the home as well. For instance, how many folks know or have taught their children that Memorial Day is more than an extra day at the lake? Have we taught them that it's a sacred day to remember the servicemen who have died for this country and the freedoms that we now enjoy? How many remember or have passed on the tradition to their children that when veterans pass by in a parade, we should proudly stand to honor them for their service?

These questions seem to echo the frustration heard in Mr. Strong's letter. So, whether Mr. Strong likes or dislikes a particular rendition of the national anthem, is his right. Likewise, musicians have similar freedoms to express their creativity. We all have differences. Robert Robinson's heartfelt message that "we're a land of diversity, striving for unity" is true.

The zeal of the choir was something to behold, but maybe in it's vast interpretation of the anthem, we lost its simple truth - the truth that whether we're black or white, red state or blue state, whether we go green or not, we're all (hopefully) Americans united under the flag. Salute!

Sincerely,
Shelby Sorvig

Join the Roseau Relay For Life

To the Editor,

The American Cancer Society has been a very active organization in Roseau County for many years, with a dedicated group of volunteers.

Plans are under way for the American Cancer Society's signature event, Relay For Life, in August, which is a life-changing event that brings together more than 3.5 million people every year to ...

Celebrate the lives of those who have battled cancer. The strength of survivors inspires others to continue to fight.

Remember loved ones lost to the disease. At Relay For Life, people who have walked alongside those battling cancer can grieve and find healing.

Fight Back. We participate in the Relay For Life because we have been touched by cancer and desperately want to put an end to the disease. Make a commitment to save lives by taking up the fight.

Now is the time for individuals, corporations and small businesses to commit their team participation. The Relay For Life can be the site of a company picnic or family gathering while supporting a great cause. The Roseau County Relay For Life will be held on Aug. 8, 2008 at the Roseau City Park.

You can help in the fight against cancer by participating in the American Cancer Society Relay For Life. For team information, call Kaydell at 463-2568 or 463-2411. It is not too late to get a team going for the Relay For Life.

Put up American flags with Canadian

To the Editor:

Is this America or Canada? With all due respect to our friendly neighbors to the north, I am very puzzled and disturbed that our city found it necessary to fly the Canadian flag and did not fly the American flag with it this past weekend. I understand it was a Canadian holiday last weekend, and we want to make visiting Canadians feel welcome in our community, but I don't think it is very respectful to the great U.S. of A. for a community to fly flags of another country without our own flag flying next to it.

Which flags will be flying over our great city during Memorial Day weekend? I'm willing to bet the maple leaf will be next to the Stars and Stripes.

Let's have respect for our country, our founding fathers, and our brave soldiers who have made such great sacrifices for America and the American flag.

Will high fuel costs hurt tourism in Minnesota?

Explore Minnesota, said the community launched a Welcome Canadians Program and conducted a customer service workshop dedicated to helping merchants take advantage of the increased traffic.

Edman said the sesquicentennial events also can't help but help improve tourism to the state on many different levels. All of the activities and publicity is bound to attract more visitors, he said. He also noted that anyone interested in finding out more about the events should log onto the Explore Minnesota Web site for updates.

Thief River Falls benefited from all the publicity surrounding the Capital for a Day event that was just held in the community. Because of that event, individuals may share their thoughts about the many other attractions the community has to offer - particularly its rivers, and its sports facilities.

The state is helping communities in Minnesota market their attractions, too. Edman said the state has a grant program to help communities promote themselves. It also has a new program. The new program puts dollars into a pool for use by communities that come up with new and innovative ways to promote their communities - in a way, said Edman, by thinking outside the box.

"It's amazing what people come up with," said Erdman who was talking about a new innovative feature on the Explore Minnesota Web site. The "Favorite things" element on the Web site allows visitors to download many different ideas. Some of those ideas, said Edman, have been picked up by other Web sites, even national news.

John Edman (left), director of Explore Minnesota Tourism, and Dave Bergman, local representative for Explore Minnesota, participated in the Capital for a Day celebration in Thief River Falls and reminded people about the importance of tourism to the state and community.

The way Minnesota has been marketed has changed over the years, said Edman. At one time, the goal was to market broadly - the land of 10,000 lakes, for example. Today, the effort is directed at things that are unique in Minnesota.

Edman said they measure and re-measure whether their efforts are working. More research has been done on what works than ever before. "We're constantly trying to re-evaluate our efforts," said Edman.

Edman and Bergman noted that Visiting Thief River Falls and demonstrating the value of tourism through the community's Capital for a Day celebration was appropriate for another reason - it was National Tourism Week.

In 2007, Edman said, the state experienced several disasters - the fire on the Gunflint trail, the I-35 bridge collapse, and flooding in southern Minnesota. The reaction of the media and of officials at the time, could have been directed at many things, but one of their chief concerns was whether those disasters would have an impact on tourism. "You don't know what you have until it's gone," he said.

That discovery can only lead to one conclusion - tourism is important.

Prowlers win fifth straight 8A crown...

Tennis team title TRF possession

The Prowlers, after a 6-1 semifinal win over East Grand Forks earlier in the day, got by host Crookston 4-3 in the state tournament-qualifying championship match Wednesday afternoon.

Thief River Falls will face Section 7A champion Marshall School of Duluth in a 10 a.m. Class A state tournament quarterfinal match Tuesday, June 3, at the Reed-Sweatt Family Tennis Center in Minneapolis.

The other half of the Prowlers' state tournament bracket will feature Rochester Lourdes from Section 1A vs. Foley out of Section 6A.

Crookston, Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks were seeded 1-2-3 in the seven-team Section 8A field.

Jacob Engelstad, Connor Hutton and Beezer Skime provided the Prowlers with wins at 1, 2 and 3 singles, respectively, in their title showdown with the Pirates, then a team of Brian Kays-Chase Haviland sealed the deal with a victory at No. 1 doubles.

It was the sixth consecutive Section 8A final for the Prowlers, who have now beaten Crookston in four straight title matches – the last three under head coach Corey Thorson.

Thief River Falls' semifinal win over East Grand Forks featured a singles sweep by Engelstad, Haviland, Hutton and Skime, along with doubles points from Kays-Cody Reese and Grant Spears-Stephen Bates.

Detroit Lakes, Roseau, Perham, Crookston, East Grand Forks and Hawley/Ulen-Hitterdal were the team qualifiers. Thief River Falls was seventh, just two shots behind the sixth place Nuggets.

"We came close," said Thief River Falls coach Dick Tyler.

Final home game is one-sided 18-1 win for Thief River Falls

A 12-run first inning carried Thief River Falls to a one-sided 18-1 Tuesday high school baseball win over Warroad.

It was the final regular season home appearance at the wind-swept Multi-Events Center for the 12-5 Prowlers.

"I challenged our team to put it all together in one game, and I feel we did that," said Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz.

The Prowlers, who lost two of three starts at the Mike Bugliosi Wood Bat Classic in Hibbing on the weekend, out-hit Warroad 14-2.

"The big key was taking good at-bats," explained Zutz. "This past weekend we were letting pitchers get by with being behind in the count, or having pitches up. Not today."

Jordan Espeseth homered to lead off the Thief River Falls first inning and wound up with a 4-for-4 game at the plate that also included a dou-

Prowlers are eliminated in 8AA softball

Four teams gathered at the Multi-Events Center Thursday for the start of the double-elimination portion of the 2008 Section 8AA high school softball tournament. Three of those schools advanced to Tuesday's next set of games. The odd team out was host Thief River Falls.

The Prowlers, the top seed in the North portion of the bracket, lost a 2-1 nine-inning game to No. 4 Warroad, then dropped a 9-5 loser-out decision to No. 2 Dilworth-Glyndon-Felton.

Thief River Falls finished the year 13-6. Game details will appear in The Times May 28.

Prowlers advance with opening round victory

First round of the Section 8AA high school softball tournament is a single-elimination draw that chops the 16-team field in half, setting up the pairings for the double-elimination portion of the event. Thief River Falls, the No. 1 seed in the North bracket had no trouble extending their 2008 season Tuesday with a 17-5 drubbing of No. 8 seed East Grand Forks at the windy, as usual, Multi-Events Center.

The Prowlers scored four times in the first inning, then sent 15 batters to the plate and scored 10 second inning runs to crush whatever upset hopes the Green Wave might have brought with them.

It was 17-1 before the visitors tried to get past the 10-run rule early ending with a four-run fourth.

The Prowlers combined 13 hits with six East Grand Forks errors for their double-figure run total. The top and bottom of the Thief River Falls batting order led the offensive production. Lead-off hitter Hailey Peterson was 3-for-3 with a double, three RBI and three runs scored. No. 9 batter Meagan Abrahamson was 2-for-3 with a double and matched Peterson's RBI and run numbers.

Jenna Hoglo, Cassie Gunderson and Amanda Lara drove in two runs each as the Prowlers improved their record to 13-4.

Winning pitcher Cheryl Nelson limited East Grand Forks to four hits while walking five and striking out two.

Five Thief River Falls errors – three of them in the Green Wave four-run fourth – kept it from being a worry-free win for Prowlers coach Corey Poole.

East Grand Forks' season ended at 6-14.

In the other North openers, fourth-seeded Warroad beat No. 5 Park Rapids Area 11-3; second-seeded Dilworth-Glyndon-Felton out-scored No. 7 Roseau 11-7 and sixth-seeded Detroit Lakes upset No. 3 Crookston 10-7.

There were similar opening round results in the South, where top-seeded Wadena-Deer Creek shut out No. 8 Frazee 3-0; fourth-seeded Ottertail Central got by No. 5 Perham 2-0; second-seeded Fergus Falls shaded No. 7 Pelican Rapids 5-4 and sixth-seeded Breckenridge knocked off No. 3 Staples-Motley 10-9.

TRF 1-2 at tourney hosted by Hibbing

Thief River Falls squeezed a 10-2 win over Mora between a 5-0 loss to Cloquet and a 6-2 setback at the hands of host Hibbing during the May 16-17 Mike Bugliosi Wood Bat Classic high school baseball tournament.

The Prowlers' hit and error totals were identical (4) in the first round loss to Cloquet. The Lumberjacks broke open a scoreless game with a five-run sixth inning that included two hits, four errors and two passed balls.

"We aren't going to win many games giving up five unearned runs and getting four hits," offered Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz. "Cloquet is a really solid team, and they made us pay."

Thief River Falls' offense picked it up a notch with an eight-hit second game against Mora that backed the solid pitching of Spencer Johnson, who gave up just two hits, struck out 15 and did not walk a batter.

"We hit better, but made some mental mistakes on the bases," pointed out Zutz. "Spencer kept us in the game by hammering the strike zone."

The Prowlers' inconsistent attack hit another snag in the final-game loss to the Bluejackets, who out-hit the visitors 10-4.

"Our hitting woes continue," acknowledged Zutz. "Four hits won't win games for you."

Hibbing took control with a five-run third inning and was never challenged.

"We got the ball up in the zone, and they were able to capitalize," said Zutz.

City approves LEC lease

city pays 50 percent of all costs associated with dispatch, then it must be as equally involved in any decisions pertaining to those dispatch costs."

In his response, Hruby wrote, "The city needs to be aware that the lease agreement covers the operational cost of dispatch, and dispatcher salary and benefits are set by union contract. As far as the staffing, policy, procedure and scheduling are concerned, that is my job."

Earlier this month, the council summoned Hruby to appear at a council meeting to discuss the matter. Hruby has said that he has no intentions of meeting with the council.

At Tuesday's council meeting, council member Glen Kajewski said, "We need to sit down with commissioners and talk about this." Indirectly referring to Hruby, Kajewski said both sides shouldn't have the door closed and have one person "getting their feathers ruffled."

It is expected that the two sides will discuss the issue at their previously scheduled city/county meeting June 2.

"Hopefully, we'll all look at the best interests of the taxpayers," said Mayor Steve "Beaver" Nordhagen.

There is still time to sign up for CSP

U.S. Department of Agriculture Natural Resources Conservation Service recently announced that the 2008 Conservation Security Program signup will be held until May 30 in 51 watersheds across the nation. The Thief Watershed is the only watershed in Minnesota eligible for this signup and is located mainly in Marshall, Beltrami, and Pennington counties with a minute part of Roseau and Lake of the Woods counties. All application materials need to be turned into your local NRCS office prior to the deadline.

CSP does not give payments for fixing environmental problems. It gives payments for good conservation practices you are already doing.

For application materials, contact your local NRCS office (Warren: 218-745-4351, extension 3, Thief River Falls: 218-681-1612, extension 3, or Bemidji: 218-751-1942, extension 3).

Scandinavian Festival set for June 13-14

The Sixth Annual Roseau Scandinavian Festival kicks off Friday, June 13, with a variety show featuring local musicians. The show starts at 7 p.m. in the Roseau School theater followed by coffee and Scandinavian treats. A dance follows at the Four Seasons Center in Roseau with the music of the Highway 11 Ramblers.

Saturday, June 14, starts at the Four Seasons Center with a pancake breakfast served with lingonberries. The breakfast will be served from 7 to 10 a.m. Artists, vendors, crafters and musicians will perform all day near the Roseau City Center. A flea market will also be held. Balloon twisting, games and face painting are on the agenda for the kids. A Scandinavian language and arts camp will assist with the raising of the Maypole at 2 p.m. near the Roseau River.

Fresh lefse will be served all day June 14 at the Four Seasons Center. A Scandinavian smorgasbord consisting of Swedish meatballs, baked ham, potatoes, Swedish baked beans, garden vegetables, pickled herring, assorted cheeses and breads, lefse and a full Scandinavian dessert table will be served from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Roseau City Center. The cost of the meal is $12. Maggie's Catering of Karlstad is serving the meal.

A show featuring Eric Bergeson, comedian and columnist from Fertile, and well-known entertainers Skalmusik, from Brainerd, will be held at 7 p.m. in the Roseau School theater. Admission for the program is by button or $7.

For more information on the festival, go to www.city.roseau.mn.us or call (218) 463-3979.

Kittson County Relay For Life fundraiser planned

The event includes a $1 basket auction, demonstrations, contests, door prizes and a goody bag for each participant. Cost of the event is $20 to be paid in advance by May 30. Participants are also asked to bring some scrapbooking and/or cardmaking items to donate for the basket auction. All registration and auction money will be donated to the Kittson County Relay For Life for the American Cancer Society.

Warroad Senior Living Center starts demolition process

The investigation has ended into the fire that severely damaged the Warroad Senior Living Center that was under construction. The site was released back to the general contractor May 14.

Superintendent Ron Dazell of ICS Inc. said that it has acquired the proper permits to begin demolition and clear the debris. It expects the site to be clear of rubble in approximately 45 days. Dazell said the concrete will be tested to determine what portions of the foundation and slabs on grade can be salvaged. Once the condition of the concrete has been determined, a time frame will be established for completion of the project.

Rebuilding has already begun off-site. Dazell said carpenters are working in a large storage building in Warroad to pre-build panel walls. The pre-fabrication will continue until the contractor is able to continue construction on-site.

The state-of-the-art Warroad Senior Living Center is a gift to the Warroad area community by Marvin Windows and Doors.

The cause of the April 25 fire is unknown. However, State Deputy Fire Marshal Kevin Mahle has indicated that it is believed to be accidental in nature.

Sendoff planned for Miss Marshall Co. Katie Hamness

Katie Hamness, Miss Marshall County 2007, will be honored at a send-off party in recognition of her participation in the upcoming Miss Minnesota Pageant. Hamness will be modeling her competition attire, performing her talent piece and sharing experiences of her past year's reign and plans for her future.

The party will be held Wednesday, June 4 at 7 p.m. in the back room of The Wheel in Middle River. The public is invited to join in the celebration.

Second event of Summer Saturday Nite Cruise-In series planned

The second event of the Hot Summer Saturday Nite Cruise-In series will be held Saturday, May 31, in Thief River Falls at Floyd B. Olson Gazebo Park. The event is open to any classic, custom, collector, antique, convertible, street rod or muscle cars.

The events are designed for car enthusiasts to display their cars and have an evening of fun, food and fellowship. The event will be from 6:30 - 9 p.m. There are no fees, no voting and no awards. Free to both participants and spectators.

Other remaining HSSNC events are scheduled for Warren, Crookston, Fosston, Grand Forks and Roseau. Host club for the Thief River Falls event is the Street Wizards Car Club. Countywide anhydrous spill exercise held Roseau - "Gracia Nelson, Roseau County homeland security and emergency manager, reported that 151 Roseau County first responders and LifeCare Medical Center staff participated in a multi-agency anhydrous spill exercise at Cenex West Plant in Roseau on May 13.

"The first responders completed anhydrous spill incident training and demonstrated their skills in incident command, responding to and taking control of an anhydrous leak by knocking down the anhydrous vapors and shutting down the source of the leak, and triaging and transporting the injured people May 13.

"Seven students from Roseau School participated in the exercise as burn victims and were triaged at the scene and then transported to LCMC, where staff participated in their own full-fledged emergency drill." - The Tribune of Greenbush, May 28, 2008

Franzman family holds reunion at MN State Historical Center

St. Paul - "Relatives and friends of the late John Franzman Sr., former Grygla farmer, gathered at the Minnesota State Historical Center on April 26 for a luncheon and rededication service for one of Franzman's altars. This beautiful altar had been donated by the Franzman family to help celebrate the 150th anniversary of Minnesota statehood." - Grygla Eagle, May 28, 2008, by Arlette Ruud

Warroad High School students show their "favorite Minnesota"

Warroad - "As graduation has now come and gone, many students are turning their focus toward saving money and heading off to college. Most will be leaving Warroad behind, at least for a short while. For most students, Warroad will hold fond memories for years to come. WHS teacher Nola Brandt decided to take advantage of those memories.

"Brandt's students in her business graphics class recently created tourism videos showing their favorite parts of life in Warroad."

"It was a long and exacting process for her students. It included planning a storyboard, videotaping, creating a script for voiceovers, creating their own music using Garageband, editing for the Web, streaming video, creating a podcast version and burning a DVD version for the video."

"The videos are posted on www.warroad.org and may soon be featured on yet another, larger Web site." The videos may be submitted to a state Web site, potentially leading to them being used for TV commercials. - Warroad Pioneer, May 28, 2008, by Emily Mekash

There is hope for the future. "The patient is sitting up and taking nourishment."

Bill O'Brien of the O'Brien Group delivered the final report on the aviation program at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls on Thursday, May 29.

When O'Brien first toured the facility, he said there was the smell of death about it. Today, he said he senses hope. "And why not? It's a world-class facility." O'Brien said many of his preliminary recommendations delivered in early March have already been acted on, and there are signs that the school is moving forward.

O'Brien was hired to look at seven specific points and present a final report. His report examined what happened that led to the decline of students at the school, how other schools have remained successful, inventory and assess the value of the existing facilities, look at the future of aviation maintenance, identify companies looking for college partnerships and formulate recommendations.

Last fall, the college took the first steps that might signal the end of the program. Officials cited declining enrollment, and the impact the expense of the program was having on other programs among its reasons for suspending the program. In January, the college entered into an agreement with O'Brien to investigate the future of the program. In early March, O'Brien delivered a preliminary report.

In his final report, O'Brien identified a number of factors that contributed to the decline of the program - fuel expenses, recession, 9-11, the SARS outbreak, seven years of airline bankruptcies, no business plan for the college program, no partnerships to fund scholarships and grants, apathy on the part of administration and faculty, and a lack of communication.

Demand for mechanics is very high at this time, and NCTC has a world-class facility; so O'Brien believes it should be able to succeed. It won't be easy. In fact, the first year will be very difficult.

O'Brien said a number of his recommendations, have already or are in the process of being implemented. A business plan is being developed, the school is being marketed, a marketing plan is being developed, high overhead costs are being addressed, and many other efforts are underway.

A business plan for a college program is a foreign concept to education, said Dr. Anne Temte, president of the college. She said she was excited by the idea of applying a principal of business to education, and said this could be a template for the rest of the programs at the college.

O'Brien's recommendations also encouraged the school to improve its plain-vanilla curriculum, and

Report compares liquor stores

Minnesota Auditor Rebecca Otto released a report Tuesday, April 29, that provided comparative data on municipal liquor operations owned and operated by Minnesota cities for calendar year 2006. In 2006, 220 Minnesota cities operated 248 municipal liquor stores, with 127 cities operating both on-sale and off-sale liquor establishments and 93 cities restricting their municipally-owned estblishments to off-sale liquor stores. While the majority of municipally-owned liquor stores are located in Greater Minnesota, 20 cities within the Twin Cities Metropolitan area owned and operated liquor establishments.

The report's highlights include:

- The combined net profit of all municipal liquor operations totaled $20 million in 2006. This represents an increase of $1.3 million or 6.7 percent over the level generated in 2005.
- Forty-four Minnesota cities reported net losses for 2006, compared to 52 cities in 2005. Among the 44 cities with losses, four were Metropolitan area cities and 40 were from Greater Minnesota.
- During 2006, Minnesota's municipal liquor operations reported an 11th consecutive year of record sales totaling $281.2 million. Total sales generated in 2006 increased by $12.2 million or 4.5 percent over 2005.
- Minnesota's municipal liquor stores transferred $16.4 million of their profits to other city funds in 2006. This represents a decrease of 8.1 percent from the total net transfers made in 2005. Transfers totaled $6.3 mllion among Metropolitan area establishments compared to $10 million for Greater Minnesota establishments.
- Due in part to the lack of profitability, insurance costs, and other concerns, the number of cities operating municipal liquor stores has steadily declined. There was a net decrease of seven stores between 2005 and 2006.

Math and Science Academies begin

Northwest Service Cooperative in Thief River Falls is one of nine centers

by David Hill
Editor

Wednesday, May 28, Minnesota launched its Minnesota Math and Science Teacher Academy, which will focus on improving mathematics and science instruction and learning through ongoing, quality professional development statewide.

Minnesota Education Commissioner Alice Seagren said she believes this will help prepare students in Minnesota for the 21st century.

Math standards will be changing dramatically. As part of the new standards, the state will be requiring that algebra I be taught in the eighth grade and algebra II in high school.

Northwest Service Cooperative in Thief River Falls, which serves 43 schools in 10 school districts in northwestern Minnesota, has been identified as one of nine centers organizing and implementing the teacher academies.

The purpose of the academies is to prepare teachers to teach algebra I and II to meet the 2007 Math Standards.

Klamm said they anticipate that school districts won't be held accountable for the new standards until 2011.

Homeowners plan lawsuit against dairy near TRF

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Eleven Marshall County households have decided to file a class-action lawsuit against Excel Dairy. The landowners, represented by Attorney Mike Jorgenson, cite that Excel Dairy has continuously violated nuisance laws due to an overpowering smell that is constantly emitted from the dairy's lagoons.

"It's infringing on our right to use our land as we wish, free of air pollution," said Paul Kezar, who resides approximately one mile from the dairy with his wife, Jeanine, and two daughters ages 6 and 9. "We tried to plant our garden this weekend. We had a southeast wind and we could hardly finish because of the smell."

Kezar said the landowners filnig the suit, many of whom reside within a half-mile of the dairy, are not anti-dairy or anti-agriculture. Like Kezar, who grew up working on the Muzzy Dairy Farm, many of the residents have grown up, lived and worked in an agricultural setting. But there was a point where residents had to draw the line.

"This isn't just a dairy barn smell," Kezar said. "It's the most putrid smell imaginable. We have people literally throwing up from the smell."

Kezar said some residents share similar stories, such as their children waking up in the middle of the night crying because of the odor and having to move family get-togethers into town to avoid the overpowering smell.

Residents can't even get away

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Members of the Pennington County Board of Commissioners and Thief River Falls City Council will meet face-to-face Monday (June 2) at Dee's Kitchen for their quarterly city-county meeting. Hot-button issues like the city-county Law Enforcement Center contract and the county's potential involvement with the Thief River Falls Regional Airport are expected to be discussed.

The Law Enforcement Center has been a major topic of discussion between the city and county during recent City Council and County Board meetings. The Thief River Falls City Council recently agreed to lease its portion of the Law Enforcement Center at a rate of $14.25 per square foot.

The City Council did not take any action regarding the second part of a proposal in which the wages of dispatch employees would be shared at a 50-50 split. The city continues to stand by its assertion that if it pays 50 percent of dispatch costs, it should have 50 percent say in dispatch related actions.

Today's recipes are from contributors to the magazine Taste of Home, Feb/Mar 1995. They are perfect for easy summer meals:

This cake is firm and tasty - a wonderful summer dessert:

PINEAPPLE BUNDT CAKE

Fayne Lutz, Taos, NM

1 cup butter, softened
1 1/2 cups sugar
2 eggs, lightly beaten
2 egg whites
2 teaspoons lemon extract
2 2/3 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 (8 ounce) can crushed pineapple, undrained

Glaze

1 cup powdered sugar
1-2 tablespoons milk
1/2 teaspoon lemon extract

Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, egg whites and lemon extract. Beat fluffy, about 2 minutes.

Combine flour and baking powder; gradually add to creamed mixture. Stir in pineapple. Pour into greased 10 inch bundt pan and bake at 350 degrees for 55-60 minutes. Cool in pan 10 minutes before removing from pan to wire rack. Cool.

To make glaze, combine glaze ingredients until smooth. Drizzle over cake.

KIELBASA SKILLET STEW

Machelle Lewis, Henderson, NV

5 bacon strips
1 medium onion, chopped
1 - 1 1/2 pounds smoky, fully cooked kielbasa, thinly sliced
2 (15 ounces each) cans great northern beans, undrained
2 (8 ounces each) cans tomato sauce
1 (4 ounce) can chopped green chilies
2 medium carrots, thinly sliced
1/2 medium green pepper, chopped
1/2 teaspoon Italian seasoning
1/2 teaspoon dried thyme
1/8 teaspoon pepper

In 12 inch skillet, cook bacon crisp. Remove to paper towel to drain.

In drippings, cook onion and sausage until onion is tender. Drain. Stir in remaining ingredients and bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and simmer 45 minutes or until vegetables are tender, stirring occasionally. Crumble bacon over top. Recipe serves 6-8 people.

And you know this tasty bread would be perfect with your new, adult beanie-weenie hot dish. This recipe makes 2 loaves, too, one for eating now and one for freezing for another meal:

CHEESY POTATO BREAD

Deb Amrine, Grand Haven, MI

2 packages active dry yeast
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup warm water (110 to 115 degrees)
1 cup light cream
5 tablespoons butter, divided
1 tablespoon salt
1/8 teaspoon cayenne pepper
5 1/2 to 6 cups flour
2 cups finely shredded (peeled) potatoes
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese

In large bowl, dissolve yeast and sugar in warm water. Let stand until foamy, about 5 minutes. Add cream, 3 tablespoons of butter, salt, cayenne pepper and 2 1/2 cups flour. Beat with mixer on medium for 2 minutes.

Stir in potatoes and enough remaining flour to form a soft dough. Knead smooth, 8-10 minutes). Dough will feel slightly sticky. Place in greased bowl, turning once to grease top. Cover and let rise in warm place until almost double, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down and pat into 1/2 inch thick rectangle. Sprinkle cheese evenly over dough and knead in.

Shape into 2 round loaves and place in greased 9 inch round pans. Cover and let rise doubled, about 45 minutes. Cut an X on the top of each loaf and brush with remaining butter.

Bake at 400 degrees for 35-40 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from pans and cool on wire racks.

Since you fussed for dinner, for dessert we'll have something easy - ice cream. But with a slightly different topping that you'll love:

PEANUT BUTTER SUNDAES

Susan Mowery, Newville, PA

1 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup creamy peanut butter
Vanilla ice cream
Salted peanuts (optional).

In saucepan, combine sugar and water. Bring to a boil and boil 1 minute or until sugar is dissolved. Remove from heat and stir in peanut butter. Place in blender and blend on high until smooth. Cool slightly and pour over ice cream. Sprinkle with peanuts if desired. Recipe makes 1 1/2 cups of sauce.

If you are watching your diet, try this low fat topping for your ice milk or yogurt:

LOW FAT CHOCOLATE SAUCE

Beverly Irick, Indianapolis, IN

1/2 cup sugar
3 tablespoons skim milk
1 tablespoon cocoa
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
1 teaspoon vanilla

In saucepan combine sugar, milk, cocoa and corn syrup. Bring to a boil and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat and stir in vanilla.

Use as a dip for fruit or over frozen yogurt or angel food cake. Recipe makes 1/3 cups of sauce.

TRF police investigate man's death

Editor's note: This article originally appeared on the Thief River Falls Times Web site on Tuesday afternoon. In that article, the date when Garcia was found, was incorrectly listed as Friday morning.

The Thief River Falls Police Department is investigating the death of a Thief River Falls man.

Gilbert Garcia Jr., 23, was found unconscious early Saturday morning outside near the intersection of Third Street and Tindolph Avenue. "I don't want to say it was an accident [until we're done with the investigation]," said Deputy Police Chief Craig Mattson, who indicated that he "couldn't say" if a vehicle was involved.

Garcia was transported to MeritCare Thief River Falls Northwest Medical Center. He was then transferred to Altru Hospital in Grand Forks, N.D. Garcia later died from his injuries.

On Tuesday afternoon, police released this limited amount of information about the incident. In a press release, it was noted that police continue to investigate the incident and are awaiting an autopsy report.

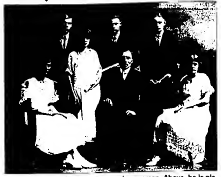
Rural Reflections

Grant Nelson

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.



The Rev. Sjur Brekke was a very serious person. Above, he is pictured with his confirmation class of 1923: (standing) Floyd Greenley, Solveig Samuelson, Ernest Melvie, Sr., and Clarence Grindeland; (sitting) Selma Holdan, Rev. S. J. Brekke and Olga Urdahl.

Pastor Brekke

I recently received an e-mail from Dan Brekke, who lives in Berkeley, Calif. Mr. Brekke found a picture of his grandfather, Pastor Sjur Brekke, seated with the 1923 confirmation class of Zion Lutheran church on the Web site for the community of Viking. Brekke's e-mail provides the story of how his grandfather emigrated from Norway to Chicago and eventually became pastor at Zion Lutheran Church; I will share an abbreviated version of it with you.

Sjur Ingebrettson Brekke was born in Vik, Norway, in 1876. Vik currently is home to about 3,000 people on the Sognefjord River and has been a settlement for centuries. The area is well known for the presence of 12th century stave kirks (medieval wooden churches) and glaciers that reside on the nearby Atlantic Ocean. Sjur Brekke was one of five children and came to the United States in the 1880s. He attended seminary in Red Wing, and it was at this seminary, which would be the future site of Wrigley Field in Chicago, Ill., where he was ordained in 1905. Sjur was a minister of the Hauge Synod, which arose in Norway as a reaction to state-run churches. It emphasized personal prayer and religious meditation more than religious ceremony.

Sjur Brekke pastored from 1904 to 1905 at Ebenezer Lutheran and Hauge Lutheran in Chicago, which is where he met his wife, Otilia Sieverson, who had been born in America. Otilia's family moved fram Frederikstad (near Oslo) in Norway to Chicago, which is where she was born in 1884.

The Sieverson's were founding members of Hauge Lutheran in 1900 and it stands to reason that is where Sjur and Otilia met and then married in 1905.

Sjur Brekke served at other churches, but came to Alvarado in 1918 and served at Bethlehem Lutheran Church. From there, he ministered also to Kongsvinger Lutheran near Alvarado and Zion in Viking. In those days, that was a fair commute, but there was a good train schedule at that time, so perhaps that is how Pastor Brekke traveled.

In 1921, Steven was born to Pastor Sjur and Otilia at the hospital in Warren. Steve Brekke is the father of Dan Brekke, who then gathered the information upon which I based this column. Steve Brekke still has a collection of letters sent by his father to Otilia during their courtship. The letters were written in both English and Norwegian. Norwegian was probably the first language in the Brekke household and the reason for much teasing for young Steve when the family moved back to Chicago in 1926.

Back in Chicago, Sjur Brekke was diagnosed with Parkinson's disease and began a slow, devastating decline. He gave up his assignment at Ebenezer, which is where he had first served, in 1930. Pastor Sjur and Otilia moved to Pasadena, Calif., where Sjur took long walks to maintain his health, but soon returned to Chicago, where he died in 1932. Otilia kept her feelings for Sjur private until her death in 1975. Her son, Steve, found the letters Sjur had sent Otilia that she had treasured all of those years. Pastor Sjur was known to be a very serious person, as evidenced by the stern countenance in the confirmation picture fram 1923, but perhaps revealed a more playful side in one of his letters, this time written to his parents. At the time, Sjur was living at his brother's place near Clear Lake, Iowa, and his letter was to inform his parents that he had proposed marriage to Otilia. It was a letter that required privacy and Sjur had written his mother that "you would smile if you knew where I was writing." Sjur Brekke, spiritual leader and pastor to many, and a husband and father, was writing his letter … from inside an outhouse.

NCTC nursing students receive pins

Eighty-two nursing students received the Northland Community and Technical College nursing pin during the May 15, 2008, ceremony held at the Ralph Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls. The students were enrolled in the associate degree nursing program in Thief River Falls.

Students graduating from the program on May 15, attended classes at both the Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks campus and worked in clinical sites located in Roseau, Crookston, Grand Forks and Thief River Falls. The nursing pin is a unique symbol to each nursing school program.

During the early 20th century, nurses were identified by their white uniforms, their caps, and their pins. Changes in health care have led nurses to forego the white uniform, and many different garments are now appropriately worn by nurses. These garments are safer and more flexible in the complex environments in which health care is provided. Caps have also been forsaken, having been acknowledged as a hazard among overhead structures on many hospital beds and difficult for nurses to maintain erect on their heads. Thus, the pin remains as the single unique identifier of the school fram which a nurse is a graduate.

St. Hilaire man found guilty in 2006 meth case

A St. Hilaire man was found guilty Wednesday, May 28, 2008, in a 2006 methamphetamine case.

Pennington County District Court Judge Tamara Yon found Jon Wayne Kruse, 45, guilty of the felony offenses of conspiracy to manufacture meth, aiding/abetting the manufacture of meth, and possession of substances with the intent to manufacture meth. Sentencing has been scheduled for June 16.

The case stemmed from a Feb. 16, 2006, call fram Carol Strand to a Red Lake County sheriff's deputy, according to court documents. Strand, a.k.a. Carol Ann Johnson, said that Kruse had asked her to buy as many Sudafed boxes as she could because he had a person who could use the Sudafed to make meth. Kruse would then give Strand some meth. Strand purchased the cold tablets, but Kruse told her that she had purchased the wrong cold tablets. He later told her to meet him, so he could show her the right tablets to buy.

Before meeting with Kruse, Strand contacted the deputy. A short time later, the deputy told her that the Red Lake County and Pennington County sheriffs' offices weren't in a good position to monitor the events. However, Strand met with Kruse anyway. Later on Feb. 16, 2006, she bought three boxes of Sudafed and a generic 12-hour decongestant for Kruse.

That same day, Kruse retrieved the boxes and decongestant out of a pickup truck, where he had told Strand to put the items, court documents indicated. Kruse was observed by the Red Lake County sheriff's deputy, who then followed Kruse to Brian Wilde's home, 121 Oak Ave. N. in Thief River Falls. Kruse braught the items to Wilde's home so that Wilde could manufacture meth out of them. Shortly thereafter, Kruse bought additional items to aid in the manufacture of meth.

Law enforcement had the home under surveillance for almost two hours Feb. 16, 2006, court documents said. Kruse's vehicle was then stopped as Kruse was leaving Wilde's residence. The vehicle was part of a search warrant.

Wilde's residence was also a part of a search warrant. Officers smelled a strong odor of chemicals as they approached Wilde's garage. A blender pitcher containing 0.4 grams of ephedrine/pseudoephedrine, a glass pitcher with a mixture containing meth weighing 25.9 grams, four boxes of pseudoephedrine pills, and a package of four lithium batteries were found in the garage.

Kruse denied smelling strong odors of meth in the garage and testified that he was only in the garage for a short period of time. He also said that he gave Wilde's wife a ride to her mom's house and waited in a vehicle for most of those two hours.

The court found it unlikely that Kruse avoided noticing Wilde's meth operation or that Kruse sat in a vehicle for that period of time when the windchill was about -50 degrees Fahrenheit.

The Minnesota Attorney General's Office, represented by Assistant Attorney General Paul Kempainen, prosecuted Kruse's case. Kruse was represented by attorney Jacob T. Erickson of St. Cloud.

Wilde has already been sentenced for his rale in the case. At the time that he had testified, he was on supervised release after serving prison time for his felony conviction. Adjudication was withheld in the felony case against Strand.

With this years late spring and slow warm up it has caused water temps to rise very slowly. Look for water temps that hit or reach the mid fifties, and the bite will be on. Check lakes that have shallow or dark water

Kays-Haviland duo advances

In an all-Thief River Falls encounter, Brian Kays and Chase Haviland defeated JD Robson and Parker Nessen 6-2, 6-0 Tuesday in the state tournament-qualifying true-second match that completed the doubles competition in the individual portion of the 2008 Section 8A boys high school tennis tournament.

Most of singles and doubles matches were completed the previous Thursday, with Thief River Falls' Jacob Engelstad winning Section 8A singles title and Crookston's Luke Biermaier-Jake Thompson taking the doubles crown.

But with the top two finishers in singles and doubles moving on to the Minnesota Class A state tournament, true-seconds were needed to complete the slate of qualifiers. Those matches were delayed until after the Memorial Day holiday.

While the Kays-Haviland duo extended their season with a win at the Engelstad Park courts, Michael Lukkason of East Grand Forks beat Ryan Borgeson of Detroit Lakes 6-1, 7-5 in a true-second singles match at Moorhead.

Second-seeded Thief River Falls won its fifth straight Section 8A title by beating No. 7 Wadena-Deer Creek 7-0, No. 3 East Grand Forks 6-1 and top-seeded Crookston 4-3 in the May 20-21 team tournament.

The 2008 Class A state tournament will take place at the Reed-Sweatt Family Tennis Center in Minneapolis. Team competition will be Tuesday and Wednesday, June 3 and 4. Individual portion of the tournament takes place Wednesday and Thursday, June 5 and 6.

A year ago, Thief River Falls beat Litchfield 5-2 in the state tournament quarterfinals, then lost to eventual champion St. Paul Academy and Summit School 7-0 in the semifinals and fell to Mounds Park Academy 4-3 in the third place match.

Lakers win both boys, girls 8AA golf meet titles

The Detroit Lakes boys beat runner-up Perham 301-315 at the Long Bow Golf Club near Walker, while the Detroit Lakes girls finished with a sizeable 347-387 advantage over second place Fergus Falls at the Wildflower Golf Course near Detroit Lakes.

Both tournaments were filled by team and individual qualifiers from sub-sectional play.

First place teams and top five individuals not on the winning team advance to state meet competition.

Thief River Falls had four boys and two girls in the Section 8AA meets. None of them advanced.

"The team shot scores they have been shooting all year long," reported Thief River Falls boys head coach Dick Tyler. "We could not stay away from big numbers on holes. We still need to improve our putting."

On April 27, 2008 in Brooklyn Park, the Minnesota Hockey board voted to remove all A level, youth hockey, state tournaments from outside of the immediate metro area of Minneapolis. Minnesota Hockey is the governing board of youth hockey and various levels of adult hockey in Minnesota. The organization is sanctioned through its parent, USA Hockey.

Since 1948, the organization formerly known as Minnesota Amateur Hockey Association has governed youth hockey in Minnesota. Besides establishing rules and playing levels for communities throughout Minnesota, the association has organized season-end playoffs culminating in state tournaments for all the upper age groups. This event has been open for hosting throughout the state. Initially, the tournaments were awarded on a bid basis. In the early 1970's MAHA adopted a rotation system assuring that all areas of the state would be exposed to these events. This system was reworked and formalized in 1990.

But for the last eight years, under President Dennis Green, the Minnesota Hockey board has annually tried to bring the event exclusively to the metro area. This year the executive board and the planning committee devised a plan to exclude non-metro communities from hosting these events. The plan was devised while stalling action on very controversial agenda items, such as redistricting, private school associations, AAA teams, and recruiting and retention of players, coaches and referees.

The measure will exclude such communities as Elk River, Forest Lake, Hastings, Rochester, Buffalo, Shakopee, New Ulm, Mankato and all of the traditional hockey communities in northern Minnesota.

The measure required a two-thirds vote of the board. It passed by a margin of 17 to 7 with two voting members not in attendance. Seventeen was the number of votes needed to make the change. One of the absent members was a representative of northern Minnesota. Another metro director was absent but made it clear he and the area he represents opposed this action. A replacement was made the morning of the vote. The replacement cast his vote for the motion.

The Minnesota Hockey board is made up of 27 members. Of the 27, only 12 are elected directly by youth hockey associations. Five are elected by non-youth organizations, and the remainder elected by the board. The 2009 host for one of the tournaments was to be Thief River Falls. They had already begun planning. They were not notified of the possible change. Immediately after the election had taken place, their director called the northern community. As would be expected, they are very upset.

At the prior meeting, notification was given that a plan for one-site A level tournaments was being discussed. They announced that a plan would be brought to the April meeting for reaction and discussion. For some board members, the plan was presented for the first time Friday night prior to the meeting. At that time they learned the plan was to be voted on at the Sunday meeting. That action was contrary to all actions previously brought to the board. District Directors, the only ones elected by the youth constituency, have always been given an opportunity to communicate changes to the local associations and gather feedback.

An agenda item has been added to rescind the action taken at the April meeting. Research by a group opposed to the one-site tournament have found the action to violate Robert's Rules and the governing document of the group. In the past, such action that has been found to violate the rules, has been brought back to the board. Mr. Green is seeking council to determine that the action should stand.

The summer meeting will be held at the Kelly Inn in St. Cloud June 27, 28 & 29.

The Sunday morning meeting should prove to be quite interesting.

School is out!

As a child, nothing, absolutely nothing, anyone could say was more important than those three words. It signaled an end to confinement in stuffy classrooms, and end to snap quizzes, and the beginning of freedom, freedom to stay up late, freedom to go swimming on a hot summer day, freedom to kick off your shoes and wiggle your toes. It's freedom, glorious freedom.

School is out!

When school lets out, lots of things change. Accompanying the "freedom" children anticipate is the kind of energy that leads them to race their bikes down city streets for no particular reason, to run in circles for no particular reason, to jump up and down and scream at the top of their lungs, for no particular reason.

So when school is out - heads up. Traffic patterns change. Children won't be following the predictable patterns that they used to follow when school was in session. Although we would like them to cross at the crosswalk, pay attention for times when they don't. Although we'd like to see their little bikes in bike racks when we're traveling to and from work, pay attention for times when little bike riders are racing down the middle of the street for - no particular reason.

Parents can help. Remind children to wear helmets, follow the rules of the road, cross at crosswalks when walking, be safe on playgrounds, and remind them to be alert to their surroundings.

Unlike fall and winter when weather signals a significant change in how we drive, the warmer - more pleasant weather - doesn't always remind us that children may be where we least expect them. So heads up. Please remember to drive safely.

Aluminum can collections continue for David's therapy

To the Editor:

The kennels are up once again at SuperOne Foods and Hugo's to collect "cans for David's therapy." The kennels continue collecting cans at the Grygla Co-op Store and Roseau Farm Service.

(David became a quadriplegic after a farm accident in January 2006.) David's improvements may seem very minor, but to us, they are major. Last year, David wasn't strong enough to barely push the bars on the mower to make it mow. This year, we belt him to the seat, cuff his hands on the bars, and he is strong enough to mow lawn.

We are up and running with "horse therapy" again. David has gained a lot of of trunk and leg strength from this therapy. He does a five-hour-plus therapy program from Kennedy Krieger Institute five to six days a week.

This summer, we hope to add a couple of new therapies. One is the Lite Gait in which David will hang in a sling and we will walk his legs on a treadmill. This program will retrain his brain and muscles to the walking motion. Also, our plan is for some pool therapy. It is also about retraining now for David. It takes a great deal of energy on his part. This fall, our plan is to go back to Kennedy Krieger Institute in Baltimore.

We would like to thank the businesses and individuals for all the can donations. Several donations were also brought in during the winter at Phillips Iron. Everyone's kindness is greatly appreciated.

Jim and Tami Sparby and family

Roseau County Sheriff's Mounted Posse expands

Roseau County Sheriff Jule Hanson has announced the expansion of the Sheriff's Mounted Posse. Hanson has agreed to expand the Mounted Posse to include all-terrain vehicles, snowmobiles and communications. In the past, the posse consisted of members on horseback. To better serve the community's needs, the posse has been expanded to ensure a timely response and rescue effort in the event of a missing or lost person.

Elections were held at the beginning of 2008. With a newly elected board came new ideas.

The posse will now conduct search and rescue operations with the use of ATVs, snowmobiles and horses. The posse will also have communication capabilities to keep in touch with search and rescue personnel, law enforcement, fire and EMS. In the past, the communications have been limited to low powered radios, which didn't have much range.

Hanson has entertained ideas to include the posse in day-to-day activities, and to keep posse volunteers interested in the sheriff's posse. Recently, the sheriff's posse was involved with an anhydrous ammonia drill and decontamination procedure. The posse was also involved with a lengthy search for a missing hunter.

The posse's main function is search and rescue, but it volunteers its time to work at street dances, county fairs and race parks. It seeks donations for its work and to purchase equipment, such as radios, Global Positioning Systems and safety gear.

Since the posse has expanded into other areas, it will need more volunteers to ensure that the posse is well staffed when it is called to do search and rescue.

Hanson is accepting applications for the posse. To be eligible, an applicant must complete a strict background check, have a valid Minnesota driver's license, and be of good standing in the community. Applications are available from any posse member or from the Roseau County Sheriff's Office.

Hanson thanks the posse for all of the things it has done and for the volunteer work that it has done. Without members' dedication, the posse wouldn't exist.

WHS students receive more than $850,000 in scholarships

Of the 113 graduating seniors from Warroad High School, 62 students who are heading to two-year or four-year colleges or vocational schools, will share more than $850,000 in scholarships.

At the WHS graduation ceremony May 23, benefactors in this northern Minnesota community of about 1,700 provided an educational future for young people by awarding scholarships that could cover all the tuition and fees of their college careers – and more.

A substantial portion of the scholarships were awarded through the William S. and Margaret W. Marvin Warroad Scholarship Fund, established last year with a $15 million endowment. This year, the fund presented $685,200 in scholarships to 25 students. An additional $168,925 in scholarships were presented by an array of 35 area service organizations, businesses and individuals. Combined, the scholarships totaled $854,125.

The class of 2008 is the second group of seniors with access to the William S. and Margaret W. Marvin Warroad Scholarship Fund. By maintaining at least a 2.0 grade point average in high school and demonstrating service in the community, the graduates received scholarships of up to $10,800 per year for up to four years.

Craig Oftedahl, Warroad School District superintendent, said, "No community in the country can compare with the head start Warroad offers our young people entering post-secondary institutions. In the first year of this expanded scholarship program, we have already seen magnificent results. Last year's graduates who couldn't have previously afforded college are completing their first year of school. Our junior and senior high students are volunteering in the community at a greater rate and are watching their grades more closely." Furthermore, he said parents are spending more time discussing volunteerism and academic achievement with their students.

While the sponsors of the scholarships have various motivations for offering the funds, a common set of values are demonstrated, Oftedahl said. "In Warroad, we believe in education, we believe in our young people and we believe in the exceptional quality of life in this community," he said.

Filing period set for Marshall-Beltrami SWCD supervisors

July 1 through July 15 is the time to file if you would like to be on the ballot for supervisor positions for the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District.

Any citizen of legal voting age residing in a nomination district that is up for election is eligible to file. Interested citizens also file a Minnesota Affidavit of Candidacy (available from the county auditor) and a Statement of Economic Interest along with a $20 filing fee (or the required number of signatures in lieu of the filing fee).

The Marshall-Beltrami SWCD has two supervisory positions up for election this year. Nomination District 1 includes the townships of Thief Lake, Whiteford, Moose River, Rollis and Linsell in Marshall County, so candidates must be from those listed townships and would file in Marshall County for this position. Nomination District 4 includes the townships of Hamre, Minnie, Spruce Grove and Steenerson (also the uninhabited townships of T157N R36W, T157N R37W, T158N R36W and T158N R37W) in Beltrami County, so candidates must be from those listed townships and would file in Beltrami County for this position. The general election will be held Nov. 4.

SWCDs are special purpose local units of government that manage and direct conservation programs such as the state Cost-Share Program, the Reinvest in Minnesota Program and the Wetlands Conservation Act. The SWCD Board meets monthly to discuss the district's business, including best management practice funding for landowners, district conservation priorities, and personnel issues, and coordinate with state and federal agencies and other local units of government.

SWCD supervisors have three main responsibilities during their four-year terms. They set overall policy and long-term objectives for the district, develop their district's annual and comprehensive plans, and work with the SWCD staff to see that policies and plans are implemented. Board members aren't paid salaries but may receive compensation for expenses related to meetings and other activities of the board.

For more information about supervisor positions or filing for election, contact the Marshall-Beltrami SWCD at (218) 294-6144.

Red Lake County Relay For Life set for June 6 and 7

The 10th annual Red Lake County Relay For Life kicks off Friday, June 6 and concludes June 7 at the Red Lake County Central football field in Oklee.

Red Lake County has hosted an award-winning event almost every year in the 10 years that the Relay has been held there. This year is no exception as Red Lake County has received an award that declares Red Lake County as a "2007 Fundraising Community of Excellence, Midwest Division Relay For Life, Top Per Capita Community."

The evening begins with musical entertainment while the luminaries are placed on the field by an army of volunteers. Anyone interested in getting involved in this phase of the Relay is asked to come to the bus garage any time after 2 p.m. Friday, June 6.

Food vendors, Oof-da Tacos and the Spud Wagon will be set up, and campsites will offer a variety of activities at this time as well. Eighteen teams will be participating in this year's 12-hour walk to raise money for cancer services, research, education and advocacy.

The honorary chairperson of the 2008 Relay For Life is Kathy Scala, a breast cancer survivor from Red Lake Falls, and she will be recognized as the event begins. The first lap around the field will feature all cancer survivors as honored guests. Anyone with cancer is invited to take part and is asked to register at the north end of the field under the white tent and receive a gift, but registration is not required. There will be golf carts available for anyone unable to walk the course. Caregivers, those people who provide hours of physical and emotional support to cancer patients, are invited to take part in the second lap as they are applauded for their care and concern for those with cancer. Teams will then be introduced and will take part in the next lap with more than 270 team members.

This year's entertainment again features Lois and Lois, and the Mickelson Family Band, who have both had important parts of this event for many years. The silent auction, which features many creative theme baskets and other items, will begin at 6 p.m. The silent auction will take place north of the stage.

Locks of Love will again be part of the Relay as Char Lee and her daughter Shelly Flatgard cut hair to be donated for those who have lost their hair due to cancer or some other medical condition. This year, three young girls have volunteered to have their hair cut. They include Sidney Olson, 6, Oklee; Josie Huot, 8, Red Lake Falls; and Jordan Lessard, 7, Crookston, for the 2nd year.

Many of the campsites offer additional food and games, and a complete listing of those activities will be found in the program at the event. At dusk, the impact of the luminary lighting ceremony will be felt as more than 5,000 candles in bags will be lit remembering and honoring those who have been affected by cancer. Lowell and Ross Arlt will lead in the singing of "Angels Among Us" while the candles are lit. The Arlts have sung this song at every Red Lake County Relay For Life. This phase of the Relay For Life is the most significant part of the event, and everyone is encouraged to stay to take part in this ceremony. At midnight, the field will be closed to anyone who is not a registered Relay For Life team member.

Join your family and friends at the Oklee Football Field on Friday night, June 6 to celebrate cancer survivors and to remember those who have lost the battle. Pledges may be given that night, and luminary bags may still be purchased for $5 a bag. The alternate location in the event of inclement weather is the RLCC High School gymnasium in Oklee. If you have any questions, call co-chairpeople Barb Melby at 796-5727 or Mary Lynn Bachand at 796-5765.

The Pennington County Board continues to stand by its sheriff, Mike Hruby, stating at a previous meeting that dispatch-related decisions should be made by the sheriff, who was elected by Pennington County's residents.

Mayor Steve "Beaver" Nordhagen addressed the Pennington County Board of Commissioners during the Board's May 27 meeting to encourage a face-to-face meeting that would resolve the issue.

"We're at the stage where we need to have a discussion about this (LEC contract)," Nordhagen said. "Not just about law enforcement, but the library and the airport, too."

Nordhagen said he feels the best means to resolve city and county issues would be for both the City Council and County Board to meet face-to-face, but as Monday's meeting loomed, Nordhagen wasn't sure the sides were ready to meet or if anything would be accomplished. He offered the alternative option of commissioners attending a City Council meeting, or council members attending a County Board meeting.

The next County Board meeting is scheduled for June 9 at 10 a.m. Nordhagen soid council members could attend if it would be moved to 5 p.m.

Commissioner Donald Jensen feels that continuing the quarterly morning meeting could be beneficial. He offered that it could, at the very least, be a beginning point for the city and county to get on the same page and see if any common ground exists.

Nordhagen said the morning meeting could work, but there may be some members of the City Council who would be unable to attend.

County Board Chairman Bob Carlson told Nordhagen that it is important for everyone from each side to be in attendance. "If you have someone who's throwing gasoline on the fire, they better be at that meeting," Carlson said.

"Is Mr. Hruby going to be there?" Nordhagen questioned. "Because he seems to be the source of the latest pissing match."

Carlson replied that he wouldn't be a part of a meeting where the sheriff had to defend himself and his decisions. He reminded Nordhagen that the sheriff is an elected official, who was elected to make decisions regarding public safety within the county. Carlson said it would Hruby's decision whether or not to attend the meeting.

Nordhagen agreed, adding that everyone else involved is also an elected official. He finished by saying, "This really isn't about the sheriff in my opinion."

No action was taken, as the city-county meeting had already been planned.

Discussion regarding the LEC contract resumed later in the meeting. Carlson asked his fellow commissioners if the city has a leg to stand on with its claim that it is being taxed twice for some services.

"No," Jensen replied. "When they incorporated as a city, they asked for it. They wanted more services than the county was offering."

Jensen added that the sides could work together to eliminate the duplication of some services.

In related action, commissioners verbally agreed to continue the course of action approved during the May 13 meeting. They plan to continue quarterly billing for the city's portion of the Law Enforcement Center until a new operating agreement that addresses both the $14.25 per square foot lease and dispatch cost, is finalized.

from the odor by heading indoors, Kezar said. The smell can penetrate closed windows and it is absorbed into their walls.

"You can't stop it, there's no getting away from it," Kezar said.

Jorgenson confirmed that he has been authorized to begin action against Excel Dairy. Additional details regarding the class-action lawsuit were not available as of this article's printing.

Kezar said that residents were asked by Marshall County commissioners what they wanted to accomplish by filing a lawsuit. The unanimous answer among them, was that the dairy should be shut down permanently.

Rick Millner, chief executive officer of Excel Dairy, responded to the residents' plans to file a class-action lawsuit by saying that Excel Dairy is in compliance.

"We know that there is a smell that we are working diligently on trying to minimize and I think we are on schedule to achieving that goal," Millner said.

Excel Dairy could also face misdemeanor nuisonce charges from Marshall County. That matter was referred to Marhsall County Attorney Mike Williams during the May 20 meeting of the Marshall County Board of Commissioners.

Howard Person, feedlot officer for Marshall County, said the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency is using two continuous air monitoring systems (CAMS) located on the Excel Dairy property line to test the level of hydrogen sulfide that is emitted from the dairy and its lagoons. Legally, the dairy cannot emit more than a 30-minute average of 30 parts per billion in hydrogen sulfide or an average of 50 parts per billion twice per year.

When it reopened in 2006, Excel Dairy's management opted to go with sand-based bedding for cattle, instead of straw, which was used during the dairy's previous operation. The use of sand bedding was intended to reduce the odor that is emitted from lagoons. Person said that the absence of organic material, such as straw or newspaper bedding, has kept the lagoons from developing a thick crust that would have reduced odor.

Person said there are three cells used in the Excel Dairy lagoon system. The oldest cell has been ordered by the MPCA to be cleaned from top to bottom. He added that part of the problem is that solid material from the original Excel Dairy operation also remains in the first cell.

"Most of the odor is coming from the first cell," Person said. There's no crust on that cell, and you have these untreated solids in there. It is nasty."

Besides cleaning the cell, the MPCA plans to take soil tests around the lagoon and test its liner. The MPCA has given Excel Dairy a June 30 deadline to get its manure management system within compliance.

Person said Excel Dairy management has announced plans to implement a new manure management technique once it is within MPCA compliance. The new manure management system will use aerobic microbacteria and aeration to reduce odor.

"The company creating the product claims that they can reduce odor by 85 percent," Person said. "I hope they're right, I really do."

Millner said aeration keeps the bacteria healthy. Bacteria break down the solids, therefore reducing the smell.

"When this is done, two to three months in, this should smell like wet dirt," Millner said. "It's a very accepted technology, but it's new to our industry. Aeration has been around for a long time. By seeding these ponds with bacteria, we can speed up the breakdown of solids and minimize smell."

The landowners living near Excel Dairy are not convinced that the new process of aeration and microbacteria will solve the problem. They have been in contact with residents living near a similar operation who say the use of aeration and microbacteria has not lived up to expectations and the operation still emits a strong odor.

Agassiz NWR is open Sundays in June

Looking for a few hours of peace and tranquility, fresh air, birds singing and a place to unwind before the work week begins? You can find such a place at Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge, located 12 miles north on Highway 32, then 11 miles east on Marshall County Road 7 (290th Street Northeast) from Thief River Falls.

Beginning June 1 and ending June 29, the office will be open every Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. Talk to staff about the latest wildlife sightings, take a look at the wildlife displays, or purchase the latest shirts, hats or nature books at the Agassiz Bookshop.

NCTC excited about aviation program

introduce new curriculum and purchase the equipment for an avionics program.

Avionics is basically anything connected with the electronics of the airplane. Although not required by the FAA, an avionics program makes students more marketable. He estimated the cost of getting an avionics program started from scratch at about $300,000.

Steve Lillestol of Thief River Ford, who attended the meeting at NCTC, asked at what point the college would break even with the program - at what point would it cover its own costs.

Temte estimated that about 120 students would cover the fixed costs and provide enough funds for some marketing. She said 150 students, however, would be ideal.

At meetings conducted throughout the year, individuals have commented about how the skills they learned in the aviation program were applied to other aspects of their careers, such as wind turbines, hydraulics and welding.

Temte said she's excited about the opportunity to offer customized training within the aviation program. That should also help strengthen the program.

Temte said she's also excited about the program. It is unique among colleges, and it is the very best chance this college has of drawing people from outside the area - even the country, she said.

Earlier this year, Temte established a goal of 40 students by August. As of Thursday, May 29, 18 new students had enrolled at the school.

"One of the primary purposes of this report is to provide data to city officials that will enable them to evaluate the efficiency of their liquor operations through comparisons to similarly situated liquor operations," said Otto. "We encourage city officials and those who manage municipal liquor store operations to download the tables included in this report so they can compare their operations to similar operations. These comparisons can use geographic location, population, and financial indicators, such as total sales, to make comparisons more meaningful."

Minnesota municipalities were originally authorized to own and operate liquor establishments as a means of controlling the sale of alcohol. For many communities in Greater Minensota, municipal liquor operations provide access and convenience in areas that might be unable to attract a privately-run establishment. In addition to these functions, profitable municipal liquor operations have provided additional revenues to supplement traditional tax and fee revenues.

Information about operations of area stores in 2006 include the following:

- Goodridge, on- and off-sale, $216,773 in sales, $120,823 in cost of sales, with operating expenses of $108,599 resulted in a net profit/loss of $7,416. A total of $2,000 ws transfered to other funds.
- Lancaster, on- and off-sale, $209,601 in sales, $137,577 in cost of sales, $87,988 in operating expenses, and a net loss of $13,215.
- Roseau, off-sale only, reported $1,417,692 in sales, $1,070,900 in cost of sales, $172,124 in operating expenses, and a net profit of $175,754. A total of $100,000 was transfered to other funds.
- St. Hilaire, on- and off-sale, $479,782 in sales, $264,509 in cost of sales, $191,836 in operating expenses, and reporting $27,804 in net profit.
- Thief River Falls, off-sale only, reported $3,485,834 in sales, $2,706,054 in cost of sales, $478,626 in operating expenses, and a net profit of $317,736. A total of $267,356 was transfered to another fund.
- Warroad, off-sale only, reporting $1,175,020 in total sales, $853,112 in cost of sales, $172,449 in operating expenses, and a net profit of $149,459. A total of $80,000 was transfered to another fund.

When ranked by gross sales, Thief River Falls was 21, Roseau 55, Warroad 60, St. Hilaire 127, Goodridge 201, and Lancaster 203.

When ranked by net profit/loss as a percent of soles, Warroad was ranked 20, Roseau, 25, Thief River Falls 52, St. Hilaire 102, Goodridge 205, and Lancaster 213.

The Class of 2015 will probably be the first class to have met all of the new standards.

Seagren said they are introducing the teacher academics now so that teachers have plenty of time to prepare to teach the new standards.

In 2007, the Legislature appropriated $1.5 million for the teacher academies in 2008, and another $1.5 million for the academies in 2009. Seagren said the state also received an additional $500,000 from the National Governor's Association.

Over the two years of the program, about 900 teachers will be trained to train other teachers. The training is expected to begin in June.

Northwest Service Cooperative's partner in the teacher academy is Bemidji State University, which is where classes will be taught for this region. Klamm said because the class requires a three-week commitment, they were amazed that they received applications from 10 teachers (their class limit) from 10 school districts almost immediately.

This is not a one-shot deal. The training academies will utilize a "train the trainer model." Instructors are also expected to make contacts with teachers throughout the year.

Klamm said there will be a cost to the teacher if he or she wants college credit for the course. Because of ongoing training that will take place throughout the year, and because these "teacher coaches" will be providing instruction to other teachers, School Districts will have to pay for teacher substitutes.

In Thief River Falls, the School District is in the process of aligning newly purchased math curriculum to the new standards. Carol Ihle, curriculum director, said the District delayed the purchase of the new curriculum because they knew that the new standards were going to be implemented.

Ihle also mentioned that Thief River Falls' schools already offer algebra classes at its middle school.

Franklin Middle School Principal Bob Wayne said the school offers Foundations of Algegra I in the sixth grade for students who are ready, Foundations for Algebra I and II in seventh grade, three classes of Foundations for Algebra II in eighth grade, and two classes of algebra in the eighth grade.

Wayne and Ihle mentioned that the algebra being taught in middle school is a lot different than the algebra taught to parents of students. In spite of the difficulties and challenges, Wayne and Ihle, said student scores and interest in math has improved and continues to improve.

Seagren said she hopes that out of this program kids will find math more exciting and that teachers will be better trained. She hopes that as a result of the teacher academies, children will love math more than ever before.

The Pennington County Board continues to stand by its sheriff, Mike Hruby, stating at a previous meeting that dispatch-related decisions should be made by the sheriff, who was elected by Pennington County's residents.

Mayor Steve "Beaver" Nordhagen addressed the Pennington County Board of Commissioners during the Board's May 27 meeting to encourage a face-to-face meeting that would resolve the issue.

"We're at the stage where we need to have a discussion about this (LEC contract)," Nordhagen said. "Not just about law enforcement, but the library and the airport, too."

Nordhagen said he feels the best means to resolve city and county issues would be for both the City Council and County Board to meet face-to-face, but as Monday's meeting loomed, Nordhagen wasn't sure the sides were ready to meet or if anything would be accomplished. He offered the alternative option of commissioners attending a City Council meeting, or council members attending a County Board meeting.

The next County Board meeting is scheduled for June 9 at 10 a.m. Nordhagen said council members could attend if it would be moved to 5 p.m.

Commissioner Donald Jensen feels that continuing the quarterly morning meeting could be beneficial. He offered that it could, at the very least, be a beginning point for the city and county to get on the same page and see if any common ground exists.

Nordhagen said the morning meeting could work, but there may be some members of the City Council who would be unable to attend.

County Board Chairman Bob Carlson told Nordhagen that it is important for everyone from each side to be in attendance. "If you have someone who's throwing gasoline on the fire, they better be at that meeting," Carlson said.

"Is Mr. Hruby going to be there?" Nordhagen questioned. "Because he seems to be the source of the latest pissing match."

Carlson replied that he wouldn't be a part of a meeting where the sheriff had to defend himself and his decisions. He reminded Nordhagen that the sheriff is an elected official, who was elected to make decisions regarding public safety within the county. Carlson said it would Hruby's decision whether or not to attend the meeting.

Nordhagen agreed, adding that everyone else involved is also an elected official. He finished by saying, "This really isn't about the sheriff in my opinion."

No action was taken, as the city-county meeting had already been planned.

Discussion regarding the LEC contract resumed later in the meeting. Carlson asked his fellow commissioners if the city has a leg to stand on with its claim that it is being taxed twice for some services.

"No," Jensen replied. "When they incorporated as a city, they asked for it. They wanted more services than the county was offering."

Jensen added that the sides could work together to eliminate the duplication of some services.

In related action, commissioners verbally agreed to continue the course of action approved during the May 13 meeting. They plan to continue quarterly billing for the city's portion of the Law Enforcement Center until a new operating agreement that addresses both the $14.25 per square foot lease and dispatch cost, is finalized.

introduce new curriculum and purchase the equipment for an avionics program.

Avionics is basically anything connected with the electronics of the airplane. Although not required by the FAA, an avionics program makes students more marketable. He estimated the cost of getting an avionics program started from scratch at about $300,000.

Steve Lillestol of Thief River Ford, who attended the meeting at NCTC, asked at what point the college would break even with the program - at what point would it cover its own costs.

Temte estimated that about 120 students would cover the fixed costs and provide enough funds for some marketing.. She said 150 students, however, would be ideal.

At meetings conducted throughout the year, individuals have commented about how the skills they learned in the aviation program were applied to other aspects of their careers, such as wind turbines, hydraulics and welding.

Temte said she's excited about the opportunity to offer customized training within the aviation program. That should also help strengthen the program.

Temte said she's also excited about the program. It is unique among colleges, and it is the very best chance this college has of drawing people from outside the area - even the country, she said.

Earlier this year, Temte established a goal of 40 students by August. As of Thursday, May 29, 18 new students had enrolled at the school.

"One of the primary purposes of this report is to provide data to city officials that will enable them to evaluate the efficiency of their liquor operations through comparisons to similarly situated liquor operations," said Otto. "We encourage city officials and those who manage municipal liquor store operations to download the tables included in this report so they can compare their operations to similar operations. These comparisons can use geographic location, population, and financial indicators, such as total sales, to make comparisons more meaningful."

Minnesota municipalities were originally authorized to own and operate liquor establishments as a means of controlling the sale of alcohol. For many communities in Greater Minnesota, municipal liquor operations provide access and convenience in areas that might be unable to attract a privately-run establishment. In addition to these functions, profitable municipal liquor operations have provided additional revenues to supplement traditional tax and fee revenues.

Information about operations of area stores in 2006 include the following:

- Goodridge, on- and off-sale, $216,773 in sales, $120,823 in cost of sales, with operating expenses of $108,599 resulted in a net profit/loss of $7,416. A total of $2,000 ws transfered to other funds.
- Lancaster, on- and off-sale, $209,601 in sales, $137,577 in cost of sales, $87,988 in operating expenses, and a net loss of $13,215.
- Roseau, off-sale only, reported $1,417,692 in sales, $1,070,900 in cost of sales, $172,124 in operating expenses, and a net profit of $175,754. A total of $100,000 was transfered to other funds.
- St. Hilaire, on- and off-sale, $479,782 in sales, $264,509 in cost of sales, $191,836 in operating expenses, and reporting $27,804 in net profit.
- Thief River Falls, off-sale only, reported $3,485,834 in sales, $2,706,054 in cost of sales, $478,626 in operating expenses, and a net profit of $317,736. A total of $267,356 was transfered to another fund.
- Warroad, off-sale only, reporting $1,175,020 in total sales, $853,112 in cost of sales, $172,449 in operating expenses, and a net profit of $149,459. A total of $80,000 was transfered to another fund.

When ranked by gross sales, Thief River Falls was 21, Roseau 55, Warroad 60, St. Hilaire 127, Goodridge 201, and Lancaster 203.

When ranked by net profit/loss as a percent of sales, Warroad was ranked 20, Roseau, 25, Thief River Falls 52, St. Hilaire 102, Goodridge 205, and Lancaster 213.

The Class of 2015 will probably be the first class to have met all of the new standards.

Seagren said they are introducing the teacher academies now so that teachers have plenty of time to prepare to teach the new standards.

In 2007, the Legislature appropriated $1.5 million for the teacher academies in 2008, and another $1.5 million for the academies in 2009. Seagren said the state also received an additional $500,000 from the National Governor's Association.

Over the two years of the program, about 900 teachers will be trained to train other teachers. The training is expected to begin in June.

Northwest Service Cooperative's partner in the teacher academy is Bemidji State University, which is where classes will be taught for this region. Klamm said because the class requires a three-week commitment, they were amazed that they received applications from 10 teachers (their class limit) from 10 school districts almost immediately.

This is not a one-shot deal. The training academies will utilize a "train the trainer model." Instructors are also expected to make contacts with teachers throughout the year.

Klamm said there will be a cost to the teacher if he or she wants college credit for the course. Because of ongoing training that will take place throughout the year, and because these "teacher coaches" will be providing instruction to other teachers, School Districts will have to pay for teacher substitutes.

In Thief River Falls, the School District is in the process of aligning newly purchased math curriculum to the new standards. Carol Ihle, curriculum director, said the District delayed the purchase of the new curriculum because they knew that the new standards were going to be implemented.

Ihle also mentioned that Thief River Falls' schools already offer algebra classes at its middle school.

Franklin Middle School Principal Bob Wayne said the school offers Foundations of Algegra I in the sixth grade for students who are ready, Foundations for Algebra I and II in seventh grade, three classes of Foundations for Algebra II in eighth grade, and two classes of algebra in the eighth grade.

Wayne and Ihle mentioned that the algebra being taught in middle school is a lot different than the algebra taught to parents of students. In spite of the difficulties and challenges, Wayne and Ihle, said student scores and interest in math has improved and continues to improve.

Seagren said she hopes that out of this program kids will find math more exciting and that teachers will be better trained. She hopes that as a result of the teacher academies, children will love math more than ever before.

Homeowners plan lawsuit against dairy

from the odor by heading indoors, Kezar said. The smell can penetrate closed windows and it is absorbed into their walls.

"You can't stop it, there's no getting away from it," Kezar said.

Jorgenson confirmed that he has been authorized to begin action against Excel Dairy. Additional details regarding the class-action lawsuit were not available as of this article's printing.

Kezar said that residents were asked by Marshall County commissioners what they wanted to accomplish by filing a lawsuit. The unanimous answer among them, was that the dairy should be shut down permanently.

Rick Millner, chief executive officer of Excel Dairy, responded to the residents' plans to file a class-action lawsuit by saying that Excel Dairy is in compliance.

"We know that there is a smell that we are working diligently on trying to minimize and I think we are on schedule to achieving that goal," Millner said.

Excel Dairy could also face misdemeanor nuisance charges from Marshall County. That matter was referred to Marhsall County Attorney Mike Williams during the May 20 meeting of the Marshall County Board of Commissioners.

Howard Person, feedlot officer for Marshall County, said the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency is using two continuous air monitoring systems (CAMS) located on the Excel Dairy property line to test the level of hydrogen sulfide that is emitted from the dairy and its lagoons. Legally, the dairy cannot emit more than a 30-minute average of 30 parts per billion in hydrogen sulfide or an average of 50 parts per billion twice per year.

When it reopened in 2006, Excel Dairy's management opted to go with sand-based bedding for cattle, instead of straw, which was used during the dairy's previous operation. The use of sand bedding was intended to reduce the odor that is emitted from lagoons. Person said that the absence of organic material, such as straw or newspaper bedding, has kept the lagoons from developing a thick crust that would have reduced odor.

Person said there are three cells used in the Excel Dairy lagoon system. The oldest cell has been ordered by the MPCA to be cleaned from top to bottom. He added that part of the problem is that solid material from the original Excel Dairy operation also remains in the first cell.

"Most of the odor is coming from the first cell," Person said. There's no crust on that cell, and you have these untreated solids in there. It is nasty."

Besides cleaning the cell, the MPCA plans to take soil tests around the lagoon and test its liner. The MPCA has given Excel Dairy a June 30 deadline to get its manure management system within compliance.

Person said Excel Dairy management has announced plans to implement a new manure management technique once it is within MPCA compliance. The new manure management system will use aerobic microbacteria and aeration to reduce odor.

"The company creating the product claims that they can reduce odor by 85 percent," Person said. "I hope they're right, I really do."

Millner said aeration keeps the bacteria healthy. Bacteria break down the solids, therefore reducing the smell.

"When this is done, two to three months in, this should smell like wet dirt," Millner said. "It's a very accepted technology, but it's new to our industry. Aeration has been around for a long time. By seeding these ponds with bacteria, we can speed up the breakdown of solids and minimize smell."

The landowners living near Excel Dairy are not convinced that the new process of aeration and microbacteria will solve the problem. They have been in contact with residents living near a similar operation who say the use of aeration and microbacteria has not lived up to expectations and the operation still emits a strong odor.

Pipeline will bring an economic boost

Hallock - "The Enbridge Pipeline construction project will likely bring a flurry of activity, along with a short-lived, but substantial, economic benefit to Kittson County, according to Kittson County Highway Engineer Kelly Bengtson.

"Bengtson told the Kittson County Board of Commissioners on Tuesday that he had attended a construction meeting recently and learned the project is scheduled to begin June 16.

"He said Enbridge is projecting to install approximately 7,000 feet of pipe daily, a projection that Bengtson called 'ambitious' but very possible. He also said the route includes roughly 15 miles through Kittson County and will have an estimated $5 million per month in economic impact along its route." - North Star News of Karlstad, June 5, 2008

School board grapples with funding issues

Red Lake Falls - "During their regular meeting May 19, Red Lake Falls School Board members continued to address options to stave off problems meeting the current budget and preparing for the next school year.

"Elevated costs, especially for fuel, and the failure of the last referendum were noted as partial reasons for the latest money crunch.

"The district is also dealing with recent retirements and the hiring of new instructors. At one point, it was noted that when given a list of two major positions and not enough revenue, either position is under scrutiny."

"A large factor in recent decision-making revolves around the timing of state aid and the next referendum. Some of these decisions have to be made now while the outcome of the next vote is unknown and state funding is unpredictable."

"The Red Lake Falls Education Foundation has agreed with a request from the board to return $22,180 in teacher training reserves to the general fund to help keep the district in the black.

"The board and administration will continue to examine the district's financial position on an item-by-item basis while preparing for the next referendum. If that revenue is not realized, the district will have little recourse but to deepen cuts and boost other revenues such as user fees." - Red Lake Falls Gazette, June 4, 2008, by Destiny Harmoning

Marshall Co. to prosecute Excel Dairy

Odor complaints prompt charge against dairy/operator

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Marshall County Attorney Mike Williams announced during the June 3 meeting of the Marshall County Board of Commissioners that he was filing a misdemeanor public nuisance charge against Excel Dairy and its parent company, the Dairy Dozen. The charge comes after numerous residents have complained of a continuous strong odor that has been emitted by the dairy.

Williams said Rick Millner, Excel Dairy's chief executive officer, has been summoned to appear in court Tuesday, June 10 at 9:30 a.m. The appearance is mandatory. If he fails to appear, a warrant will be issued for his arrest.

Williams said the misdemeanor nuisance charge carries a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail or a $1,000 fine. He is prepared to issue additional charges if odor problems continue and he told residents to submit additional complaints directly to his office.

For Marshall County landowners living near Excel Dairy, the criminal charge is a step in the right direction. But they question what effect, if any, it will have on the long-term odor problems caused by the dairy.

Marshall County resident Jeff Brouse opened Tuesday's meeting by presenting readings that were taken from a Jerome Toxic Gas Analyzer. The device, which is currently on loan from Arizona Instrument, takes readings of hydrogen sulfide concentration in parts per million.

Brouse formally presented readings that were taken Monday, June 2 at the home of Paul and Mona Loe. Those readings were .108, .091, .069, .083, .064, .103 and .104 parts per million, which were taken every five minutes, starting at 10:12 p.m. Brouse told Williams and members of the Marshall County Board of Commissioners that a camcorder was used to document the readings. A cellular phone, displaying the time each reading was taken, was also videotaped.

Brouse then explained what the readings mean for the residents who are forced to breathe the air near Excel Dairy.

The World Health Organization recommends that a concentration of three parts per billion never be exceeded for a half-hour.

Long-term exposure at five to 10 parts per billion (.005-.01 ppm) can cause neurological damage and brain damage. It can also cause headaches, nausea and asthma attacks for individuals with sensitive immune systems.

Thirty parts per billion is the "property line standard" in Minnesota, California and Missouri.

Sixty-five parts per billion is the recommended standard never to be exceeded for a half-hour. Brouse added that it is also recommended by the WHO, that individuals should not be exposed to hydrogen sulfide

Pennington Co. and TRF discuss LEC operations

County and city officials still debating details of Law Enforcement Center operations agreement

by April Scheinoha
Reporter

Pennington County Board members have directed County Attorney Al Rogalla to draft a proposal for shared expenses at the Law Enforcement Center. That decision came during a joint meeting between county and city representatives Wednesday at the Pennington County Courthouse.

If approved by both sides, the city would pay $186,799 annually for dispatchers' salaries and benefits. It would also pay an annual rate of $14.22 per square foot, or $75,808, for space at the LEC. The county proposed those amounts earlier this year. The city has already approved a rate of $14.25 per square foot.

However, in the past, city leaders have said they wouldn't pay 50 percent of dispatchers' salaries and benefits, the $186,799 amount, if they didn't have a say in the dispatch costs. At Wednesday's meeting, Mayor Steve "Beaver" Nordhagen said he "can't imagine the city not signing on for this year." He made no mention of whether that decision would be contingent on the city having a say in the dispatch costs. The other council members present, Elvera Cullen and Emery Lee, gave no indication as to their thoughts.

In 1975, the city and the county signed a temporary agreement for the LEC. They have yet to formally create a permanent agreement. In the past, the city has been billed quarterly for its share of expenses at the LEC. Since fall 2007, the two groups have had ongoing discussions about the agreement. Those discussions have led to conspicuous remarks from Nordhagen and Sheriff Mike Hruby.

Even though city and county leaders seemed to get along better at a meeting Monday, it was apparent Wednesday that some feathers are still ruffled. Nordhagen voiced his discontent that city leaders hadn't received copies of the sheriff's budget. He said city leaders had asked for the budget Monday. Two days later, city leaders were given information about the shared expenses expected at the LEC in 2008. Nordhagen said that information wasn't what city leaders had wanted.

City Administrator Jodie Torkelson said the city received that information in a letter a month ago. She indicated that Police Chief Kim Murphy had asked Hruby for the budget. Torkelson went on to say that a city employee got the "runaround" from the County Auditor's Office.

Wendy Mattson, Pennington County Sheriff's Office secretary, said two County Auditor's Office employees weren't at work that day, and she was called by another County Auditor's Office employee

Area Relay For Life events begin

Red Lake and Marshall county held on Friday; Pennington Co. Relay June 13

Friday night, Red Lake County and Marshall County Relay For Life committees will be hard at work as they host their Relay For Life events. Red Lake County Relay For Life, located in Oklee, has hosted an award-winning event almost every year of its 10 years. The Marshall County Relay For Life was at the Marshall County Fairgrounds.

The Fifth Annual Pennington County Relay For Life will be from 5 p.m. to 5 a.m. on June 13, 2008, at the Lowell T. Swenson Field located at the Multi-Events Center near Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. The event kicks off with a community picnic that everyone is invited to join.

This year's theme is "Celebrate. Remember. Fight Back." At events in 4,800 communities nationwide, teams of families, friends and coworkers join together to CELEBRATE the lives of those who have battled cancer, REMEMBER those lost and FIGHT BACK against a disease that takes too much.

Individuals who have not signed up to participate on a relay team or are unable to participate on a team are still welcome at the event. In fact, the more people who attend the event, the better. The American Cancer Society Relay For Life began with one person believing he could make a difference. Everyone who attends this event will make a difference.

Relay For Life is the American Cancer Society's number one fundraising event because so many people believe in its mission. The local American Cancer Society chapter is inviting everyone to participate in this event. "It's not necessary for someone who wants

Air Force Junior ROTC cadets visit NCTC campus

Junior ROTC cadets tour aviation program facility in Thief River Falls

Seventy-two Air Force Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps cadets from North Dakota, Kansas and Nebraska attended a special aviation career day at the Northland Community and Technical College aviation maintenance technology campus in Thief River Falls on Tuesday, June 3.

Officials with the NCTC aviation program in Thief River Falls were excited to have the opportunity to display one of the nation's most modern and complete aviation and powerplant maintenance facilities. The training facilities includes a state-of-the-art 35,000 square foot heated hangar housing nearly 30 aircraft, including a Boeing 727-100, DC 9-10 and a fully operational Boeing 727-200, along with specialty areas such as turbine engine maintenance, hydraulics, wheels, brakes and landing gear systems.

Early that morning, the cadets, grades 9-12, were bused from the Fargo, N.D., Air Force National Guard base in Fargo, where they are participating in an eight and 10-day summer leadership program. The cadets participating in the program come from Fargo, and communities in Kansas and Nebraska.

Lt. Col. Diana Kihlstadius, United States Air Force retired, explained that the program is an elective class offered in the schools. The program teaches cadets about the military, discipline, leadership and citizenship.

Kihlstadius said the cadets were excited about visiting the college because it offers them demonstrations and some hands-on activities in areas of their interest. The U.S. Air Force ROTC program has been been in Fargo schools for many years, but this is the first time they have visited the aviation school in Thief River Falls. They were also planning to tour the School of Aerospace Sciences at the University of North Dakota, too.

This is supposed to be one of the best coffee cakes ever. Let's see if you agree:

STRAWBERRY RHUBARB COFFEE CAKE

Filling

3 cups sliced fresh or frozen rhubarb cut in 1-inch pieces
1 quart fresh strawberries, mashed
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup sugar
1/3 cup cornstarch

Cake

3 cups flour
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup butter, cut into pieces
1 1/2 cups buttermilk
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla

Topping

1/4 cup butter
3/4 cup flour
3/4 cup sugar

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

In large saucepan, combine rhubarb, strawberries and lemon juice. Cover and cook over medium heat about 5 minutes.

Combine sugar and cornstarch and stir into saucepan. Bring to boil, stirring constantly until thickened. Remove from heat and set aside.

To make cake, in large bowl, combine flour, sugar, baking powder, soda and salt. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Beat buttermilk, eggs and vanilla and stir into crumb mixture. Spread half of the batter evenly in greased 9x13 inch pan. Carefully spread filling on top. Drop remaining batter over filling by teaspoonfuls.

For topping, melt butter in saucepan over low heat. Remove from heat and stir in flour and sugar until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Sprinkle over batter.

Lay foil on lower rack of oven to catch drips. Place cake in middle rack and bake 40-45 minutes.

PEACH RHUBARB JAM

2 quarts fresh or frozen rhubarb, sliced in 1 inch pieces
4 cups sugar
1 can prepared peach pie filling
1 (3 ounce) package orange gelatin

In large bowl, combine rhubarb and sugar. Allow to stand overnight.

Place rhubarb in large saucepan and bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer 10 minutes.

Dice peaches and add with filling to saucepan. Return to boil.

Remove from heat and add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Spoon into canning jars or freezer containers. Makes about 7 half pints.

RHUBARB CRUMBLE

Crust

1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
3 tablespoons powdered sugar
1/3 cup butter
1 egg, beaten
4 teaspoons milk

Filling:

3 cups diced rhubarb
1 (3 ounce) package strawberry gelatin

Crumb Topping

1/2 cup flour
1 cup sugar
1/3 cup butter

Preheat oven to 350 degrees.

To make crust, mix flour, baking powder and powdered sugar. Cut in butter to coarse crumbs. Add egg and milk and stir until a ball forms. Pat into a greased 11x7 inch pan.

Place rhubarb over crust and sprinkle with gelatin.

To make crumb crust, in small bowl mix topping ingredients until crumbly. Sprinkle over rhubarb mixture.

Bake at 350 degrees for 45-50 minutes. Cool before serving. Top with whipped topping after cool, ice cream while hot.

Speaking of getting the kids to eat their veggies, try this salad next time you have a hot dish - they'll never guess it is good for them. And didn't you plant spinach in your garden this year and isn't it about ready for a thinning if you're lucky?

SPINACH FRUIT SALAD

1 (11 ounce) can mandarin oranges
1/4 cup olive or vegetable oil
3 tablespoons raspberry jam or other fruit
1 tablespoon red wine vinegar
1 (10 ounce or equivelent amount) fresh spinach, torn
1 red apple chopped
1 cup chopped pecans, toasted

Drain oranges, reserving 1/2 cup of the juice.

In a jar with tight lid, combine oil, jam, vinegar and reserved juice. Shake well.

In large salad bowl, toss oranges, spinach, apple and pecans. Serve with dressing.

OVEN FRIED FISH

1 pound walleye, perch or pike fillets
1/4 cup milk
1 cup crushed potato chips
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/4 teaspoon dried thyme
1 tablespoon dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Cut fish into serving sized pieces.

Place milk in shallow bowl.

In another shallow bowl, combine potato chips, Parmesan and thyme. Dip fish in milk, then coat with potato chip mixture.

Sprinkle an 8 inch greased pan with bread crumbs. Place fish over crumbs and drizzle with butter. Bake, uncovered, at 500 degrees for 12-14 minutes, or until fish flakes easily with fork. Recipe serves 4.

Revoked tax permit Web site bringing businesses into compliance

Minnesota Department of Revenue Web site featuring a list of Minnesota businesses that have failed to file and/or pay sales tax has collected more than $124,000 in its first weeks on-line. Minnesota is the only state to list businesses that are not in compliance.

So far, four businesses have paid the sales tax owed to the state.

"This is exactly the type of success we were hoping for by putting this list on our Web site," said Revenue Commissioner Ward Einess. "It is important that every individual and business pay the state exactly what is owed. Customers paying sales tax trust these businesses to comply with the law."

The Minnesota Department of Revenue launched the Web site in an effort to bring delinquent debtors into compliance and inform the public that these businesses cannot make taxable sales. The department is able to list the businesses at no cost to taxpayers.

When a business pays sales tax in full it is immediately removed from the list and the sales tax permit is reinstated.

To view the list on-line: log onto www.taxes.state.mn.us; select "Collection Division" on the left side of the screen; then, select "Revoked Sales Tax Permits" on the right side of the screen.

Minnesota sales tax is a "trust tax." Customers who pay sales tax trust and expect businesses to send it to the state on their behalf. It must not be used by a business as additional operating capital or for any other purpose.

If an individual or business makes retail sales in Minnesota after revocation of a Minnesota sales tax permit, the action is considered a felony under Minnesota law.

Record two million E-file their tax returns

More than two million taxpayers have electronically filed their tax returns this year, the first time the state has surpassed the mark.

The Minnesota Department of Revenue reports that 2,022,500 total income tax returns and property tax returns have been e-filed to date, representing an 11 percent increase over this time last year.

Electronic filing began in 1991, with only 3,000 returns e-filed. At that time, only preparers were allowed to e-file. During the mid-1990's, the department set a goal of reaching one million electronically filed returns. This goal was reached in 2002.

The biggest e-file increases are Internet filed individual income tax returns and property tax returns. Last year, the total number of e-filed returns was 1,923,496.

"It looks like rain."

My dad and I were milking cows one evening about 24 years ago when I learned an important lesson. It had been so dry that year, but suddenly that evening, it finally rained. I thought we should dance in this million-dollar rain like the pioneers did in old black and white movies, but my dad simply said, "Now if it will just stop." I never understood what he meant until I started farming a little for myself. This week's weather has really made me consider what rain means in my daily life.

What is rain? Is it just a return of what evaporated last week 2,000 miles away, a boost for newly-planted grass and mosquitoes, or is it a metaphor of life? Maybe it's the rain of daily struggles and problems that everyone suffers or maybe it is just plain water. If it weren't for rain, we'd be missing a lot of songs on the radio, as it would leave us only love and mama upon which to create lyrics. I always liked Neil Sedaka's song "I Hear Laughter in the Rain," but also enjoyed "Rainy Days and Mondays" by The Carpenters as well. I've happily watched hours of rain water my new alfalfa while a few tenths viewed from the same window have brought anxiety and a sort of depression when I needed to bale the same field. I guess rain can mean much to even one person.

So here's the thing; as rain eventually creates an environment that splits light into rainbows, this same environment divides and arranges emotions into something more easily understood. It refracts what shines from each person in such a way that he or she can tell how he or she is doing inside. If rain gives you joy, then figure out what is making you happy and do more of it. If rain reveals sadness, then figure out what makes you sad and eliminate it. If rain makes you lonely, then find out what's missing in your life and go get it.

It takes rain for a plant to grow, but rain can also help people grow. If ever there is a time for self-reflection, it's during a good thunderstorm. Rain provides the essential ingredient for looking at one's own soul-time. There's not much else you can do, or wish to do, during a storm. It provides the perfect reason to just sit and question whether you're living your life as you should. If a gentle soaker lacks the impetus for some soul-searching, then nature has seen fit to provide an intensity continuum as rain graduates to hail or even a tornado; one of which is sure to get your attention.

Rain provides growth in character as sure as it provides the same for your flower bed. Rain may sharpen your focus on an internal problem or give you the time for a much-needed nap. Perhaps it can even make a lazy columnist get to work; I have to mow lawn today, and it looks like rain.

Middle River man sentenced for sex offense

A Middle River man was sentenced Tuesday for a charge of criminal sexual conduct.

Willard Arden Sorter, 67, was sentenced to one year in jail stayed for two years, according to the Marshall County Court Administrator's Office. As a condition of that sentence, Sorter was ordered to serve 30 days in jail. He was ordered to report to jail by June 16. Huber/Sentence to Serve privileges were granted. Sorter was ordered to serve supervised probation for two years.

Sorter was ordered to have no contact with his victim. He was ordered to undergo a sex offender evaluation and to follow all recommendations. Sorter was ordered to have no unsupervised contact with any minors under the age of 18. He was ordered to not enter any schools or school property without authorization from his probation agent. Sorter was ordered to not loiter in any public parks. He was ordered to not possess any pornographic material. Sorter is not allowed to enter any strip clubs, and he was ordered to have no unauthorized usage of the Internet. He was ordered to not use alcohol or drugs. Sorter was ordered to submit to random searches and to random tests. He is not allowed to enter any establishment serving alcohol as its primary business. Sorter was ordered to pay a $1,082 fine.

In April 2007, Sorter masturbated in front of a boy who was then under the age of 13 while the boy was at Sorter's home in the 200 block of Second St. N. in Middle River. The complaint said Sorter admitted that he had the boy watch a pornographic movie and had masturbated while the boy was present. In March 2008, Sorter pled guilty to the offense of fifth degree criminal sexual conduct.

Oklee childcare provider's license is suspended

An Oklee childcare provider's license has been suspended by the Minnesota Department of Human Services. Violet Cote allegedly allowed a registered sex offender, a male relative, to be in her home during program hours.

Cote had the opportunity to correct the issue but decided not to comply, said Red Lake County Sheriff Mitch Bernstein. "The only violation is the licensure," added Bernstein, who noted there have been no allegations of any crimes at this time.

Red Lake County Social Services was given information about the violation and then forwarded that information to the state, which suspended Cote's daycare license.

As of presstime Friday morning, Cote hadn't returned a phone message from the Northern Watch.

Marshall Co. to prosecute Excel Dairy

levels of 65 parts per billion more than once in lifetime.

He concluded by stressing that only one of the seven readings taken Monday night was below 65 parts per billion.

Brouse said he also took readings from his home. A reading on his deck showed a hydrogen sulfide concentration of 57 parts per billion. Readings from within his children's bedroom showed an even greater concentration, of more than nine parts per billion, which is three times the concentration that the WHO recommends never exceeding for a half hour time period.

"It smells like barn in our house," Brouse said. "Something's got to be done and this $1,000 fine is not going to get it done."

Discussion turned to mist sprayers, which were considered a potential solution to take the odor out of the air. Howard Person, Marshall County feedlot officer, confirmed that mist sprayers are not working as intended and they have not reduced odor as expected.

Brouse also questioned the safety of the mist sprayers, saying that tests have not been conducted to prove that they are safe.

Person said he had a conference call scheduled with Lee Johnson, a representative of the company providing the misting and aeration equipment. He said he would ask Johnson what kind of proof his company has that aeration systems can reduce odor.

Commissioner Kenneth Borowicz asked why the state of Minnesota hasn't stepped in. Person said he has talked with the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency. He said they, too, have recorded elevated readings with a Jerome Meter, but it is his understanding that the MPCA can't go to court with Jerome Meter findings.

Continuous air monitoring systems or CAMS, which also test hydrogen sulfide levels, are the standard monitoring equipment used by the MPCA. Two CAMS were installed near the property line at Excel Dairy on the northeast and northwest corners, but their readings were not made public to the news media or to residents prior to Tuesday's meeting. Brouse said the residents are going to get their own CAMS unit for additional testing.

"The MPCA needs to step in and do something about this, because there's no way we're lying down on this," Brouse said. "I've got a 3-year-old and a 5-year-old that are sleeping in this. No way am I laying down."

Borowicz asked if the residents could continue taking readings on a daily basis.

Brouse replied that taking readings on a daily basis is the plan, but the machine cannot be used in rain, so the weather will have a say in how often readings are taken.

Williams encouraged the residents to keep taking readings. He said multiple people must step forward as victims for a public nuisance charge to be filed. Each charge will contain several complaints.

Williams said the MPCA can begin to impose fines and penalties on Excel Dairy after June 30, if the dairy fails to comply with the MPCA's standards.

Mona Loe asked what would happen if the MPCA didn't take any action against Excel Dairy.

Williams said the county would still be taking action. He repeated that each charge could result in a $1,000 fine or 90 days in jail.

"One thousand dollar fines? Do you want me to pay the fine for them?" Brouse sarcastically asked.

"I can't change the law," Williams replied.

Curtis Carlson, chairman of the Marshall County Board, said based on the Jerome readings, that the residents shouldn't be living in those kind of conditions.

Mona Loe countered that it is Excel Dairy that should not be there. "We were there first," she said. "Nobody should experience this even once in their lifetime and we've had to deal with it for the past two years," Loe added.

Harvey Lambert, one of the residents in attendance, said Millner should be forced to live in a camper at Excel Dairy until he can find a way to improve the smell.

Carlson then suggested that the Federal Emergency Management Agency be called to assist with the problem. "You can't have your kids in this, Jeff," Carlson said. Citing Brouse's information from the WHO, he added, "It talks about permanent damage. You can't do it."

Speaking on behalf of the Marshall County Board, Carlson instructed Person to contact FEMA to request assistance in dealing with the odor problem.

Brouse said he has little faith, that the MPCA will take any action against Excel Dairy, and he again questioned the effectiveness of $1,000 fines. "I could pay $1,000 fines every week and it wouldn't bother me," Brouse said. "What's it going to do to them?"

Williams said jail time may be sought if fines do not have the desired result.

Kihlstadius said they were unaware of the school in Thief River Falls, but this coming year, two of their cadets have enrolled in the program in Thief River Falls.

While in Thief River Falls, the cadets viewed demonstrations and experienced hands-on activities, such as aircraft run-up, magneto particle inspection, radial engine test cell start-up, the finish of applications and composites, sheet metal and riveting, and toured the facility.

Area Relay For Life events begin to help to be a member of a relay," said Leslie Fisher, event chairperson. Fisher noted that the local chapter has invited and encouraged everyone to participate.

Fisher said they can walk around the track, attend the picnic, which is from 5 to 6:30 p.m., participate in the silent auction, which is from 5 to 9 p.m., buy food and memorabilia from other teams, or just enjoy the company of those who are fighting back against cancer. Everyone is welcome.

Fisher also noted that the luminaria will be set around the track by 1 p.m. that day, and will be lit at 10 p.m. The opening ceremony will be at 7 p.m.

(In the event that it rains, the event will be moved inside Northland Community and Technical College.)

What is Relay For Life?

Relay For Life is the American Cancer Society's signature activity. It offers everyone in a community an opportunity to participate in the fight against cancer. Teams of people camp out at a local high school, park, or fairground and take turns walking or running around a track or path. Each team is asked to have a representative on the track at all times during the event. Relays are an overnight event, up to 24 hours in length.

The on-track requirement is not strictly enforced in Pennington County, but the symbolism of the event should not be lost on participants. The experience of walking through the night to dawn symbolizes the experience and hope of all cancer patients - from darkness they emerge to the light and hope of a new, and better day.

Teams of people from all walks of life have fun while raising much-needed funds to fight cancer and raise awareness of cancer prevention and treatment.

No matter who you are, there's a place for you at Relay. To participate, form a team, or dedicate a luminaria at your local American Cancer Society Relay For Life, please call 1-800-ACS-2345 or visit http://www.cancer.org/; or Leslie Fisher at 681-6662.

Relay For Life is a life-changing event that brings together more than 3.5 million people to:

- Celebrate the lives of those who have battled cancer. The strength of survivors inspires others to continue to fight.
- Remember loved ones lost to the disease. At Relay, people who have walked alongside people battling cancer can grieve and find healing.
- Fight Back. We Relay because we have been touched by cancer and desperately want to put an end to the disease.

Pennington Co. and TRF discuss LEC operations

about the budget.

Torkelson replied that she had also sent an e-mail.

Mattson responded that she never received it.

About the budget information, Hruby said, "We should've had them yesterday. I know that."

"I certainly feel like we want to figure out a way to work together, but like I said, I was very disappointed about not getting this [budget] when we asked for it," replied Nordhagen, who noted the two groups need to solve their communication problems.

Calling the budget information a simple request, Nordhagen said, "I mean it took three days to get public information data. I'm just frustrated by that."

County Commissioner Don Jensen replied that he didn't think that this was the purpose and the intention of the meeting. He said that if the total budget were going to interfere with the purpose of the meeting, the two groups weren't going to get anywhere.

The two sides soon began talking about the main issue at hand, dispatchers' salaries and benefits. County Commissioner Oliver "Skip" Swanson said the city uses about 70 percent of the dispatch services. If the county paid the entire amount for dispatch, he questioned what would stop the city from wanting to add onto the dispatch services.

Lee then questioned the accuracy of Swanson's statement. If phone calls weren't counted, he asked if it would really be a 70-30 split.

Apparently annoyed by Swanson's reference to the city's usage of dispatch services, Nordhagen said, "You talk about the city like it's an island outside of Pennington County."

A short time later, Nordhagen said, "I don't give a shit what that number is." He noted that Thief River Falls residents are still residents of Pennington County.

Earlier in the meeting, Nordhagen asked Hruby about the feasibility of abolishing the police department. If that occurred, the sheriff's office would provide law enforcement services in the city.

"County law enforcement doesn't work well in large cities," said Hruby, who noted that he didn't know why. He added that it seems cities with populations of 4,000 or more almost need police departments. Saying it's a huge step to abolish a police department, Hruby indicated that city residents should be surveyed if the city was considering that possibility.

"The question would be what level of service do you want and then who do you want to provide it," Nordhagen said.

"Do the residents of Thief River Falls want the sheriff's office in their town?" asked Hruby, who referred to a past instance when police officers had to respond to an incident in the county because the on-duty sheriff's deputy was "in the middle of nowhere." The next morning, Hruby received a phone call asking why city officers responded to the call.

Nordhagen indicated that the city should look at its options.

Later in the meeting, Jensen said that the LEC was built to save taxpayers money. At times, he said, there have been controversies between the two groups about the LEC or issues regarding the two departments in the building. He said that he didn't understand why the two groups never created a permanent agreement.

"It worked, and it does work," said Hruby, who noted both sides would have to increase their budgets if the two departments weren't located in the same building. In addition, he referred to a duplication of services if the two law enforcement agencies operated out of separate offices. It hasn't been without its issues, added Hruby, who noted county and city law enforcement officers never lose sight of their jobs.

The agreement may work, but that doesn't mean that it's without problems. Petty things are a major problem, said Jensen, who referred to an issue involving chairs.

"That's been solved now," Nordhagen responded.

The chairs were purchased for dispatchers. Referring to them as the "proverbial $600 hammer," Hruby said the two chairs cost a total of $2,400 and have lifetime warranties. He added that the chairs are used 24 hours a day by the dispatchers.

Even though that issue has been solved, other issues remain. Jensen asked about an LEC roofing bill that the city has failed to pay. Torkelson and County Auditor Ken Olson are expected to discuss that issue in the future.

In addition, Lee questioned the $42,000 cost of water, lights, sewer and electric heat at the LEC.

Future of dairy industry on parade at Dairy Day

We are constantly reminded of Minnesota's sesquicentennial celebration this summer. Numerous activities are planned, and citizens are encouraged to study and learn more about our history. One industry that has had an impact on our history is the dairy industry.

Every year during the dairy show, I hear the same joke or commentary about the lack of knowledge regarding dairy cows. We're so far removed from our heritage and ancestors who milked their own cows, that a child at a local elementary school wonders whether chocolate milk comes from a brown cow. Children, they conclude, have no idea where milk comes from. People have no idea how important the dairy industry is.

Maybe not. I must admit that I wouldn't know how to milk a cow, either. There are a lot of things I don't know about dairy cows.

The Internet is a wonderful research tool. Recently, I came across a Web site with the address www.moomilk.com. It's interesting for all of the fun facts it has. Did you know that the average California cow produces 19,825 pounds of milk each year? That's 2,305 gallons of milk a year or about eight gallons of milk every day of her milking period. That's enough for 128 people to have a glass of milk every day.

Now, the Web site claims that on average, California records more milk per cow than any other state in the nation. I kind of find that hard to believe, especially since they have those "valley" cows, you know. Maybe I should be a little more suspicious of that California Web site.

And did you know that a holstein's spots are like a fingerprint - no two cows have exactly the same pattern of spots.

Ah well, I suppose this is entirely useless information. It's interesting in a strange and funny way, but ultimately it doesn't tell us that we have the dairy industry to thank for producing the milk and cheese that is so important to our health.

Next weekend, Northwest Dairy Improvement Association will present the 59th Annual Northwest Dairy Day at the Pennington County Fairgrounds in Thief River Falls.

If you're interested in learning a little more about the dairy industry and seeing that the future of our dairy industry is in good hands, stop by and watch a bit of the show. It begins at 10 a.m., and youth from throughout the region will participate in the event.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

I wish to make a statement regarding human nature in my community, Grygla. My family and I (a single, working mom of three), just recently witnessed a devastating and cruel act toward our family dog, Fritz.

My youngest daughter came home from school on Monday, May 12, to find Fritz barely able to walk and vomiting all over. Think about how my 12-year-old daughter felt, alone and scared and unable to help her pet. Even as I arrived home, we were unable to find a vet to take Fritz. That night we stayed up with him, trying to make him as comfortable as possible. This was a vicious and vindictive act of human criticism to our family.

This person took my family's guardian, companion and best friend away from us. Fritz was my son's dog, but he was unable to take Fritz with him when he went away to college. He always believed he would come back for him one day.

Acts of harassment come in all sorts and varieties. I learned later that our family wasn't the only family in the neighborhood that had a pet poisoned, or very recently, shot in their own yard.

When a person comes up to another person and warns that person, stating: "I would be careful if I was you, or your little dog will be next!" I would take that as a threat, and one that is stating he is guilty of a crime, or a crime he is about to recommit.

Why wasn't I warned of criticism directed toward our pet? A face-to-face confrontation, phone call or letter stating that there was a problem would have served better than this cruel and vindictive way of destroying our pet.

As a citizen of this country, I am allowed, as much as anyone who lives here, the right to own a pet.

I write this in remembrance of Fritz, who was less than five years old and who died on May 13, 2008: "No matter who came through that door, Fritz would always be wagging that tail. He truly was man's best friend. He was my best friend and I will always love him. No other dog will ever be able to replace you babe."

Health officials warn of disease risk from handling chicks, ducklings

State health officials have identified seven cases of salmonellosis in recent months that are associated with handling chicks or ducklings, prompting them to remind Minnesotans to wash hands thoroughly after handling baby poultry.

The Minnesota Department of Health said the cases occurred from late March through late May. The cases involved people ages 5 months to 70 years. Two of those who became ill, a 5-month-old and a 42-year-old, were hospitalized for two and three days, respectively.

All of the infections were caused by Salmonella Montevideo, which previously has been associated with chick contact. One of the individuals purchased chicks by mail order; the others purchased chicks or ducklings at a variety of poultry distributors throughout the state. While the cases shared the same type of Salmonella, any chick or duck can carry Salmonella of a variety of different types, according to Dr. Joni Scheftel, state public health veterinarian at MDH.

"In a typical year, a handful of the approximately 700 Salmonella infections diagnosed in Minnesotans are linked to contact with chicks and ducklings," Scheftel said. "However, young children are especially at risk and are also more likely to develop serious complications from Salmonella infections. So it's important for people to be aware that if they've had or are having diarrhea with fever and have had contact with chicks or ducks, they should consult their health care provider."

Salmonella is a type of bacteria that is carried in the intestines of animals and can be shed into the environment. People typically become infected after eating contaminated foods or from contact with animals or their environments. Chicks, ducklings, and other poultry are a recognized source of Salmonella, especially for children.

People get Salmonella from poultry by hand-to-mouth contact. Usually this happens when people handle birds or their droppings and then accidentally touch their mouths or forget to wash their hands before eating or drinking. Even birds that do not look sick may be shedding Salmonella. And even though a bird looks clean, it may still have microscopic amounts of germs on its feathers or feet.

Salmonella can cause diarrhea, vomiting, and fever. Approximately 20 percent of cases reported to MDH involve hospitalization. Most people develop symptoms one to three days after being exposed to Salmonella, and recover in about a week.

Some people are more susceptible to infection and will have a more severe case of the disease. These people include young children, pregnant women, the elderly, people on chemotherapy, diabetics, and others with weakened immune systems.

Whether you raise chicks or ducklings as a source of food or keep them as pets, follow these steps to protect yourself and your family from illness:

- Do not let children less than 5 years of age handle poultry.
- Wash your hands thoroughly with soap and water after handling poultry or their droppings.
- Do not eat or drink around poultry or their living areas.
- Do not let poultry live inside your home.
- Do not wash the birds' food and water dishes in the kitchen sink.

Little Kicker winners to be showcased at Jon's Bar & Grill

Ardell Larson, president of Kick'n Up Kountry Inc., has announced that the first 2008 Little Kicker Talent Contest winners will showcase their talents before the general public Friday, June 13 at Jon's Bar and Grill in Halma.

They will arrive by limousine at about 7:30 p.m. and begin entertaining at 9 p.m. The public will not want to miss seeing four-year-old first place winner Cloe Hanson of East Grand Forks, who brought down the house, and all of the other super talents.

Over 150 people attended the 1st Kick'n Up Kountry Little Kicker Talent Contest held at the Thief River Falls Eagles Club on May 4. "Seventeen youth sang in the competition in three divisions: preschool to 8 years old, 9 to 13, and 14 to 18," Larson said. All of the performers were presented with gifts as well as medals or trophies. Those who placed first through fourth in the contest will also perform at the Kick'n Up Kountry Music Festival on the afternoon of Friday, Aug. 29 at the Pennington County Fairgrounds in Thief River Falls.

"This is the only time they will be showcased in this area before performing at the Kick'n Up Kountry Music Festival," Larson said. "It will be great to have all of these wonderfully talented kids from northwest, Minnesota and eastern North Dakota perform for area folks who may not have the opportunity to see them elsewhere."

For further information on the Kick'n Up Kountry Music Festival, visit its Web site (www.kicknupkountry.com) or call Ardell Larson at (218) 754-2861.

Auditions set for "The Odd Couple" (Female Version)

While cast and crew of "Anything Goes" are busily working their way through the last couple of weeks of rehearsals prior to opening night June 19, it is now time to prepare for the second summer production of the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council. The show chosen for performances on July 23-26 is "The Odd Couple" (Female Version).

Auditions for this production have been set for Tuesday, June 10 from 5 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the Northland Community and Technical College theatre lobby.

The play is under the direction of Barb Geer. In the event that you would like to audition, but cannot make Tuesday's auditions, call Barb at (218) 222-3501 and either speak directly to her or leave a message with Laurie.

Oscar and Felix are names that have become a part of the cultural vocabulary. They are, of course, the pivots of "The Odd Couple," one of Neil Simon's many "cash cow" hits, which, in 1965, won four Tony awards, and seeded a movie and a long-running television series.

While mention of Oscar and Felix brings visions of Tony Randall and Jack Klugman to mind, in the 1980s, Simon gave in to requests to allow female productions of the play. Being the perfectionist he is, he did not leave matters in the hands of others but reworked the play so that it would retain its structure with his characters rewritten to be "real women not women behaving as men as played by women." Since that version's Broadway debut, starring Sally Struthers and Rita Moreno, quite a number of productions of this all female "Odd Couple" have been mounted.

Dr. Virgil Benoit to speak June 15 at Rydell NWR

Rydell National Wildlife Refuge will host Dr. Virgil Benoit, a history professor at the University of North Dakota, on Sunday, June 15 at 2 p.m. The program is free and open to the public.

Benoit will come to share "The Story of Old Crossing: A Manual," a project he is leading as a part of the Minnesota Sesquicentennial Legacy Grant Project. Hear the history of the Old Crossing Treaty of 1863 and the Pembina Ox-cart Trail.

Pelican Rapids third baseman Alex Johnson put the tag on Thief River Falls runner Sam Mattison, who was called out trying to tag up and advance on a fly ball out to center field in the first inning of Thursday's Section 8AA high school baseball tournament finals at Park Rapids. The once-beaten Vikings knocked off the unbeaten Prowlers 5-1 to force a championship showdown rematch.

■ Friday, June 6 - (championship) Thief River Falls vs Pelican Rapids, 3 p.m. at Park Rapids

Presentation of the 2008 Section 8AA high school baseball tournament championship trophy was put on hold Thursday when Pelican Rapids knocked off Thief River Falls 5-1.

It was the Vikings' second win of the day over a No. 1 seed and forced a title showdown with the Prowlers in the finals of the double-elimination championship bracket.

Pelican Rapids, the No. 2 seed in the Section 8AA South bracket, beat Perham, the No. 1 seed in the South, 4-2 in the final loser-out match-up that began at 3 p.m. Thursday.

Thief River Falls, the No. 1 seed in the North, was the tournament's final unbeaten team and could have secured a state tournament berth by beating the Vikings in the 5:30 p.m. contest.

Pelican Rapids, however, had different ideas. The Vikings lost to the Prowlers 4-2 Tuesday, but they shut down the Thief River Falls offense in the rematch and forced a third meeting between the two teams – scheduled Friday back in Park Rapids, weather permitting.

Andrew Sorum shut out Thief River Falls on one hit over the first five innings. He gave up back-to-back two-out singles to Nick Gagner and Cody Conners in the sixth and was replaced by Jan-Erik Lindberg, who finished it.

Thief River Falls left-hander Spencer Johnson also threw one-hit ball over the first six innings, but he also walked five over that span and was touched for three second inning runs. After issuing three straight two-out walks in the top of the seventh he was replaced by Nick Gagner. The two insurance runs the Vikings scored that inning were added to Johnson's stats.

"We just didn't hit the baseball," said Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz. "And I thought we lost our composure at times. We started worrying about too many things and lost our focus."

The Vikings showed they were ready to challenge the Prowlers in the second inning when they loaded the bases on a lead-off error, one-out walk and a fielder's choice play where a close call on an attempted force-out at second went in Pelican Rapids' favor.

Dana Johnson, the No. 9 hitter, then drew a walk to force in the game's first run and Brian Guler drove a two-out double into the left-center field gap.

That was it for scoring until the seventh.

In the top of the inning, the three walks issued by Johnson were followed by a single/error combination on a ball hit to left field by Alex Johnson off Gagner, pitching in relief. The base hit produced one RBI, and when the ball was misplayed in the outfield, a second run scored on the play.

Thief River Falls' only offense of the night came in the bottom of the inning when Dan Nelson drew a lead-off walk, Brady Johnson reached base on an error and Briar Verbout picked up a single when a Pelican Rapids outfielder slipped on the wet grass.

That loaded the bases with nobody out. Jordan Espeseth sent a drive to right field that looked like it might go for an extra-base hit. However, Matthew Skow-Anderson made a highlight-film running catch to limit Espeseth to a sacrifice fly.

An infield pop-up for the second out was followed by a walk to reload the bases, but a fly ball out ended the threat.

The game started with a strong wind blowing straight in from center field, cold temperatures and rain drops. As the evening wore on, the wind blew harder, it got colder and the wind-driven rain became harder. Play ended in a drenching rain.

Thief River Falls or Pelican Rapids will face Albany or Rocori in the Class AA state tournament quarterfinals Thursday, June 12, at 10 a.m. at Joe Faber Field in St. Cloud.

The Upper Bracket championship and consolation round semifinals will be played at 3 p.m. that same day.

State tournament finals are Friday, June 13.

The Prowlers are seeking their first state baseball tournament berth since 1963. Pelican Rapids advanced to state in 2002.

A Thief River Falls quarterfinal round win over Marshall School of Duluth was followed by a semifinal loss to Rochester Lourdes and a third place match setback at the hands of Breck School (Golden Valley) during the team portion of the 2008 Minnesota Class A boys high school tennis tournament.

The Section 8A champion Prowlers edged the Hilltoppers 4-3 before losing 6-1 decisions to the Eagles and Bears.

Matches were played Tuesday and Wednesday at the Reed-Sweatt Family Tennis Center in Minneapolis.

The results finished a 14-6 dual meet season for the Corey Thorson-coached Prowlers, who have made five consecutive state team tournament appearances. They lost two state meet matches in 2004, won the consolation title in 2005, lost in the consolation finals in 2006 and wound up fourth the past two years. All eight Thief River Falls state tournament losses since 2005 have been at the hands of private schools.

St. Paul Academy and Summit School won its second straight and fourth overall Class A team title by beating Rochester Lourdes 6-1 in the finals. The Spartans and Thief River Falls were the only teams returning from the 2007 tournament field.

Since beginning their Section 8A championship reign in 2004, the Prowlers have put together an overall dual meet record of 77-20. Exactly half of those losses have come in state tournament matches.

TRF vs. Marshall School

Thief River Falls combined wins at No. 1 and No. 4 singles with victories at No. 1 and No. 3 doubles Tuesday for a 4-3 decision over Marshall School of Duluth in the state quarterfinals.

Jacob Engelstad and Brenden Skime were straight-set singles winners at No. 1 and No. 4, respectively, for the Prowlers against the Hilltoppers.

Brian Kays and Cody Reese teamed up for one-sided 6-0, 6-0 Thief River Falls victory at No. 1 doubles, while the Prowlers' Stephen Bates-Grant Spears tandem came up with key points in a close 7-5, 7-5 win at No. 3 doubles.

TRF vs. Rochester Lourdes

Skime was Thief River Falls' lone winner Wednesday morning in the Prowlers' 6-1 semifinal loss to Rochester Lourdes.

The Eagles, the No. 2-ranked team in the final Class A state polls, reached the semifinals with a 7-0 Tuesday quarterfinal victory over Foley.

Thief River Falls was ranked No. 5 in the polls.

Skime, a freshman, posted a come-from-behind 1-6, 6-3 (10-8) win over Brian Utz.

The strong Lourdes line-up is headed by sophomore Ben Kopecky, the state runner-up in Class A singles a year ago and the top-ranked player in Class A in 2008, according to the coaches' poll. He beat Engelstad, a senior who was sixth at state in singles last spring and was ranked No. 9 this year, 6-1, 6-3.

TRF vs. Breck School

Third-ranked Breck School won six straight-set decisions in a 6-1 third place match win over Thief River Falls Wednesday afternoon.

Engelstad produced the Prowlers' lone point at No. 1 singles, where the Bears' Will Oberrender retired while trailing 2-0 in a tie-breaker.

Prowlers' individual state entries beaten

Singles and doubles entries from Thief River Falls were eliminated Thursday in the individual portion of the 2008 Class A boys state high school tennis tournament.

The Prowlers' Jacob Engelstad beat Josh Doll of St. James 6-3, 7-5 in the opening round of singles play. But Ben Kopecky of Rochester Lourdes defeated Engelstad 6-3, 6-2 in the quarterfinals.

In doubles, Thief River Falls' Chase Haviland-Brian Kays tandem lost twice. Javon Bea-Robert Turlington of Rochester Lourdes beat them 6-1, 4-6, 6-3 in the opening round and Brian Villa-Nico Sacchetti of Virginia ended their season 6-1, 6-0 in the consolation quarterfinals.

Matches were played at the Reed-Swentt Family Tennis Center in Minneapolis.

Nick Gagner of Thief River Falls was forced out at second base by Pelican Rapids shortstop Tydan Storrusten in the second inning during the Vikings' 5-1 Section 8AA high school baseball tournament win over the Prowlers Thursday at Park Rapids.

Prowlers beat Detroit Lakes 3-1 in 8AA baseball...

Sixth inning runs net win

Thief River Falls broke a 1-1 tie by scoring two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning, then retired Detroit Lakes 1-2-3 in the top of the seventh to beat the Lakers 3-1 Tuesday afternoon in the third round of the 2008 Section 8A high school baseball tournament.

Four teams were in Wahpeton-Breckenridge that day for the start of the double-elimination portion of the tournament that played two rounds of single-elimination games last week. While the Prowlers were beating the Lakers on North Dakota turf, Pelican Rapids advanced into the winner's bracket with a 2-0 victory over Perham in Breckenridge.

The Prowlers and Lakers both scored a first inning run, and it remained deadlocked until the sixth when the top of the Thief River Falls batting order came through as lead-off hitter Jordan Espeseth singled, No. 3 hitter Spencer Johnson drew a walk and, after an out, Nick Gagner broke the tie with a single and Cody Conner plated an insurance run with a sacrifice fly.

"Jordan got on to lead off the sixth, and that was tough for them (Lakers) to handle," said Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz. "He's our motor. Cody and Nick then had a couple of key at-bats. They're veterans, and they came through."

Johnson earned a save in relief of Conners with an inning of work that featured three straight infield ground-outs.

First batter of the game, the Lakers' Reed Oistad, reached base and scored.

Detroit Lakes, however, left the bases loaded, and Thief River Falls came right back for a run in the bottom of the inning when Espeseth was hit by a pitch, advanced on a ground-out and scored on a single to left by Johnson.

Conners and Detroit Lakes' Brock Johnson hooked up in a pitching duel over the next five innings.

"Their pitcher threw great," said Zutz. "He kept us off balance. Cody pitched unreal. He really steps up in big games."

Prowlers reach 8AA finals

■ Late-game runs lift TRF past Pelican Rapids 4-2

It worked earlier in the day, so Thief River Falls used the same script to beat Pelican Rapids 4-2 Tuesday night in the Section 8AA high school baseball tournament at Wahpeton, N.D. – a win that moved the Prowlers into the championship game of the state-qualifying event.

That afternoon, Thief River Falls shattered a 1-1 tie by scoring twice in the bottom of the sixth to beat Detroit Lakes 3-1 to kick off what at that point was the start of a four-team, double-elimination bracket to the finals.

In Game 2, the Prowlers and Vikings, who beat Perham 2-0 in the first game, were tied at 2-2 heading into the bottom of the sixth when another two-run at-bat produced another Thief River Falls win.

Spencer Johnson singled to lead off the Thief River Falls sixth and advanced on a sacrifice bunt by Nick Gagner. Cody Conners singled home the winning run and a double by Zach Sorenson and a single by Dan Nelson provided a two-run cushion heading into the top of the seventh.

A second relief pitching appearance by Johnson gave the Thief River Falls ace left-hander a win after he picked up a save in the opener. Gagner went the first four innings before giving way to Johnson.

"Again, our pitching stepped up and led us, along with our defense," said Thief River Falls coach Shane Zutz. "We were very efficient with our pitches. Nick did a tremendous job settling down after the first inning, and Spencer shut the door."

Pelican Rapids opened the game with singles by Sam Krueger and Brian Guler, and they both scored. But the Vikings were shut out on three hits over the final six innings.

Thief River Falls tied the game in the second when Conners singled and Nelson drew a one-out walk. Two wild pitches and an error made it 2-2.

"We struggled again offensively, but big hits by Conners, Sorenson and Nelson broke it open in the sixth," offered Zutz. "We knew we could hold them if we scored."

Perham eliminated Detroit Lakes 10-5 in a loser-out match-up Tuesday night, leaving three teams in the title hunt.

The two Tuesday wins improved the Prowlers' record to 17-5.

"A couple of really tight games," acknowledged Zutz. "We showed a lot of composure all day and battled. Hitting wasn't great, but was timely, and I will take that. Pitching and defense are our strengths, and it showed."

Nelson retires after teaching music for 36 years

by April Schelnohe
Reporter

Sheila Nelson has retired from Marshall County Central High School, but she has no plans to slow down. She plans to run in a marathon next May, and she has many other activities planned during her retirement.

Nelson, a choir and band instructor, spent 36 years teaching music - 33 years at what is now known as MCC High School and three years at Strandquist. For six years, she also taught music three days a week at the school in Middle River. "I've taught everything from K to 12 at some time in my lifetime," the Newfolden resident said.

It was a career that almost didn't happen. "My dad wanted me to be a nurse, so I worked in the hospital in Thief River as a nurse's aide for two summers," said Nelson, who noted that experience cured her of wanting to work as a nurse.

While nursing wasn't the job for her, teaching music was. "This is my life. I love this," said Nelson, a 1966 graduate of Newfolden High School and 1970 graduate of Moorhead State College.

Nelson then went on to teach band in the Newfolden district. She spent several years there until she stopped teaching to become a stay-at-home mom. Two years later, and a week before school started, the Strandquist School District called. The district needed a music teacher. Nelson accepted the position, working there for three years. She then returned to the Newfolden district to work as a vocal/instrumental instructor, a newly created position. At that time, she was responsible for the elementary and high school music programs. Nelson replaced her younger brother Deland Elseth as the choir director and Rich Filifer as the band director. Nelson has been in Newfolden ever since. Six years ago, she also began teaching music at the school in Middle River. "It got me through the loss of my grandchild," said Nelson about the Middle River job.

While Nelson is sad to leave her teaching career behind, she knows her shoes will be ably filled. Continuing the circular paths that their lives have taken, Elseth will succeed his sister as the choir and band director at MCC High School. Nelson indicated that it was a relief to know that the music program will be in her brother's able hands.

That's not to say that Nelson's dedication and love of music won't be missed at MCC High School. "There's so many students that think the world of her," said MCC Schools Superintendent Ron Paggen. Paggen, who was formerly employed as the MCC High School principal, noted that one student told Nelson that she couldn't retire until the student graduated. The student was glad that Nelson stayed until she graduated.

Nelson will also be missed by staff members. "She's very dedicated to her profession, and she works hard at what she does," said MCC High School Principal Tony Greene, who noted that Nelson did a nice job with the band and choral programs.

Sheila Nelson

Nelson gives credit to her coworkers for making her job a little easier. "I just work with a tremendous staff, and the administration is unbelievable – the secretaries and everybody here," Nelson said. She added that her coworkers enable students to be involved in both music and sports.

As her career drew to a close at MCC High School, Nelson received a surprise. Her cousin Robert Tunheim created several scholarships, including the Sheila M. Nelson Excellence of Music Scholarship. The annual scholarship will provide $500 to a MCC High School student. Nelson noted that the scholarship will continue for years to come.

Nelson was touched by her cousin's generosity and decision to name a scholarship after her. "I've never been so honored in my life," she said.

The scholarship was named after someone who has made music her life. Nelson typically started her day at 5 a.m. and arrived home at 7:30 p.m. Her day found her teaching band and choir, as well as piano lessons. She decided to retire because, as she put it, it is getting harder to keep up with the daily grind. However, she will continue teaching piano lessons.

Even though she will no longer teach choir and band, Nelson plans to direct the MCC High School musical "Grease" this fall. She also plans to substitute teach, accompany choirs whenever needed and volunteer at the school.

In addition to those plans, Nelson plans to travel, judge music contests, flower garden and go to her three grandchildren's activities.

Oh and then there's the marathon. Next May, Nelson will run with several family members in a marathon in Corpus Christi, Texas.

RLCC High School receives grant

Red Lake County Central High School ninth graders will get an edge on their future thanks to a grant awarded to the Pine to Prairie Cooperative Center.

RLCC was one of 10 schools in the cooperative that will take part in the grant. Pine to Prairie is one of 25 grant recipients of a $100,000 Advising and Counseling Grant from the Office of Higher Education.

"The goal of the grant program is to look at ways to help ninth graders take their schooling more seriously, to take more rigorous coursework, and to be forward looking in exploring career areas that they may be interested in pursuing," said Principal Mike Bergevin.

A letter from Pine to Prairie notes that as part of the grant process, Murray Turner of Pine to Prairie and Susan Yell, a licensed Minnesota counselor, will be working with a selected site team at RLCC High School in developing a plan to work with the ninth graders.

Yell was a counselor at Waubun High School for a number of years and has excellent rapport with both adults and students, according to Turner.

"We will attempt to accomplish the goals by having Susan Yell work individually and in group sessions with your ninth graders, arrange for college visits by your ninth graders, have professional speakers come to the ninth grade classrooms, and have college presentation nights, where college representatives will come to your schools and discuss opportunities with parents and students, as well as the academic and financial requirements for entering college," Turner wrote.

If the program proves successful, Turner said the Office of Higher Education indicated there may be a chance of continued funding for the program in future years.

NORTHERN WATCH AROUND THE REGION

April Schelnaha

Heroes Memorial to be dedicated

Roseau - "The Committee for the Emergency Services Members Memorial has announced that the public is invited to attend a memorial dedication. The dedication will be held Saturday, June 21 at Memorial Park in Roseau to honor three Roseau County Emergency Services members who gave their lives in the line of duty." The members include Robert Lobdell, Border Patrol agent; Richard Magnuson, Roseau County sheriff's deputy; and Terry Pearson, emergency medical technician.

"Hosted by the Roseau Police Department, the dedication will commence at 10 a.m. Other local law enforcement agencies will participate as well." - Warroad Pioneer, June 11, 2008

Storms roll through northwest Minnesota

Fosston - "Thunderstorms hit the region the night of June 5 through June 6, bringing with them two inches of rain and, in one area, tornadoes.

"On the morning of June 6, heavy rains created a deluge in Fosston. A few areas in town suffered some flooding, including Veterans' Memorial and Berge-Stafford Park. North Inderlee Avenue near the high school was flooded. The water receded by late afternoon." - The 13 Towns of Fosston, June 10, 2008, by Dan Kindall

Greenwood Cemetery to start grave relocations this summer

Hallack - "Plans are under way for the first relocation of graves that have started shifting at Greenwood Cemetery in Hallock. Due to years of Two River bank erosion, the graves have suffered slippage toward the east bank of the river.

"According to Harlan Charon of the Greenwood Cemetery Association, who visited with the Hallock City Council at its meeting June 2, as many as 65 graves may need to be moved in the next few years. Of those, 35 are 'really bad,' with 15 slated for relocation to the east (new) part of the cemetery this summer."

The project is expected to cost $27,000. So far, the association has received $9,000 in donations. - Kittson County Enterprise, June 11, 2008, by Louise Money

Rainy day cruisin'

Greenbush - "Some real beauties stopped in Greenbush on June 6. And no, they weren't beauty pageant contestants. They were, however, a total of 14 beauties all of their very own. Just ask a vintage car collector.

"Leaving Grand Rapids on the morning of June 5, members of the Itasca Vintage Car Club were on a two-and-a-half day, 450-mile excursion. Fourteen vehicles and 28 people made the trek.

"The oldest vehicle making the trip was a 1937 Chevrolet; the newest was a 1975 Buick Limited." - The Tribune of Greenbush, June 11, 2008, by Mavis Gonshorowski

"Anything Goes" performed in TRF

I've sinned, too! Jeen Larson, cast member in the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council presentation of "Anything Goes," joins in the hilarity of the moment declaring she's a sinner too. "Anything Goes," a musical comedy with music and lyrics by Cole Porter, will be presented at 7 p.m. June 19 through 21 and June 25 through 28 at the Northland Community and Technical College theater. Tickets, $12 for adults and $10 for seniors and students, are available at Kazer Music in Thief River Falls. This production is being directed by William Saetra, professional opera singer and actor.

Bovine TB

Split State deadline June 15

Effective June 15, 2008, regulations will go into effect for livestock herds in the proposed 'Split State Zone,' an area within Roseau, Lake of the Woods, Beltrami and Marshall counties. Herds in the zone will be required to have an annual whole-herd TB test and maintain up-to-date contact information with the Board. Animals moving off the farm will need a whole herd test, individual animal identification, an individual TB test within 60 days prior to movement, and a movement certificate. Cattle going directly to slaughter or to slaughter through a state or federally inspected market are exempt from the 60 day individual animal test.

In addition, all livestock producers in the proposed 'Modified Accredited Zone' (also known as the Split State Zone) should have provided the Board of Animal Health with up-to-date contact and premises information by June 15 in order to be in compliance with these regulations.

Once the regulations take effect, law enforcement officials will have the authority to stop trucks and check that animal movement is in compliance with these regulations. Any person who is in violation of these regulations is subject to criminal or civil penalties.

The Board of Animal Health is in the process of applying to the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) for a Split State Status which, if approved, would enable much of the state to upgrade its TB status while the affected area of northwest Minnesota will remain at Modified Accredited. As part of the application, the Board must develop a zone and demonstrate to the USDA that there is a plan in place to prevent the disease from spreading out of that zone.

"We understand the extra burden this places on our livestock producers in these counties but thank them for their cooperation as we continue our eradication efforts," said Joe Martin, Bovine TB coordinator. "We are committed to aggressively eradicating bovine TB, in cattle and in deer, and these regulations are essential for disease control response."

Additional information is available by visiting the Bovine TB Web site, at www.mnbfree.com or by calling the Bovine TB Hotline at 1-877-MN TB FREE (668-2373).

Ashlee Hewitt survives first cut on TV show

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Kelli Hewitt hasn't been allowed to speak to her daughter and Nashville Star finalist, Ashlee, for more than three weeks. The lack of communication is due to the reality nature of the Nashville Star contest. Kelli can talk to her daughter's producer, but not her daughter.

"That's the very longest I have ever went without talking to her," Kelli said. "It's been awful."

Still, Kelli admits the time a part is worth it for her daughter to follow a life-long dream as a country musician. Seeing Ashlee on television was surreal for the Hewitt family.

"We've kind of been expecting it for a while, but its still kind of weird to see her every day on TV," Kelli said.

Ashlee and her sister Katrice both showed a strong connection to music early on in life, and that continued as they studied violin, cello, guitar and piano. But their true love is singing, which they've done together since the ages of 5 and 7, respectively.

Ashlee Hewitt

Ashlee and Katrice currently reside in Nashville. They still perform together, but they are also following their own interests. Ashlee has sang backup for Lorrie Morgan and up and coming artist, Katie Armiger, and she has been writing music. Katrice has sung backup on demos, is running her own Web design business and is working as a nanny.

New Trading Post opens

by Scatt DCamp
Reporter

The city of Warroad and its Point Park are once again home to a top-notch gift and souvenir shop. After a one-summer absence, the Trading Post is back and it will once again be a fixture on the Lake of the Woods shoreline.

"Just look for the beautiful building on the lake," said Michelle Johnston, co-owner of the new Trading Post, which will open June 16.

The new business was constructed at the same site where the original Trading Post stood for more than 40 years. The original Trading Post was built by Joe Risser Sr. from Northwest Angle. It opened for business in 1964, under the ownership of Marv and Lorraine Kellogg.

The business was sold in 1976 to Wayne and Joanne Roseen, who operated their version of the Trading Post until 2006, when it was destroyed by a tornado.

Last fall, the city of Warroad approved a lease agreement with Johnston and Angela Cole for the Trading Post's property. Like the Roseens, Johnston and Cole are leasing the land from the city of Warroad, but the building will be theirs.

Ground was broken on the new Trading Post in September 2007. Concrete work was done by [illegible] Ready Mix Construction and Adam Norling was the building's contractor. The store's remaining construction was a team effort between Johnston, Cole and their spouses, as David Johnston and Jon Cole have spent many evenings working on the building.

Like its predecessor, the new Trading Post will be seasonal, but its owners are planning for a longer season that could last until Christmas.

The new Trading Post

Johnston, a childcare provider, and Cole, a first grade teacher and coach in the Warroad School District, went before the Warroad City Council to present a proposal that would allow them to lease land at The Point, Warroad's city park, and reopen the Trading Post. However, it wasn't the first time Johnston and Cole expressed interest in running the gift shop.

Johnston, who previously operated a traveling Country Peddlers store, said she and Cole had

Dairy Dozen enters plea of not guilty

Hydrogen sulfide levels cause evacuation of homes near dairy

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Dairy Dozen attorney Matthew Forsgren pled not guilty on behalf of his client, Excel Dairy, to a misdemeanor nuisance charge in Marshall County District Court Tuesday. Rick Millner, chief executive officer of Excel Dairy and the Dairy Dozen's parent company, Prairie Ridge Management, was not in attendance at the hearing. A pretrial hearing has been set for July 15 at 9:30 a.m.

The Dairy Dozen was formally charged with violating the state's nuisance laws by the Marshall County Attorney's Office last week. Marshall County Attorney Mike Williams announced during the June 3 meeting of the Marshall County Board of Commissioners that he was filing a misdemeanor public nuisance charge.

The misdemeanor nuisance charge carries a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail or a $1,000 fine. Williams said during the meeting that he is prepared to issue additional charges if odor problems continue.

MPCA readings released

The results of Continuous Air Monitoring System (CAMS) readings were made public by the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency this week. From May 19 through June 5, CAMS located on the Excel Dairy property lines at the northeast and northwest corners, recorded 114 different exceedances, in which the hydrogen sulfide content exceeded the property line maximum of 30 parts per billion. Fifty-eight of the 114 exceedances read exactly 90 parts per billion, which is the CAMS' maximum reading.

An additional 39 exceedances were recorded between June 6 and June 10. Ten of those exceedences reached the CAMS maximum reading of 90 parts per billion.

"We actually assume that the levels were somewhere higher than that," Daniel Olson, an information officer with the Detroit Lakes Regional MPCA Office, told the Dairy Star newspaper. "But we can confirm the levels are at or above 90 parts per billion."

Olson told the Dairy Star that the MPCA's major concern is working with Excel Dairy to bring down the level of hydrogen sulfide it has been producing.

"We are asking them what they are doing and suggesting actions that they may try to bring it down," Olson said.

Excel Dairy installs first of two aerators

MPCA says aerators not authorized

A June 10 press release sent by Rick Millner, chief executive officer of Excel Dairy's parent company Prairie Ridge Management, stated, "Excel Dairy, in cooperation with the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA), has successfully installed the first of two aerators in the manure storage lagoons at the dairy near Thief River Falls. The first aerator, installed June 5, has already proven beneficial at reducing odor, the release stated.

"Weather permitting, the second aerator is ready to be installed. This action is all part of a new manure management system approved by MPCA and designed to reduce odor.

"'This is exciting new technology for the dairy industry,' Millner said. 'Aeration keeps the bacteria healthy in the lagoon. The bacteria help break down the solids, therefore reducing the smell. Technology has brought numerous improvements to the dairy industry helping us to achieve our goals of producing wholesome, quality milk while caring for our animals, natural resources and our communities.

"'The long-term benefits of this new manure management system will be appreciated and effective,' Millner continued. 'We are working hard and expending significant resources to address our neighbors' concerns, and we will continue to work cooperatively with MPCA and other industry experts. As dairy farmers, we care about air quality as much as our neighbors. What is more, our employees who work on the farm, and their families who live in the area, all breathe the same air, too.'" (There have been no health complaints from any of Excel's 16 employees.)

"'Excel Dairy is committed to being good neighbors. Through this process, we have offered to provide hotel and meal accommodations to neighbors living nearby,'" Millner concluded.

The combination of bacteria and aeration may only have a few days to improve the odor and hydrogen sulfide emissions at Excel Dairy. One day after Excel Dairy announced that it had completed the installation of its first aerator, the MPCA ordered Excel Dairy to take several actions, including the application of chopped straw to lagoon surfaces and the dairy must refrain from depositing manure into the basins from the top.

A letter sent to Millner by Leo Raudys, deputy commissioner of the MPCA, stated that exceedances of the hydrogen sulfide standard have been measured at two of the Continuous Air Monitoring System (CAMS) sites established by the MPCA. The letter also noted that Marshall County Attorney Mike

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere - email: [illegible]

One way to make Father's Day a happy occasion is to cook Dad a special meal. This one is easy as well as tasty and he will love it.

This main dish will cook itself in a slow cooker, so Mom won't have to rush at the last minute. Just be sure to have plenty of buns ready:

SLOW COOKER BEEF BBQ

1 boneless beef sirloin tip roast (3 pounds), cut into large chunks
3 celery ribs, chopped
1 large onion, chopped
1 medium green pepper, chopped
1 cup ketchup
1 (6 ounce) can tomato paste
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
1/4 cup cider vinegar
3 tablespoons chili powder
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 tablespoons molasses
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon mustard
Sandwich rolls

Place beef in 5-quart slow cooker. Add celery, onion and green pepper.

Combine ketchup, tomato paste, brown sugar, vinegar, chili powder, lemon juice, molasses, salt, Worcestershire sauce and mustard. Pour over beef in pot, cover and cook 8-9 hours or until meat is tender.

Skim fat from juices. Shred beef into remaining juice.

Toast rolls, if desired. Use slotted spoon to serve beef on rolls. (Serves 8-10 people.)

This large recipe will serve a bunch, but it's also good to freeze for later. It tastes good on rolls, too:

EASY BAKED BEANS

1 pound ground beef
2 large onions, chopped
3/4 pound sliced bacon, cooked and crumbled
4 (15 ounces each) cans pork and beans
1 (18 ounce) bottle honey barbecue sauce
1 (16 ounce) can kidney beans, rinsed and drained
1 (15 ounce) can lima beans, rinsed and drained
1 (15 ounce) can black beans, rinsed and drained
1/2 cup packed brown sugar
3 tablespoons cider vinegar
1 tablespoon liquid smoke
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Brown beef and onions over medium heat. Drain.

Place in 5 quart Dutch oven and add remaining ingredients. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour or until heated through.

Everybody loves potato salad, and what better dish to serve with our barbecued beans and beef. This one is just like the kind my Grandma used to make - the one I make different every time because I never had a recipe before. I'm going to try this one:

DILLY POTATO SALAD

3 pounds potatoes (about 8 medium-sized - red ones or other firm potatoes are good)
6 hard cooked eggs, chopped
3 celery ribs, chopped
6 green onions, chopped (or use fresh chives if you have them)
2 medium dill pickles, finely chopped
1-1/2 cups mayonnaise
1/4 cup dill pickle juice
4-1/2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1 teaspoon celery seed
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Chop into even-sized pieces and boil potatoes until tender but not too soft. Drain and cool. You can boil with the skins on, if desired.

Peel potatoes, if necessary. Place in large bowl. Add eggs, celery, onion or chives and pickles.

In small bowl, combine mayonnaise, pickle juice, mustard, celery seed, salt and pepper. Pour over potato mixture and mix well. Cover and refrigerate at least 4 hours. Recipe serves 8-10.

Dad needs a cake on his special day, and this one will really make him smile. It will make mom smile too, because it is so easy that the kids can do it. Hang on to the recipe - it is quick and easy and so good. And it stays moist and delicious for a long time - if there are ever any leftovers. This makes a very large cake, too - just right for Father's Day:

SUPER DUPER CHOCOLATE CAKE

3 cups flour
2 cups sugar
6 tablespoons cocoa
2 teaspoons soda
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups water
2/3 cup oil
2 teaspoons vinegar
2 teaspoons vanilla
Fluffy Chocolate Frosting:
1 cup cold milk
1 (3.9 ounce) package instant chocolate pudding
1 (8 ounce) container whipped topping

In mixing bowl, combine flour, sugar, cocoa, soda and salt. Add water, oil, vinegar and vanilla, and beat on low speed for 1 minute, then beat on medium speed for 1 minute. Pour into greased and floured 9x13 inch pan and bake at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes or until the cake tests done. Cool thoroughly.

To make frosting, beat milk and pudding mix for 2 minutes. Beat in whipped topping. Spread over cake and refrigerate until serving time. (Serves 12-15 people.)

Rural Reflections

Grant Nelson

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

"Grizzly Man"

Lisa and I decided to watch more movies this past winter. We quickly watched all of the Academy Award nominated shows and a few recurring favorites. We've even seen a few at a theatre with my arm around Lisa's shoulder trying not to wipe popcorn butter on her jacket. We have now moved on to independent movies; these are the ones that rarely include talking ducks, explosions and the typical Hollywood ending. We saw such a movie this week called "Grizzly Man."

"Grizzly Man" is the story of Timothy Treadwell, a lover of grizzly bears who documents his interactions with bears in the Kitmai National Park and Preserve in Alaska. Treadwell spent 13 years among the bears and filmed them so intimately that I wondered at the sanity of the man holding the camera. He seems only at peace when his focus is totally absorbed by the grizzlies.

Treadwell's sanity is questioned in this movie, and rightly so. He appears almost manic in his rants about hunters, the National Park Service, his love of the bears, and the fact that he feels he is becoming a bear. He also displays something I don't like; he represents himself as a teacher, but his education consists of only his own observations without a good base of knowledge with which to compare these observations. He also speaks of past chemical abuse problems and that his only salvation was to embrace this passion.

That said, I felt a kinship with Timothy Treadwell. I love animals, and at times they seem a key part of what gives me peace. Treadwell names all of "his" bears and tries desperately to be one of their pack. He actually pets the grizzlies and stands his ground when they approach within a few feet of him. I think part of this is that he really wants a replacement for the human community in which he has found nothing in common. These close proximity encounters may also be a death wish; Treadwell does journal an assumption that his work would gain more exposure if he were killed by bears. In the end, this is exactly what happens when he and a companion, Amie Huguenard, are mauled to death. An exposed film found at his camp site likely shows Treadwell's killer standing in a stream, catching fish to prepare for hibernation.

Treadwell is odd (really odd), and the few human friends interviewed for this documentary are also pretty odd. The movie was produced by the Discovery Channel, so it's not just propaganda for the environmental movement, and there are interviews with established scientists who give perspective to grizzly bears and Treadwell's interaction with them. It's pretty well established among experts that Treadwell's actions were dangerous not only to him, but others who may walk grizzly territory in the future.

"Grizzly Man" is not a primer for a trip through Yellowstone. It is the story of a man who finds what he cannot find in human society; a beast he can respect. In the end, he is rejected by the grizzly community who he wanted to humanize for others as a way to inoculate them from harm. It's a sad story, but the footage of the bears and their habitat is beautiful and it will hold your attention for a couple of hours. Man, those bears are big.

FSA county committee nominations start June 15

John Nelson, county executive director of the Pennington County Farm Service Agency (FSA) Office, announced farmer and rancher candidate nominations begin June 15 for the Pennington County FSA County Committee. The nomination period continues through Aug. 1, 2008. Elections take place this fall.

All producers are encouraged to participate in the FSA County Committee election process by nominating candidates by the Aug. 1 deadline. FSA is counting on as much participation as possible because FSA County Committees are an important link between the farm community and FSA.

To be eligible to serve on an FSA County Committee, a person must participate or cooperate in a program administered by FSA, be eligible to vote in a FSA County Committee election and reside in the Local Administrative Area (LAA) in which the person is a candidate. The 2008 FSA County Committee election in Pennington County will be held in LAA #1, which includes the following townships: Black River, Bray, Norden, North, Numedal, Polk Center, and Sanders.

Producers may nominate themselves, and organizations representing minorities and women may also nominate candidates. To become a nominee, eligible individuals must sign form FSA-669A. The form and other valuable information about FSA County Committee elections are available online at www.fsa.usda.gov; click on News & Events, the County Committee Elections. Forms and other election information are also available at local FSA county offices. Nomination forms for the 2008 election must be postmarked or received in the local FSA County Office by the close of business on Aug. 1, 2008.

FSA County Committee members make decisions on disaster and conservation programs, emergency programs, commodity price support loan programs, and other important agricultural issues. Members serve three-year terms. Nationwide, there are more than 7,800 farmers and ranchers serving on FSA County Committees. Committees consist of three to five members who are elected by eligible local producers.

FSA will mail ballots to producers beginning on Nov. 3. The voted ballots are due back to the local FSA County Office either via mail or in person by Dec. 1, 2008.

Newly election committee members and alternates take office Jan. 1, 2009.

Producers with questions concerning FSA County Committee elections should contact their local FSA county office or the Pennington County FSA Office at 681-1612 ext. 2.

Relay For Life in Red Lake County beats the weather

The 10th annual Relay For Life in Red Lake County on June 6 and 7 was successful in spite of the fact that for the first time in a decade the entire event was held indoors at the Red Lake County School - Oklee. With tornado warnings in the area and weather that ranged from hot and humid to cold and windy, the organizers opted to move all of the activities from the football field to the school, where walkers walked the halls and campsites were set up in the gymnasium.

Red Lake County Relay For Life events have been very successful. This Relay For Life was no exception, as the current total amount raised stands at $76,568.92 with more coming in!

Each year, Red Lake County meets its goal and is recognized at the Midwest regional level or the national level for fundraising success. In the 10 years since this American Cancer Society event has been held in Oklee, Red Lake County has raised more than $500,000 for research, education, services and advocacy!

The evening began with the opening ceremony at 6 p.m., a welcome by Oklee Mayor Clay Haugen and the presentation of the colors by the Plummer American Legion and Boy Scout Troop #52 from Red Lake Falls. Sydney Melby, 8, Oklee, sang the national anthem, and Pastor Bob Paulson offered a prayer for the event. The 2008 Honorary Chairperson, Kathy Skala from Red Lake Falls, a breast cancer survivor since 1998, presented her story of dealing with cancer and a message of hope. All cancer survivors were invited to follow Kathy in the initial lap around the track, and 53 registered survivors joined the walk while their names, types of cancer and years of survival were read. Caregivers took the next lap and filled the gym as they made their way around the track. The beginning lap for all teams was initiated by team captains who introduced their teams and at that time, the 18 teams and more than 270 walkers took their first lap. Seven Clans Casino once again donated a casino package that includes one night's free hotel stay and six waterpark passes. 2008 saw 12 Star Supporters - individuals who have raised $1,000 or more on their own. Those 12 people include Larry Skallet, Michelle Markuson, Connie Parenteau, Ruth Schultz, JoAnn Derosier, Karen Schirrick, Terry Weiss, Sharon Kuester, Cindy Arlt, Ginny Stewart, Barb Melby and Mark Berberich. This grand prize from the casino was donated for one of the Star Supporters, and this year's winner was Michelle Markuson.

Char Lee and her daughter Shelly Flatgard offered their skills to cut hair for eight girls who donated hair for Locks of Love. Entertainment this year once again included the ever popular Lois and Lois as well as the local favorite, the Mickelson Family. Teams offered a variety of activities at their sites and Oof-da Tacos were available as well. With food served by teams at various locations in the school, there was plenty to eat. A silent auction with proceeds going to the Relay For Life netted $1,800!

The team raising the most money once again was the Flaming Flamingoes, with $15,841, and the highest individual fundraiser was Connie Parenteau, bringing in more than $4,675! More than 4,900 luminary bags lined the halls at the Oklee School site, and a symbolic candle was lit for the luminary lighting ceremony. Lowell and Ross Arlt sang the signature luminary ceremony song "Angels Among Us," and hundreds of people joined hands while gathered for this memorable phase of the evening. At this point all of the names on the luminary bags were read and teams continued walking.

Throughout the night, games were played and prizes given in an effort to keep people motivated and awake! After 10 years, this is the final year that Barb Melby and Mary Lynn Bachand will be co-chairpersons for the Relay For Life. However, it is anticipated that this successful event will continue with someone new in charge. Relay For Life in Red Lake County 2009 will be held on June 5 and 6.

Concert set for Wednesday at TRF Evangelical Covenant Church

Trevor Baker will perform Wednesday, June 18 at 7 p.m. at the Thief River Falls Evangelical Covenant Church. A freewill offering will be accepted.

From a boy on his daddy's farm to a Christian singer/songwriter, Baker shares his love for God through his down-to-Earth "new country" sound and inspiring lyrics. Many who would never darken a church door identify with Baker's music and lyrics. His soft voice and gentle manner complement his message of hope and encouragement.

Baker has performed well over 1,000 concerts in his eight years of ministry in Canada. God, in His own unique way, has placed Baker on many stages. Feeling undeserving of such opportunities, he has shared his message with many people of influence, including the Canadian prime minister. Baker has also sung twice at David Wilkerson's Times Square Church in New York City.

After picking up the guitar in 1990, Baker went on to release 10 albums and two DVDs, which have received airplay in Canada, and some in the United States and Europe. To date, he has written and recorded more than 100 songs.

Mosquito pest control should include you

Recent rains will invariably bring out mosquitoes. The pools of water forming puddles everywhere provide perfect conditions for mosquitoes. It may be an opportune time then to take a bite out of disease and the pest.

As the Minnesota Department of Health points out, mosquito-transmitted diseases may not be as common in Minnesota as places found in tropical environments, but mosquitoes found in Minnesota can and do transmit disease. West Nile virus is a disease transmitted to people, horses and birds. It is the most commonly reported mosquito-transmitted disease in Minnesota. Most people infected with West Nile virus show no symptoms or flu-like symptoms, but some (primarily the elderly) have more severe illness.

The number of mosquitoes that are actually capable of causing infection in humans is relatively small, but it is always advisable to take preventive measures to protect yourself.

The MDH recommends wearing mosquito repellent containing up to 30 percent DEET (10 percent for children); wearing long sleeve shirts and pants; avoiding outdoor activities at peak mosquito feeding times (dawn and dusk); and eliminating water-holding containers (buckets, tires, etc.) from your property.

I'm willing to bet that city officials often wonder whether the bite of the mosquito is as painful or annoying as the criticism dished out by citizens who call to complain about mosquitoes. Without even contacting city officials, I'm sure they're already planning to spray for mosquitoes. But, we can and should be taking steps to help by eliminating the temporary stagnant pools of water that mosquitoes find so inviting on our own properties. I invite you to become a part of the solution, not the problem.

LETTERS

To the editor:

Minnesota lost a champion with the passing of Dr. Stanley Sahlstrom. Those of us who live in northwestern Minnesota feel the loss most.

While Dr. Sahlstrom had an unmatched passion about this region, he was also a tremendous advocate for all of rural Minnesota. He loved the land, the communities and the schools, and of course, he loved the people. When I travel across the state and identify myself with the University of Minnesota or Crookston, I am often asked "Do you know Stan Sahlstrom?" He truly seemed to know everybody and everybody knew him.

Dr. Sahlstrom had many interests beyond his family, including his horses, Rotary, baseball and the military, but his greatest passion was education and the University of Minnesota. Most notably, he served as the founding provost of the Crookston campus, which he transformed from an agricultural residential high school to a thriving two-year technical college that later became today's four-year coordinate campus of the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Sahlstrom truly enjoyed working with faculty staff and students. He is known for his strong interest and commitment to students, even keeping contact with them after graduation. He was extremely proud of his degree from the University of Minnesota and his opportunity to expand the university's reach across the state.

It has been an honor to know Dr. Sahlstrom as an academic leader and friend. His sense of history, commitment to education and service to the Crookston community, the region, the state of Minnesota and beyond made him a remarkable leader. His legacy is strong, and we will miss his vibrant support and presence.

(The memorial service honoring Dr. Stanley Sahlstrom was on Friday, June 13 at the Lysaker Gymnasium on the University of Minnesota, Crookston campus.)

Star in February. Her performance of the original song, "Georgia to set Me Free," led to her selection to the show. Judge John Rich called Ashley's performance a touchdown and Jeffrey Steele said it was the best original song he had heard among all the contestants who tried out.

The show's 12 finalists were announced early in Monday's broadcast. Each finalist performed once during the show. Most of the artists chose high energy songs or songs that could showcase their voice.

Kelli said, unbeknownst to most viewers, the contestants only receive a few song choices, so it is important for each to choose a song choice that suits each contestant's strength. Kelli said her daughter chose to perform a country version of Colbie Caillat's pop hit "Bubbly." The song didn't have as much of a traditional country feel as others that were performed in Monday's season premiere, but she gave it a country feel and made it her own.

The show's judges, John Rich (Big & Rich), singer-song writer Jewel and acclaimed songwriter Jeffrey Steele complimented Ashlee's song selection, but also challenged her to choose a song that will showcase her amazing voice in future shows.

Kelli shrugged off the criticism of her daughter.

"You kind of have to use a strategy for these types of shows," Kelli said. "I think her coming out and winning everyone over with a real sweet song was a good thing. She's not going to be voted off that way."

Ashlee's dad, Jim is currently in Iraq, doing contract work training Iraqis. He is expected to return this month and the entire Hewitt family is planning to travel to Nashville to see Ashlee perform.

Monday's show marked the beginning of Nashville Star's sixth season. The first show was taped in advance. The remaining shows will be live, every Monday at 8 p.m. until the finale, Aug. 4.

The Nashville Star competition is open to talent 16 years-of-age and older and welcomes not only solo artists to the stage, but also duos and trios. The winning artist or artists will receive a major recording contract with Warner Bros. Nashville, and the opportunity to perform at the Summer Olympic Games in Beijing.

Auditions for the 2008 edition of the Nashville Star competition were held in Austin, Texas, Los Angeles, Calif. Washington D. C., Pittsburgh, Pa., Milwaukee, Wis., Charlotte, N.C., Kansas City, Mo., Tallahassee, Fla., Denver, Colo., New Orleans, La., Portland, Ore., and aboard U.S.S Iwo Jima for a special military casting call. Contestants were chosen from a group of 45,000 (more than double those who auditioned for the fifth season) who auditioned

The first five seasons of Nashville Star have launched the careers of promising artists like Chris Young, Buddy Jewel, Erika Jo, current ACM triple nominee Miranda Lambert, Lance Miller and Angela and Zac Hacker, the siblings who made it a family affair by coming in first and second, respectively, last season.

Border State Bank CEO Robert Hager said, "This effort to build a fund for the future is a worthy endeavor and a great investment with the potential to have a really positive impact, now and for future generations." Hager added, "The local advisory committee is in the process of creating a framework and setting goals to raise a substantial endowment that will help Greenbush in many ways. Community-wide support is needed, and I hope this donation and match program will be just the beginning."

Minnesota Wild Road Tour in TRF

A little hockey was mixed in with the start of the summer vacation season Tuesday when the Northern Leg of the 2008 Wells Fargo Wild Road Tour stopped by Ralph Engelstad Arena in Thief River Falls.

The off-season promotional tour by the National Hockey League team featured three groups covering the state June 9-12.

Visiting Thief River Falls were goalie Josh Harding and forward James Sheppard, along with former Wild player and now Director of Community Partnerships Brad Bombardir.

An hour-long autograph session was held in the arena lobby. Hot dogs, chips and pop were served during the 1 to 2 p.m. program

Harding and Sheppard are both Canadians. Harding is a 6-1, 197-pound 23-year-old from Regina, Saskatchewan, who was a second-round Wild pick in the 2002 NHL entry draft.

Sheppard is a 6-2, 210-pound 20-year-old from Halifax, N.S. He was the Wild's No. 1 choice (ninth overall) in the 2006 NHL draft.

Harding, Sheppard and Bombardir also visited International Falls, Roseau, Crookston, Moorhead, Detroit Lakes and St. Paul.

Derek Boogard, Todd Fedarok and Tom Reid were slated for tour stops in Winona, Austin, Albert Lea, Faribault New Ulm, Willmar and St. Paul.

A third touring group included Stephane Veilleux, Aaron Voros, Bob Mason and Mike Ramsey. They made stops in St. Cloud, Brainerd, Bemidji, Ely, Virginia and St. Paul.

between Thursday, June 5 and Monday, June 9 due to health concerns over dangerously high levels of hydrogen sulfide and an overpowering odor which are being emitted from Excel Dairy's manure management lagoons.

Last week, Jeff and Lesley Brouse decided to leave the home they have owned for more than 12 years. For the past week, the couple and their two children have stayed with Jeff's parents.

Likewise, John and Annette Timm evacuated their home, and are living in a camper at a family member's residence. Several other residents, who didn't have anywhere else to go, were forced to stay in a hotel.

Minnesota Department of Health Toxicologist Rita Messing advised residents living near Excel Dairy to evacuate after she heard of the high levels of hydrogen sulfide that residents were recording on a hand-held Jerome Toxic Gas Analyzer (Jerome Meter).

Outdoor readings were taken at various times of day between June 3 and June 10. Each day's readings were taken in two-minute intervals.

"We have readings on our machine as high as 6,800 parts per billion," Brouse said. "That's over 200 times the legal level. That will kill an infant child in one breath."

All outdoor readings taken during that seven-day period showed hydrogen sulfide concentrations greater than four parts per billion and the concentration exceeded the legal property line maximum of 30 parts per billion in 154 of 159 readings.

The highest hydrogen sulfide concentrations were recorded Saturday, June 7. That day, concentrations over 1,000 parts per billion were recorded 15 times in 33 readings taken between 9:36 and 10:40 p.m. The highest individual readings, 6,800 parts per billion and 6,400 parts per billion were recorded at 10:28 and 10:30 p.m., respectively.

Saturday's reading of 6,800 is not even the highest recorded level in the dairy's history. Another resident living near Excel Dairy, Chad Bottem, said Thursday that a 1998 Jerome Meter reading taken near the dairy revealed a hydrogen sulfide concentration of over 18,000 parts per billion – more than 600 times the property line legal limit.

The residents can't even head indoors to get away from the odor and its associated health risks. Four indoor tests were taken inside the homes of Jeff and Lesley Brouse and Paul and Mona Loe between June 3 and June 8. Hydrogen sulfide concentrations exceeded the legal limit 18 times in 54 readings. Even when concentrations dropped below 30 parts per billion, they typically remained above 20 parts per billion.

Brouse said he can't understand why the the state health department is allowing the barn to continue its operation after it encouraged the area's residents to move out of their homes.

"Move the cows out of there, get it shut down and figure it out," Brouse said. "I hope they don't do something meaningless like give them a $10,000 fine. They better put us ahead of some cattle."

Messing said the levels measured at Excel Dairy are higher than those seen from other feedlots, suger beet plants or paper mills.

Rick Millner, chief executive officer of Excel Dairy's parent company Prairie Ridge Management, said, in a press release, that Excel Dairy is offering to provide hotel and meal accommodations to neighbors living near the dairy.

"Supposedly, the barn is going to pay for their hotel rooms," Brouse said. "Personally, I would rather sleep under the Eighth street bridge than accept a penny from Rick Millner."

Williams had initiated a public nuisance charge against Excel Dairy for odor issues.

The letter states that Excel Dairy must comply with the following actions:

- Excel Dairy's feedlot permit requires it to maintain a thick crust on the manure storage basins to minimize emissions. To help in the formation of crust, the permit specifically requires the application of chopped straw when matting does not occur naturally.
- Depositing of manure on the surface of the basins increases odor and delays crust formation. Excel must immediately refrain from depositing manure on the top of the basins. Instead, it must immediately begin using a subsurface transfer method to deposit manure into the basins.
- Excel Dairy must continue to work towards its June 30 compliance deadline.
- Excel Dairy must notify the MPCA of each date in 2008 in which it is claiming an exemption from Minnesota's hydrogen sulfide standard. Minnesota law allows an annual maximum of 21 days in which a feedlot may exceed the property line hydrogen sulfide maximum of 30 parts parts per billion.

discussed what it would be like to operate a gift shop like the Trading Post; which was a long-time dream of Johnston. In 2003, three years before the original Trading Post was destroyed by a tornado, Johnston and Cole approached the Roseens about purchasing the store.

"We didn't know how serious she took us," Johnston said. "We told her to let us know when she was ready to retire.

"After the tornado, we had called and at first, [the Roseens] were toying with the idea of rebuilding. Once they decided that just wasn't an option for them, they gave us their blessing."

The new Trading Post offers additional retail space. Within that space it will once again offer clothing, jewelry, souvenirs, post cards, spoons, personalized wooden signs, frames and a variety of candy. Free gift-wrapping will also be available.

The business will sell Pepsi products through vending machines and at the drive-in; and a variety of necessities like toiletries, milk, bug spray, sunblock and sample-size medication will also be sold.

Continuing an old Trading Post tradition, the new owners hope that ice cream will continue to be a popular treat for the Point's visitors. The Trading Post will offer eight flavors of ice cream on a rotational basis. Johnston explained that chocolate and vanilla will always be among the eight flavors. The other six flavors will rotate.

Along with traditional cones, sundaes, malts and floats, the Trading Post will offer a soft-blended ice cream treat called a "Tornado." Customers ordering a "Tornado" will be able to add candy of their choice, which will be blended with an ice cream flavor of the customer's choosing.

The Buoy

David "Deefer" Johnston is credited with the idea of a new drive-in restaurant on Lake of the Woods' shoreline.

A drive-in was at one point located in approximately the same spot as the old and new Trading Post stores. It burned down, but its memory inspired the addition of drive-in dining at the new Trading Post.

The Buoy will serve fried chicken by the bucket, fries, soup, salad and what the new owners describe as "the best burgers in town." Additional menu items will be added later.

The Buoy will be open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily throughout the summer. It will close for the season in October. The retail portion of Trading Post will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. throughout the summer. The drive-in and store's fall hours have not been determined.

This veteran's memorial was put in place on May 22, 2008, along Highway 222 in Oklee. The memorial stands 6 feet, 4 inches in height and is 10 inches thick. Donations were received from people in Oklee. The monument is made of granite. Additional donations can be sent to Oklee Area Veteran, c/o Security State Bank, Box 69, Oklee, MN 56742. The monument's Web site is www.okleecentenniel.com. (Submitted photo)

Housing program to be resurrected

Program that provides economical housing option for income-eligible people may have been saved

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

A program that provides an economical housing option for income-eligible persons may have been saved from the chopping block last week (Monday, June 9). A motion to discontinue the Institutional Community Work Crew program as it is currently structured was approved at an Inter-County Community Council Executive meeting that day.

The motion effectively started the clock on ICCC's 30-day out period, but that doesn't mean that ICCC is done sponsoring the ICWC program, however. Oliver "Skip" Swanson, Pennington County commissioner and ICCC Executive Board member, said the ICCC Executive Board discussed potential changes that could make the program more successful and sustainable.

Swanson said the best way to ensure the long-term success of ICWC is to pre-sell homes. Under the old ICWC structure, homes were built first, and sold later. When pre-built homes sit unsold, it ties up money and delays the construction of other new homes.

Under the new plan, pre-approved borrowers would choose the home design they want up front, rather than choosing from homes that are already built. Other solutions discussed include the simplification of designs and limiting the program's work area to within 40 miles of Thief River Falls.

The program's new fiscal agent has not been determined, but a couple of options were discussed. The Northwest Regional Development Commission has been mentioned as a possible choice. The NWRDC has ties to the program's early years and Leon Heath, NWRDC executive director, said last week that there has been some discussion regarding the NWRDC taking a bigger role in the program.

It is also possible that ICCC will once again take the role of the program's fiscal agent, but under a new structure. Under either arrangement, the program's day-to-day operations would continue to be run through Pennington County.

Swanson said the Department of Corrections has agreed to allow Pennington County's ICWC program a two-month window to reorganize, before it will reclaim prisoners that were assigned to the Pennington County ICWC.

Two ICWC homes are currently available in Middle River and Red Lake Falls. Families or individuals interested in purchasing a home through the ICWC program should contact 218-745-6733. More information is also available in a NWRDC-sponsored ad in this week's Northern Watch.

ICWC program

The ICWC program was started to help the state cope with home losses due to flooding. Many of the program's first projects were actually rehabilitation of flood-damaged homes, rather than new construction. But the program's main area of success over the past 10 years, has been in new construction.

Pennington County Sheriff Mike Hruby says the program is beneficial for several reasons. First, it keeps inmates busy. Participating inmates learn a trade and they are better trained to reenter the work

City Council approves measures to attract new business

Fosston - "The Fosston City Council continued to open doors to new business and industry last week after approving measures that funded new ventures and would expand the industrial park.

"At its regular meeting June 9, the council approved the IRP loan application of Datacom International Inc. under the recommendation of the Fosston Economic Development Authority. The Bloomington-based software developer has been looking to expand to Fosston with a new division of its corporation. This would mean the arrival of 25 high-paying jobs.

"Datacom International creates computer programs for small to mid-size enterprises, along with division and subsidiaries of larger corporations. The new branch, called Datamac, that could relocate to Fosston would focus on developing software for the manufacturing sector."

"If all of the financing falls into place within the coming weeks, the company would begin hiring in July.

"Council members also approved the sale of 1.25 acres of city land to Peter Nelson for the construction of a health club. The property is located at the junction of Columbia Road and South Amber Avenue, which is across from The Stadium and the offices of First Care Hospice and Ambulance Services.

"Nelson plans on bringing a franchise branch of Anytime Fitness to Fosston. The club could be open before the end of the year." - The 13 Towns of Fosston, June 17, 2008, by Dan Kindall

W/A/O School Board approves '08-'09 budget of $6.1 million

Warren - "A budget for next school year of $6,072,067.30 was approved by the Warren/Alvarado/Oslo School Board at an extra June meeting Monday night. The 2008-09 W/A/O School District budget total compares with last year's budgeted expenditures of $6,496,440. The reduction for next year will be $424,372.70, down a little more than 6.5 percent from last year's budgeted expenditures.

"Next year's W/A/O budget also shows revenue from all sources of $5,957,052.71. This would produce deficit spending next year of $115,014.59. Superintendent Bryan Thygeson told the board he thinks that projected shortfall is a worst case scenario. He would not go so far as to say the budgeted deficit for next school year could be reduced to nothing, but he is confident the 2009-10 budget for school operations will be in the black." - Warren Sheaf, June 18, 2008

Steenerson Township celebrates 100 years

Steenerson Township - Steenerson Township celebrated its 100th anniversary on May 31. "Although first surveyed in 1898, Steenerson Township didn't become officially organized until April 25, 1908. The township, named after Halvor Steenerson, was first homesteaded by Pete Swanson in 1901.

"In 1910, Steenerson's population was 69. It peaked at 103 in 1920 and is currently at 21 in 2008." - The Grygla Eagle, June 18, 2008

TRF bridge bids accepted

Bridge should be finished in July of 2009

Work is expected to begin soon on the Greenwood Street bridge, which will span this section of the river. On Tuesday, the Thief River Falls City Council accepted a $3,162,450.46 bid from Robert R. Schroeder Construction of Glenwood.

In 2005, an artist's rendering was created for the future Greenwood Street bridge. The initial rendering shows a single arch, whereas the bridge will have a double arch. On Tuesday, the Thief River Falls City Council accepted a $3,162,450.46 bid from Robert R. Schroeder Construction of Glenwood.

The Thief River Falls City Council has accepted a bid for the future Greenwood Street bridge. At its meeting Tuesday, the council accepted a $3,162,450.46 bid from Robert R. Schroeder Construction of Glenwood.

The bridge and road will span from the Greenwood Street and Oakland Park Road intersection, over the Red Lake River and through Greenwood Cemetery, to Pennington Avenue South.

Federal and state funds are expected to pay for the majority of the project. In a December 2007 interview, Public Works Director Ron Lindberg indicated that any other costs would be minimal and would be related to utilities, provided those things aren't eligible for state or federal funding.

Robert R. Schroeder Construction is expected to have a pre-construction conference with city leaders sometime in the near future. Construction is expected to begin sometime this summer. "I would think he would want to start pretty soon, but I don't know that for sure," Lindberg said on Wednesday. Construction is expected to be finished in July 2009.

Other bidders included Redstone Construction Company of Mora and Swingen Construction Company of Grand Forks, N.D. Redstone's bid was for $3,518,584.20, and Swingen's bid was for $3,609,513.78.

Excel ordered to abate public health nuisance

The Marshall County Board of Health, a board comprised of the Marshall County Board of Commissioners, approved a motion Tuesday (June 17) that will require Excel Dairy to remove and abate all public nuisances in question with regard to the smell and high levels of hydrogen sulfide that are being emitted from the dairy's manure management lagoons. The action came during the Marshall County Board of Commissioners regular meeting.

The action, recommended by Marshall County Attorney Mike Williams, follows Minnesota Statute 145A, Subdivision 8. Subdivision 8 states: "If a threat to public health, such as a public health nuisance, source of filth, or cause of sickness is found on any property, the board of health or its agent shall order the owner or occupant of the property to remove or abate the threat within a time specified in the notice but not longer than 10 days." In this case, the Marshall County Board of Health is allowing Excel Dairy 10 days from the date it receives Marshall County's notice to remove or abate the public nuisance.

More than a dozen residents who reside near the dairy were in attendance for Tuesday's meeting. Also in attendance were Mark Steuart, a soil scientist with the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency; and Gail Larson, Marshall County public health nurse. Mike Jorgenson, attorney for the residents who have filed a class action lawsuit against Excel Dairy for repeatedly violating public nuisance laws, participated in the meeting via phone.

Jorgenson stated that the Marshall County Board of Health

Watershed Board sponsors flood protection study

The Minnesota Red River Watershed Management Board recently signed a joint agreement with its North Dakota counterpart and the Corps of Engineers to study detailed geographical information that will directly impact future flood control initiatives. The project involves collecting detailed geographical and topographical information of both states bordering the Red River.

This project is estimated to cost between $6 million and $9 million. It is estimated that it will take four years to complete. The Corps of Engineers will pay half the expenses, and the non-federal partners will pay the other half.

According to John Finney, RRWMB president, the agreement with North Dakota means that flood protection and control continues to be a major priority for his board. "The Red River Watershed Management Board continues its comprehensive flood protection work, and now we are working across state borders to protect all citizens of the basin," Finney said.

Developing a watershed management plan will consist of collecting information throughout the basin, working with local parties interested in the river, completing detailed modeling efforts and developing a plan based on the needs of the people living and working in the Red River basin. The first phase of the project will include completing a basin wide LiDAR (Light Detection and Ranging) collection in coordination with the International Water Institute.

The RRWMB's jurisdiction and authority encompasses the area managed by the individual watershed districts that have membership on the board. Eight watershed districts within the Red River Valley form the RRWMB, including the Joe River, Two Rivers, Roseau River, Middle-Snake-Tamarac Rivers, Red Lake, Sand Hill River, Wild Rice and Bois de Sioux.

War memorial wall visits Argyle

The American Veterans Traveling Tribute, The Cost of Freedom Memorial, will arrive in Argyle on Wednesday, June 25. With the Patriot Guard providing an escort, The Wall is expected to arrive in Argyle at 3 p.m. The program that night will include a welcome by Argyle Mayor Robert Clausen.

The Wall will be set up Thursday morning and at 1 p.m. will be open to public viewing until Sunday evening.

Argyle is prepared for a number of activities while The Wall is in the community. On Thursday, an opening ceremony will feature Jim Helberg as a guest speaker. Helberg is a 1961 graduate of Argyle High School. He attended the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and graduated in 1965. He served in Vietnam and served in many other posts until he retired from the Army in June 1991. Upon his retirement, he went to work for SRA International, Arlington, Va., supporting chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and he eventually became project manager. He retired from SRA International in August 2006.

Helberg married Judith Lynne Kennedy in March 1968. He has three sons: John (Kris), St. Louis Park; Mark (Kelly), Richmond, Va.; and Glen (Shannon), both currently Army majors serving in Iraq.

Use fresh vegetables in your dishes for the best tasting meals. Today's recipes are from some of my old Taster's Choice magazines.

Want an easy meal tonight? Here's one for you - a creamy dish filled with crispy-tender veggies that are good for you, too. Cream cheese and Parmesan make it creamy with a touch of lemon zest to give it some zing. Use low fat cheese and skim or 2% milk if you are cutting down:

CREAMY VEGGIE SPAGHETTI

2 cups broccoli florets
2 cups fresh asparagus cut into 1-inch pieces
1/4 cup butter
8 ounces uncooked vermicelli
1 (7 ounce) package cream cheese, cubed
1 cup milk
3/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel

Sauté broccoli and asparagus in large skillet in butter for 8-10 minutes, until crisp-tender. Cook vermicelli according to package, and drain.

In a saucepan, cook and stir the cream cheese and milk over medium heat until smooth and blended. Add Parmesan and salt and pepper and cook until blended.

Stir lemon zest into the vegetables, place in serving bowl and add cream cheese sauce. Toss gently. Serves 4-6 people.

Just how bad has the economy gotten? You might want to learn to make this dish that was all the rage back in the '30s:

DEPRESSION CASSEROLE

1 large onion, chopped
1-2 tablespoons oil
1/2 cup ketchup
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup vinegar
1 teaspoon dry mustard
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 (16 ounce) package hot dogs, cut in 1 inch chunks

In saucepan, sauté onion in oil until tender. Stir in ketchup, water, vinegar, mustard and pepper. Bring to a boil, stirring occasionally.

Place hot dogs in 1 quart baking dish and pour sauce over. Bake, uncovered, at 375 degrees for 30 minutes or until bubbly. Serve over toast points or rice, or with fresh biscuits too.

(I bet you could leave your hot dogs whole and then serve them on hot dog buns, with or without the sauce.)

DILLED CORN AND PEA SALAD

2 1/2 cups fresh or frozen sugar snap peas
2 cups fresh or frozen corn
1 small sweet red pepper, julienned
1/4 cup water
1 tablespoon butter'
1 teaspoon minced fresh dill or 1/4 teaspoon dill weed
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper

Place peas, corn, red pepper and water in saucepan. Cover and cook on high for 2-4 minutes or until vegetables are crisp-tender. Drain and return to pan. Add butter, dill, salt and pepper and toss to coat.

Here's another good rhubarb recipe. This old favorite dessert is made better by cooking the sauce that is poured onto the rhubarb. It won't overcook the topping or bottom this way. And it the crunch is made with the old-fashioned kind of oatmeal topping that Grandma made. It also uses whole oats instead of the quick kind:

RHUBARB CRUNCH

1 cup flour
3/4 cup whole oats
1 cup packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup butter, melted
4 cups sliced fresh or frozen rhubarb
Topping:
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1 cup water
1 teaspoon vanilla
Red food coloring, as needed

In large bowl, combine flour, oats, brown sugar, cinnamon and butter. Mix crumbly. Press half of the mixture into ungreased 9 inch square baking pan. Cover with rhubarb.

To make rhubarb sauce, combine sugar and cornstarch in small saucepan. Add water and cook and stir until thickened and bubbly. Cook and stir 2 minutes more, then remove from heat and stir in vanilla and food coloring if your rhubarb is green. Pour over rhubarb in pan.

Top with remaining half of crumbs. Bake at 350 degrees for 50-60 minutes or until bubbly and lightly browned.

I was looking for a good everyday yellow cake and I may have found one. This is an old recipe from a lady in Tennessee. She said her mother made it often and it was her "never fail" recipe.

I tried it last weekend and it was great. Let me share "tricks." I used large eggs; regular flour; a 7x11 inch, greased and floured pan; and baked it the full 25 minutes, making sure it tested done. I also added 1 teaspoon of vanilla to the "frosting."

It's a nice little cake to make in a hurry. You could frost with chocolate or caramel frosting too, if you don't care for the coconut, but the coconut topping was great. You could add a few walnuts to it, too:

LAZY DAISY CAKE

2 eggs
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
Frosting:
3/4 cup packed brown sugar
1/2 cup butter, melted
2 tablespoons cream
1 cup shredded coconut

In large bowl, beat eggs, sugar and vanilla until thick and lemon-colored, about 4 minutes. Combine flour, baking powder and salt. Add to egg mixture and beat on low just until combined.

Heat milk and butter in small saucepan until butter melts. Add to batter and beat thoroughly. Batter will be thin. Pour into greased 9-inch square baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes until cake tests done. Cool slightly while mixing frosting.

To make frosting, blend all ingredients well. Spread over warm cake. Broil about 4 inches from heat for 3-4 minutes or until top is lightly browned.

Under the sun

This week, the sun came out, finally. I feel like I've been living in Ireland for the last few weeks, so it was nice to see the rain give way to sun. It made me feel like farming, so that's what I did.

I like the process of raising crops; digging, planting, fertilizing and harvesting keeps a farm boy close to the land. This week, I hooked up my tractor to my dad's disk and headed out to prepare some ground to plant alfalfa. It's a great feeling to sit in a tractor. I pass by our pet cemetery and think about the joy these little guys gave while they were with us. My mother-in-law, Jeannette Walseth, recently made headstones and crosses from concrete patch and they look really nice. Next, I make the bend and follow the field road out to my work.

I used to worry so much about how deep I should dig, but no matter what, it always seems to work out. I give the depth on my no-tillage drill more attention, but when I disk, I pretty much let the disk make the decisions. After a few trips over the field, I go visit Phil Knott in St Hilaire and get my seed and fertilizer, which I apply with a spreader. The spreader has a metal conveyor belt that delivers a measured amount to a pair of spinners, which then evenly fling the mixture onto the ground. Next, I use the harrow, which performs like a yard rake, to cover the seed a little and firm up the seed bed.

Speaking of farming, I want to update you on the Farmall tractor I got from my dad. My co-worker Seth Vettleson told me his dad had a grapple fork for it, which has been mounted along with the proper hydraulic hose and valve. This week, I also converted it from six volt to 12 volt, which makes it very easy to start. Dad stopped by this week, climbed up into the seat and cranked her up. Then, we leaned on the old M and talked. It made a good day even better.

Lyle Swanson came over this week to cut a little alfalfa for me. There is no more conscientious man than Lyle. Any job he does, he performs it to perfection. All of my alfalfa ground is surrounded by fence, but Lyle wanted to get every bit of available forage, so he drove his hay cutter closer to the fence than I even dare to when I walk by it. My water pipeline is aboveground in this area, a fact which I should have shared with Lyle. Lyle always keeps a nice, sharp cutter bar, and it performed well, not only on the alfalfa, but also on my pipeline. Actually, when I got home and turned the water back on, I thought our new fountain would have made a nice addition to our farm, if it weren't for thirsty cattle. It took about a half hour to fix, and it was my fault for not telling Lyle, but that sparkling spray of water was really kind of pretty. I guess everything looks better under a nice, bright sun.

Marshall Co. Historical Society seeks artifacts

Marshall County Historical Society is looking for vintage military artifacts and local sports memorabilia to expands its collection.

Over the years, the donation of vintage uniforms has been well received by visitors to the museum. The display is currently being exhibited in the depot building. It is the hope of members of the historical society, that with the planned expansion of the facility, it will be able to expand its collection of military history.

The current collection includes uniform exhibits from World War I, World War II, Korea and Vietnam. The historical society is interested in obtaining Civil War uniforms and artifacts. The organization is also looking for artifacts and uniforms from veterans of more recent engagements.

Artifacts the organization is looking for include firearms, bayonets, knives, duty belts, helmets, footwear and more. The organization also hopes to start a display of service ribbons, rating badges, chevrons and unit patches.

The Marshall County Historical Society also wants to expand its collection of area sporting memorabilia. Sporting events in early Marshall County played a significant part of the local history. In early years, area residents looked forward to the Friday and Saturday night games. Many towns had city baseball teams, and there were a number of rivalries between local communities.

The historical society does have a number of vintage photographs of area teams going back to the turn of the century. It would like to expand these photos into areas of vintage sporting uniforms and artifacts.

Warren once had a hockey team back in the 1920s that played the University of North Dakota twice a year. The organization also has documentation of a Warren women's basketball team back in the 1920s. The historical society also would like to hear about teams that represented other communities in Marshall County.

For more information, or to make a donation to the Marshall County Historical Society, contact Mike Johnson, director of the Marshall County Historical Society, at 218-745-4803.

Settlers Square to host Laundry Day

On Thursday, June 26 from 1:30 to 3 p.m., area youth will have the opportunity to visit Settlers Square in Warren and experience first-hand what laundry day was like for their grandparents and great-grandparents.

Marshall County Historical Society Board members will share and demonstrate a typical laundry day of the past. Youth will have the opportunity to participate, so they should dress accordingly.

Others are also welcome to attend Laundry Day and see the numerous other museum attractions.

Laundry Day is part one of a three-part summer activity for area youth to visit the past. The next scheduled events are bread-making on July 17 and homemade ice cream on Aug. 21.

For more information, call (218) 745-4803.

Sparby to receive Top Aggie Award

Thief River Falls resident Wallace Sparby will receive a 2008 Top Aggie Award during the annual reunion of the Northwest School of Agriculture on June 27 to 28. The reunion will be held at the University of Minnesota, Crookston campus.

Sparby will be recognized for his exemplary commitment and service to community, church, education and family, as well as his profession. The other 2008 Top Aggie Awards will be presented to Charles Vind, Fertile; Ray Anderson, East Grand Forks; and Karen Good, Red Lake. The Top Aggie Award, given by the NWSA alumni association, is the highest tribute alumni of the Northwest School can receive.

The theme for this year's event is "We'll Have a Rockin' Reunion" and features not only great songs of the past but serves as a time for alumni to celebrate Top Aggie Award honors, learn more about what's happening on campus, share memories and catch up with old friends.

Other reunion highlights include a 50th reunion celebration for the class of 1958, a program featuring a video tribute to the Northwest School and music by the Fall Creek Quartet, a fish fry, social and dance.

The NWSA, a residential high school established by the University of Minnesota in 1906, held its first reunion the last weekend in June in the summer 1925. Faculty, staff and alumni of the Northwest School are encouraged to attend the reunion. Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society to host Midsommar Festival June 25

The Agassiz Swedish Heritage Society will hold its annual Midsommar Festival Wednesday, June 25 in the Lancaster City Park.

Activities begin with coffee and goodies provided by members at 2 p.m., followed by decorating the maypole with flowers and greens at 2:30 p.m. Organizing the event is president Lyndon Johnson, Hallock, who requests that members bring wildflowers and green leafy branches for the decorating.

Highlights of the festive afternoon are raising the maypole, followed by ring dancing around the maypole to music provided by Stanley Visness, who plays guitar, and his daughter, who plays violin, from Karlstad. Everyone is invited to join in the dances led by Johnson, who will also provide vocal music accompanying himself with his mandolin.

Concluding the afternoon, everyone is invited to the Sion Lutheran Church in Lancaster for its annual Swedish Smorgasbord, which begins at 4:30 p.m. Sion women prepare many authentic Swedish dishes, including herring salad and red beet salad. Sion Church is famed for its smorgasbord meal.

In Sweden, Midsommar marks the longest day of the year and the first day of summer. Summer in Sweden is short. It starts in May and bursts into life in June. Nights are scarcely dark, and in the north of Sweden, the sun never sets. Midsommar is an occasion of large gatherings and celebrations. This heritage will be remembered in Lancaster June 25.

Johnson extends a cordial invitation to everyone to attend, whether or not of Swedish descent.

ASHS' main founder and staunch supporter, Dr. Stanley Sahlstrom, died June 2 at age 87 in St. Cloud. He was a former University of Minnesota, Crookston provost and Minnesota Board of Regents member for many years. Sahlstrom always hosted the ASHS' February meeting at the university and secured speakers for many meetings through the years, until his health recently failed him.

Marshall Co. FSA Committee nominations sought

Marshall County Committee Chairperson Rodney Liedberg has announed the Farm Service Agency has begun accepting nomination forms for eligible candidates to serve on the local FSA county committees. The nomination period ends Aug. 1.

"I encourage local producers to become a member of the local FSA County Committee and make a difference," said Liedberg. "FSA county committees have an important role in the decision-making process for commodity price support loans and payments, conservation and disaster programs, and other important agricultural issues in their farming community."

Almost anyone participating or cooperating in a local FSA program – and of legal voting age – may be a candidate. Individuals may nominate themselves or others.

All nomination forms must be received in the County FSA Office or postmarked by Aug. 1. Voting takes place between Nov. 3 and Dec. 1.

To hold office as an FSA County Committee member, a person must meet the basic eligibility requirements described below:

- Participate or cooperate in a program administered by FSA;
- Be eligible to vote in a County Committee election; and
- Reside in LAA #3 (Como, Thief Lake, Moose River, Linsell, Cedar, Whiteford, Rollis, Veldt, East Valley, Mud Lake, Eckvoll, Valley, Agder, Grand Plain, Moylan, Espelie, Excel Strip, Agder Strip, Grand Plain Strip or Espelie Strip) in which the person is a candidate

A person must not have been:

- Removed or disqualified from the office of FSA County Committee member, alternate or employee;
- Removed for cause from any public office or have been convicted of fraud, larceny, embezzlement or any other felony; or
- Dishonorably discharged from any branch of the armed services.

People uncertain about their eligibility to vote in the FSA County Committee election should contact the local FSA office. Affirmation of eligibility to vote must be determined in order for a vote to count in an election.

More information on the County Community elections, including the nomination forms, is available at local FSA county offices or USDA Service Centers, or online at www.fsa.usda.gov/pas/publications/elections/Default.asp.

Flooding here?

Be prepared for unexpected emergencies

This week, a delegation of business leaders from Cedar Rapids visited Grand Forks, N.D., seeking answers about flood recovery. Perhaps what they were really seeking was reassurance that there is hope for recovery.

Grand Forks, N.D., and other communities in our region, serve as excellent examples of what can be accomplished during and after a major disaster. Grand Forks, in particular, has undergone an incredible transformation - new parks, new businesses, more secure flood protection, and continued growth. With these examples, and experience, Cedar Rapids citizens can rest assured that their community will recover. There is hope.

The flooding in Iowa and Mississippi and other parts of the country isn't so far removed from our own experience that we don't flinch or wonder if we have enough sandbags on hand whenever the topic arises in conversation. Usually, we worry about floods a little closer to the spring melt, but it isn't too late for there to be flooding. Why flooding? There are many different types of possible emergencies - animal disease and outbreaks, chemical accidents, explosions, fires, disease, utility breakdowns, transportation accidents and much more. After two or more weeks of rain, however, how can we not be concerned about a sudden deluge of rain and what it might mean to residents? So, our thoughts and prayers go out to those who lost homes, property and loved ones in the recent storms. It also reminds us to be prepared.

You aren't on your own. Minnesota has created a web site, called CodeReady, to help us be prepared for emergencies. The statewide initiative was created to help all Minnesotans be informed, organized and connected on emergency preparedness. The web site, www.codeready.org, offers tips and suggestions, such as how to create a family plan, and what "extra" food and water to have on hand in case of an emergency. It's a useful site to know about and explore before an emergency.

Take the time to map out your strategy. By the way, this is National Safety Month. The first week emphasized emergency preparedness; the second emphasized the dangers of distracted driving; the third emphasized accidental poisoning; and the fourth emphasized fall prevention. All of these subjects provide useful reminders. Another useful reminder comes from fire departments throughout the region and the Push for Bree program - check and change batteries in smoke detectors and replace smoke alarms at least every 10 years.

Digi-Key, a major employer in the region, conducted a safety and health expo last week. It was a useful public and private company service to area residents. While our thoughts and prayers are with those who are suffering, we shouldn't lose sight of the fact that we could be better prepared, too.

Marshall County luminary lighting scheduled for June 23

The lighting of the luminaries, typically held during the Marshall County Relay for Life event, has been rescheduled for Monday, June 23 at 8:45 p.m. at the Marshall County Fairgrounds. Interested participants are invited to help place over 4,300 luminaries around the path.

The luminaries will be lit at dusk, about 9:30 p.m., followed by an Hour of Hope Walk. In case of another evening of bad weather, an alternate date of Monday, June 30, has been set. The weather was probably a factor in the monies raised being short of the goal by about $2,100. Donations toward the goal of $62,500 will continue to be accepted prior to Aug. 31.

Housing program to be resurrected

force following their release from prison. Their days are also more structured and they are less likely to cause trouble after a day of work.

Second, the program gives individuals, who otherwise wouldn't be able to afford a home, the opportunity to buy a house. It also brings the Pennington County Jail $54 per inmate, per day, fram the state of Minnesota for housing the program's participants.

"For the most part, the ICWC program is an example of government doing the right thing for a change," Hruby said. "Think about a guy who's going to prison, who's lost all hope. If you can give that inmate hope, it's going to lead to production, and in this case, it's going to show that person something that he or she may have never seen, like a typical working day."

Hruby continued, saying that the program prepares inmates for an eventual return to society.

"We try to help the inmates along and give them the skills they will need to be productive and make themselves better," Hruby said. "They have to decide when they leave here, that they want to walk the straight and narrow.

The Pennington County ICWC typically includes a crew of six inmates. Participating inmates are screened similarly to traditional job applicants. Inmates chosen for the program are non-violent, low-risk offenders. No home construction experience is required of participating inmates, but a preference is given to inmates who have an interest in a home-building career. All applicants are heavily screened.

ICWC homes are built to code and crews are led by licensed carpenters.

Construction is limited to city-owned lots that are donated for the ICWC program. New homes also include basic appliances such as refrigerators, ovens, dishwashers, and washers and dryers.

"You can walk right in and live there," Hruby soid. "Everyone wins a little with this program."

Excel ordered to abate public health nuisance

has an obligation to remedy the issue, if the dairy's ownership does not. He continued, stating that the Board of Health can request an injunction from the district court to shut down the operation.

Jeff Brouse, one of the Excel Township residents who followed the advise of Minnesota Department of Health Toxicologist Rita Messing and left his home two weeks ago, stated during Tuesday's meeting that hydrogen sulfide readings taken the previous night were once again much higher than the World Health Organization deems acceptable.

Steuart said that the MPCA has several options for citing Excel Dairy for violations. He continued, saying that the MPCA plans to continue its current course of action.

Jorgenson asked Steuart if Excel Dairy will be allowed any more extensions to resolve its compliance issues.

Steuart said that he doesn't believe that Excel Dairy will receive any more extensions. He also said that this is a civil process and it does not move very fast.

Bandits start year with a split

Three days after finishing fourth in the Minnesota Class AA high school state tournament, Thief River Falls players were back in uniform for the start of the 2008 American Legion baseball season.

Coming off a 19-8 high school campaign, the Prowlers-turned-Bandits opened the Legion schedule with a Monday doubleheader split vs. East Grand Forks at the Multi-Events Center. Post 117 won the opener 12-7, but lost the second game 3-1.

Thief River Falls built an 8-0 third inning Game 1 lead. East Grand Forks scored six times in the fourth to get back into the contest, only to give up four runs in the fifth.

"We came out and scored a lot of runs early," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Courtney Skjerven. "An error and a couple of walks led to a big inning for them. We need to stay out of big innings in the future."

Spencer Johnson turned in a complete-game pitching performance for the win, giving up five hits while striking out eight and walking seven.

Briar Verbout led the first-game offense with a 3-for-4 effort at the plate. Jordan Espeseth, Sean Sorteberg, Nick Gagner and Johnson had two-hit games for the winners. Espeseth drove in four runs and scored three times.

Gagner was a tough-luck loser in Game 2 when he pitched six shutout innings, gave up just two hits, struck out seven and walked only three.

The Bandits came up with eight hits, but produced only a third inning run. East Grand Forks did all of its scoring in the top of the sixth inning.

"Nick pitched a great game," pointed out Skjerven. "It came down to us not having good at-bats with runners on base. Eight hits and only one run won't win many games."

Espeseth and Sorteberg were both 2-for-3 in the nightcap.

The Bandits were originally scheduled to open their season Monday, June 9, at Fergus Falls. That doubleheader was postponed due to Thief River Falls' participation in the June 12-13 Class AA state tournament in St. Cloud.

Post 117 baseball...

Courtney Skjerven is in fifth year as coach

Courtney Skjerven is in his fifth year as coach of the Thief River Falls Post 117 American Legion baseball program.

Paul Peterson is serving as the Bandits' general manager.

Thief River Falls' junior varsity coach during the spring high school baseball season, Skjerven has compiled a 75-73 record as Legion coach. The Bandits were 23-16 a year ago when they reached the Ninth District Division I tournament finals before losing to Perham.

The Bandits' 2008 schedule features 16 regular season doubleheaders and appearances at invitational tournaments in Perham, East Grand Forks and Duluth.

Pitching should not be a problem for Skjerven. Ten of the 19 players on the roster are listed as pitchers (along with other positions).

TRF Legion rebounds for win

Thief River Falls bounced back from an 11-4 first-game drubbing to shut out Detroit Lakes 10-0 in Game 2 for a Tuesday American Legion baseball doubleheader split at the Multi-Events Center.

The Bandits collected 10 Game 1 hits, but gave up 13 and fell behind 11-1 through just 3 1/2 innings.

"This was the flattest game we have played in a long time," said Thief River Falls coach Courtney Skjerven. "We were not ready to play. We were flat in every aspect of the game, and they took it to us."

It was a different story in the nightcap when the Bandits out-hit the Lakers 11-1 and doubled their 5-0 lead with a five-run sixth inning.

Ben Espeseth pitched 3 2/3 innings of hitless ball and Jordan Espeseth finished it with 2 1/3 innings of one-hit pitching.

"After the first game, we really challenged ourselves to get going and set the tone for the summer," explained Skjerven. "Ben stepped up and threw great for his first time on the mound since early August."

Spencer Johnson capped a seven-hit doubleheader with a 3-for-4 second game at the plate. Keaton Joppru was 2-for-2 and drove in four runs.

"We played errorless baseball and had great at-bats," noted Skjerven. "This is the effort we need day in and day out."

Walking off the field together following the Prowlers' final game of the 2008 high school baseball season – a loss to Winona Cotter in the third place game of the Class AA state tournament at Dick Putz Field in St. Cloud – were Thief River Falls head coach Shane Zutz (right) and assistant coach Carter Rogalla. It was announced earlier that Rogalla would be leaving the staff at the end of the season to spend more time with his family. He has been with the program since Zutz was first named head coach in 2000. The 2008 Prowlers finished 19-8, matching the school record for wins in a season set in 1993 when Rogalla was a senior on a team that reached the Section 8AA finals against Little Falls. Deer season changes posted

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is making major changes to simplify deer seasons and licensing for this fall, according to Lou Cornicelli, DNR big game program coordinator.

Changes include allowing a person to individually purchase licenses for regular firearms, muzzleloader and archery in any combination; consolidating deer zones so that licensed firearms hunters can hunt anywhere in the state; simplifying legal big game rifle calibers to allow any center-fire that is at least .220 caliber; and eliminating the need to validate the license when tagging an animal.

The changes are the result of recommendations of a citizens' work group convened by the DNR to recommend simplification of the deer seasons. During late 2007, DNR organized a group of stakeholders to provide recommendations to the DNR on how to streamline hunting while not compromising the ability to manage deer. The team ultimately settled on four primary recommendations, which were brought to the public and the Minnesota Legislature for consideration. The group's recommendations were the subject of 12 public meetings held around the state last spring. Legislative and rule changes made since that time will allow for implementation of the recommendations this fall.

"Minnesota previously had more license types and options for deer than any other Midwestern state, so the need for simplification was apparent," Cornicelli said.

Deer Licenses

Hunters can now buy an archery, firearm and muzzleloader license individually, or in any combination. Previously, a person who wanted to hunt deer in both the regular firearms and muzzleloader seasons had to buy the more expensive all-season license, valid for regular firearms, muzzleloader and archery.

"We found that the vast majority of all-season license purchasers were paying three times the single season license fee ($78), but were only hunting in two seasons," Cornicelli said.

This year, the system will be "a la carte," meaning that hunters can purchase licenses for only the seasons they want to hunt. Hunters are advised by the DNR to know the bag limits in the area they hunt. Even though hunters can buy three licenses, the general bag limit for deer is one in lottery areas, two in managed areas, and five in intensive areas (with some exceptions, such as early antlerless seasons).

Zone Consolidation

Traditional firearm zone licenses (1A, 2A, 3A, 3B, 4A, 4B) have been consolidated into two licenses types: A statewide Season Option "A" and a Zone 3B (southeast Minnesota) season option "B". With the new system, hunters are no longer limited to a particular zone boundary, but must adhere to the different open season dates in permit areas within the zone. Zone 4 has also been eliminated and merged with the Zone 2 nine-day season. A number of deer permit areas formerly in Zone 4 will be renumbered.

Season "A" licenses are valid statewide in all "A" season areas (Zones 1A, 2A, 3A), which opens Nov. 8. For example, by purchasing a statewide "A" season license, a hunter could hunt an area in 3A (seven-day season) opening weekend, move to an area in 2A (nine-day season) the second weekend and finish up the season in 1A (16-day season) on the third weekend.

In contrast, season "B" licenses are valid only during the Zone 3B season (Nov. 22-30) in southeastern Minnesota. A regular firearm deer hunter may purchase either an "A" or "B" season license, but not both. However, anyone (including 3B hunters) can now buy a muzzleloader license. Both license types will be valid in the Twin Cities metro area, bovine TB area, and all early antlerless permit areas.

Lottery, Muzzleloaders

In some areas of Minnesota, the deer population is below the goal so antlerless permits have been reduced to very low levels. With the past popularity of multiple zone licenses, the percentage of antlerless harvest taken in the muzzleloader season has gone up dramatically. With the new licensing system, lottery area hunters who purchase both a regular firearms and muzzleloader license will need to apply for a limited number of antlerless permits that will be valid for taking an antlerless deer in either the regular firearms or muzzleloader season.

The number of muzzleloader-only hunters is low, so those who do not purchase a regular firearms license can take deer of either sex in lottery areas without an antlerless permit.

People who buy licenses for both the firearm and muzzleloader seasons will need to apply in the lottery if they want to take an antlerless deer in a lottery area. If successful, the permit will be valid for either the firearm or muzzleloader season, provided the hunter has a license for that season.

People who only muzzleloader hunt (no regular firearms license) may take deer of either sex without applying in the lottery. Final details will be released when the hunting regulations book comes out in early August.

Legal Calibers

For 2008, the definition of legal calibers has been simplified to .220 centerfire or larger. Previously, the regulation had a larger minimum, minimum case length, and numerous exceptions. The new regulation is consistent with most of the midwestern states that allow centerfire rifles.

"We understand there is a concern that hunters could use a type that is not suitable for taking deer," Cornicelli said. "But we are confident that hunters can make an informed choice in regard to caliber and bullet selection, and that they'll use a bullet that is appropriate for the big game they are pursuing. There is no substitute for knowing the capabilities of a firearm and practicing," Cornicelli said.

License Validation

The regulation requiring hunters to validate their deer license has been eliminated. However, the tag must still be validated and site tagging regulations have not changed, so hunters should familiarize themselves with those regulations when the regulations handbook arrives in stores.

DNR says bird feeders should be cleaned on a regular basis

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources is encouraging people with bird feeders to take several steps this summer to keep birds healthy.

"Moldy birdseed and unclean bird feeders can cause birds to become sick," said Carol Henderson, DNR Nongame wildlife program supervisor. "In hot or humid weather, it is common for mold to form on wet birdseed. Mold can cause a fatal avian disease called aspergillosis, which affects the birds respiratory systems."

Henderson said people should also rake or sweep up fallen seeds and seed hulls under feeders to prevent mold from occurring on the ground.

To clean a bird feeder, use a solution of two ounces of bleach with one gallon of water and scrub the entire surface. Allow the cleaned feeder to dry out in the sun, sunlight will help kill bacteria on the feeder.

Hummingbird feeders should be cleaned about every week to ten days during the summer.

Keep the feed dry by using a hopper-type or a fly-through feeder and always scrape out old seed that has accumulated.

More information on attracting and feeding birds is available in "Wild about Birds: The DNR Bird Feeding Guide" and in "Landscaping for Wildlife." Both books are for sale at Minnesota's Bookstore at www.minnesotasbookstore.com, or by calling toll free 1-800-657-3757. Card of Thanks

THANK YOU

I'm not sure where to begin in thanking everyone for all that has been done for me and my family through this difficult time. I have learned over the past 18 years that the support and love, prayers from the community and surrounding areas, family and friends are what keeps me going; maybe a little stubbornness has helped, too. Thank you to Merit Care Northwest Medical Center, Thief River Falls, the ambulance crew, and Altru Hospital ICU staff and doctors for helping my son, Gilberto Garcia, Jr., while he was there. Thank you to Pastor Randy Smith for his prayers at the hospital and services. Thank you to Anders Macy and Becky Schoster for their help. Thank you to Susan Neufeld for her beautiful music, to Courtney Todahl for singing my son's favorite song, and to the ladies who served lunch after the services. Thank you to all who sent flowers and cards, and thank you for all your telephone calls. Thank you to everyone who brought food to our home and to the "mystery shopper". My sincere thanks to my grandchildren, my children and my husband for being here for me. Thank you to all for your help. May God bless you all.

Sad but important day for MeritCare

MeritCare faces "stark reality." About 90 MeritCare employees lose their jobs, and other jobs are left vacant

About 90 MeritCare employees have lost their jobs as a result of a workforce reduction. Another 90 employees have had their hours reduced. An additional 120 positions are vacant and have been eliminated, or they are pending resignations. None of the terminated workers were employed in Thief River Falls.

MeritCare Thief River Falls was able to make its staffing changes through attrition, thanks to the integration between the northwest and southeast campuses. "No one was walked out or told that they did not have a job today. Nobody's hours were reduced," said Chris Harff, MeritCare Thief River Falls chief executive officer, on Thursday. She added that MeritCare Thief River Falls is in good financial shape, but it is impacted by MeritCare Health System's financial status.

In addition to the aforementioned MeritCare Health System employees, 70 transcriptionists will lose their jobs between now and Oct. 1. It is expected that almost all of those transcriptionists will move immediately into other jobs with a transcription agency that has a contract with MeritCare Health System.

Harff said that there are a handful of transcriptionists here. She indicated that they all report through MeritCare in Fargo, N.D. Harff said it is hoped that those transcriptionists will be hired by the transcription agency.

Displaced staff members have been provided with severance and outplacement services. They have also been invited to apply for 135 open positions at MeritCare Health System.

MeritCare Health System expects that any future reductions will be much smaller and associated with downsizing or closing specific programs, or with the adoption of specific labor-saving technologies.

"It's a sad day but an important one for MeritCare," said Dr. Roger Gilbertson, MeritCare Health

Local soldier wounded

Ghazni, Afghanistan - "An ambush on a military convoy in Afghanistan on June 20 left several wounded, including 2005 Win-E-Mac High School graduate Ryan Soto, the 20-year-old son of Fernando and Darla Soto of McIntosh.

"The Army specialist was returning from a mission near the village of Ghazni, when the two-mile long convoy with which he was traveling was attacked by 100 Taliban militants. Soto was driving a Mine Resistant Ambush Protected armored vehicle, which was hit by four rocket-propelled grenades during the ambush. Three hit the driver's door next to him, and another pierced through the back window and exploded inside. Despite extensive injuries, all of those inside the MRAP survived. Soto received shrapnel wounds in the right leg and cheek area. He is also deaf in his right ear."

"The wounded were taken to Bagram Air Force Base. Soto is healing from his wounds but has to walk with the assistance of a cane.

"Soto is a member of the 173rd Airborne Brigade, which has been in Afghanistan since May 2007 and is set to leave the country in July." - The 13 Towns of Fosston, June 24, 2008, by Don Kindall

Argyle's 125th Anniversary celebration began Wednesday

Argyle - "Much of Argyle's five-day celebration will be devoted to renewing acquaintances, enjoying the town and having fun."

Saturday's events include such things as the traveling Vietnam War memorial wall, a Community Club breakfast, school tours, parades, fireworks, a beer garden and kiddy activities. Sunday's events include the Vietnam War memorial wall's closing ceremony at 3 p.m. In-town church services, a school tour, the Legion Baseball Blue and Gold game and the sesquicentennial cubed art exhibit on Sunday. - The Messenger of Stephen, June 26, 2008

Operation: Smile nears completion

Warroad - "There are some accomplishments that will never get the amount of attention they deserve. This is the case with Operation: Smile here in Warroad.

"Sara Jean Thompson has spearheaded this effort to repaint and refurbish the current Warroad Care Center after a fire devastated the new construction project, pushing back by about a year the move to new facilities."

"Administrator Rod Kutter said that many people were wondering how they could help out after the fire. Thompson had heard about a program where paint maker Valspar would contribute paint for similar projects. When she contacted the company, she found out that it had closed the program but would listen to her idea. She wrote a letter to the company, outlining the project, and it agreed to donate 100 gallons of paint. With this impetus, Operation: Smile rumbled into existence. The goal: To make the facility as pleasant as possible for the next year." - Warroad Pioneer, June 25, 2008, by Rob Crowe

Special escort

Thirty-three members of the Minnesota Patriot Guard escorted the American Veterans Traveling Tribute to Argyle Wednesday, June 25. The tribute, which includes replica of the Vietnam Memorial in Washington, D.C., will be on display at Jay Sorenson Memorial Football Field until the conclusion of the final inspection, which begins at 3 p.m. on Sunday, June 29.

Tribute to veterans on display in Argyle

by David Hill
Editor

Curious onlookers stopped what they were doing, pausing in their busy day to see what was going on. Others purposely set out lawn chairs and held American flags in their hands.

For a few moments Wednesday, June 25, residents and visitors between East Grand Forks and Argyle glimpsed something they rarely get to see - a parade of sorts on its way to Argyle, population 650.

Demand for the American Veterans Traveling Tribute is so high that reservations must be made two years in advance.

Don Allen, co-operator of the tribute, said he remembers the call well. "Where?" he said he asked.

Argyle is situated on Highway 75 north of Warren. It's a small town, but residents take pride in their small town community values, their football team and America.

"Our part is so simple. We just show up. The real story here is the Patriot Guard and the community," said Allen. "All the people behind the scenes make it work."

Allen explained that the Minnesota Patriot Guard organized the escort from East Grand Forks to Argyle, and the people of this community organized the event, lined up speakers and made this happen.

Aviation program suspension lifted

Enrollment in NCTC - TRF aviation program is soaring toward its goal

In a letter issued Wednesday, June 25, Northland Community and Technical College President announced that the suspension of the Aviation Maintenance Program at the college would be lifted.

The program has been under intense scrutiny before and since the suspension was announced in October of 2007. With encouragement from the community, and support of Minnesota Colleges and Universities system, the college undertook an assessment of the program.

At the time of the suspension, Temte cited increasing costs and declining enrollment as significant factors in the decision to suspend the program. When the preliminary assessment report on the program was delivered to the college and community in March, Temte provided staff and the community with a challenge to enroll 40 new students by Aug. 1. Enrollment of new students currently stands at 26. Nevertheless, on Wednesday, Temte announced her decision to lift the suspension of the program.

Dear citizens of northwestern Minnesota and the Northland College and Technical College community:

I would like to take this opportunity to announce that the Aviation Maintenance Technology (AMT) Program at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls is soaring towards its goal of 40 students for the fall semester 2008, which begins August 25. We have lifted the suspension of the program and will be open for business this fall. I want to thank those members of the public, the NCTC community, and local organizations, who have expressed their deep support of this world-class program. Without your support our task of rebuilding the program would have been extremely difficult, if not impossible, to accomplish.

The final aviation assessment report by O'Brien AV Group LLC of Fairfax, Va., identified the many positive aspects of our AMT program and also suggested areas where we will strive to improve program offerings to students. With clear recommendations and a completed independent review of our

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Gatzke farmer Orlin Ostby will set his sights on history next week when he renews a tradition that began more than 150 years ago.

Ostby, his friend and writer Steve Reynolds, and members of the Ostby family, will leave Pembina's State Museum in the morning on Tuesday, July 1 and follow the historic 400-mile Pembina Trail to St. Paul. Ostby and his one-ox cart will then be featured during the 2008 Minnesota State Fair, which begins Aug. 21.

"We hope to make 10 miles a day," Ostby said. "That would get us there in 40 days and we have 50."

Ostby and his son Christopher will take turns leading the Holstein ox named Pum during the journey. Mandy Ostby, Orlin's wife, and Catherine Ostby, Orlin's daughter, will also be making the trip.

For Ostby, this trip is 50 years in the making. In 1958, 17-year-old Ostby helped Delmer Hagen prepare for his Pembina Trail Walk, which was commemorating Minnesota's

Work begins on Agassiz Valley Water project

Construction on a $6.5 million flood control reservoir capable of containing 32 square miles of flood waters in Marshall and Polk counties has begun. The Agassiz Valley Water Resource Management Project was proposed by the Middle Snake Tamarac Rivers Watershed District in 2000.

According to watershed administrator Nick Drees, the project will provide flood storage until downstream channels can accommodate the flows. In addition to providing significant flood control benefits, the project will provide high quality habitat for flora and fauna. Dry prairie areas will be established in the eastern and southwestern parts of the site and will enhance prairie and woodland habitat as well as educational and recreational opportunities including teaching stations and interpretive trails and overlooks.

The project is jointly funded by the Middle Snake Tamarac Rivers Watershed District and the Red River Watershed Management Board.

Fire damages RLF official's home Monday

No injuries were reported after a Monday morning fire at the home of Red Lake Falls City Administrator Allen Oucharme, who is the city's former mayor. The fire, which was determined to be electrical and accidental in nature, destroyed the home and two vehicles. The home is located along International Drive in Red Lake Falls.

Investigators from an insurance company will conduct further analysis, but their determinations are consistent with the Red Lake County Sheriff's Office investigator's findings, according to Sheriff Mitch Bernstein. The electrical power box was located in the attached garage, and it appears that the fire started there.

Members of the Red Lake Falls and St. Hilaire fire departments extinguished the blaze. "Property damage amounts may total upwards of $200,000," Bernstein wrote in a press release.

Resurfacing on Hwy. 32

The Minnesota Department of Transportation cautions motorists to prepare for traffic delays as work gets under way on a portion of Highway 32 from the junction with U.S. Hwy. 2 at Marcoux Corner to St. Hilaire in Red Lake and Pennington counties, respectively.

The Highway 32 resurfacing project will be done under traffic beginning Monday, June 30. Depending on weather the project is expected to be completed by July 18.

Motorists are reminded to be alert to changing traffic conditions and to obey all signing and flagging instructions. A minimum 11-foot lane width will be maintained at all times to accommodate traffic.

For statewide road condition and construction information, dial 511 or log onto www.511mn.org.

Thank You...

We would like to thank everyone for making our 25th anniversary celebration a very memorable event. Special thanks to all who contributed with cooking and setting up for the evening. We have four great kids that planned this day and we want to thank them as well. Ashley, Kameron, Logan, and Noah, please know how much we love you and that our love is everlasting and unconditional. Thanks also to our parents, Fern and LaVonne, as you have been excellent models of support for our relationship, living models of how to embrace life and love, and matriarchs for our family (Jim and Don have to be smiling). And speaking of matriarchs, Selma, we want to thank you for being such a special person in our lives. You are a rare and beautiful gift that we have been blessed with.

"As family and friends we share moments in time, important days in our lives. Living and dying, laughing and crying, and now 25 years of being husband and wife. So thanks to all our neighbors and friends for this day. We cherish all 25 years of the memories we have shared in some way."

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

It's finally warm enough for picnics and fun outside. Here are some fun eating barbecue ideas for you that don't even use the grill. Serve with your favorite side dishes for a real treat, or, better yet, let your guests bring the side dishes - you've done enough for today:

The brisket is supposed to be the best flavored beef of all. It is rather tough, so cooking takes a long time. Trim the fat after cooking rather than before, because it needs the fat to cook properly:

BARBECUE BEEF BRISKET SANDWICHES

One 3 pound beef brisket, trimmed of most of the fat
1 1/2 teaspoons coarse salt
3/4 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon oil
1 large onion (1 1/2 cups), coarsely chopped
1 1/2 tablespoons minced garlic
1/2 cup beer
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 tablespoons lemon juice
3 tablespoons honey
1/2 cup ketchup
1 teaspoon paprika
Large sandwich rolls

Cook brisket: Season with salt and pepper and heat oil in large skillet over medium high heat. Add brisket and brown on all sides. Place in slow cooker.

Add remaining ingredients except sandwich rolls to slow cooker and stir well. Cook on low, covered, until meat is very tender - about 8 hours.

Place meat on cutting board and let it rest for 15 minutes. Reserve the sauce. Carve brisket into thin slices and divide it among the rolls. Top with sauce and serve warm.

Here's one more recipe for brisket, supposedly from New England. Remember, you can use other cuts of meat, too:

YANKEE BRISKET PULLED BARBECUE

4 pounds beef brisket (or chuck roast or pork shoulder)
3 1/2 ounces liquid smoke
2 cups chopped onion
1/4 cup cider vinegar
2 tablespoons spicy mustard
1 tablespoon dark molasses
1/4 teaspoon liquid hot sauce
3 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
1 cup ketchup
1/2 cup chili sauce
1/2 lemon, sliced
1 tablespoon salt (as desired)
1/4 teaspoon black pepper

Preheat oven to 325 degrees. Place meat on a rack in roasting pan, fat side up. Pour liquid smoke around it. Seal the pan with foil and place in the oven. Roast 4 hours or until tender, turning once. Uncover the last 30 minutes to brown.

Remove from oven and let meat cool. Wrap in plastic and refrigerate, saving all pan juices. Refrigerate overnight. Next day, remove meat from refrigerator and trim fat. Pull meat into small shreds.

Remove fat from pan juices and melt 3 tablespoons of the hardened fat over medium heat. Add onions and sauté until tender. Add all remaining ingredients and 1 cup of pan juices. Simmer and stir well for 10 minutes over low heat.

Add meat to the sauce and simmer very slowly, uncovered, for 1 hour, stirring frequently. Add more juices as necessary to keep meat moist. Serve over buns or as desired.

Here's a prize-winning Barbecued Pork recipe for you - It isn't complicated at all:

BARBECUED PORK SANDWICHES WITH MUSTARD SAUCE

3/4 cup prepared mustard
3/4 cup red wine vinegar
1/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons butter
1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1 1/4 teaspoons cracked black pepper
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon hot sauce
3 to 3 1/2 pound pork shoulder roast

To make sauce, in medium saucepan, combine mustard, red wine vinegar, sugar, butter Worcestershire, pepper, salt and hot sauce. Bring to a boil and simmer, uncovered, for 30 minutes, stirring occasionally.

To cook pork, place roast on a rack in a roasting pan. Cover and roast at 350 degrees for 2 hours. Uncover and roast another hour or until roast is very tender, basting occasionally with some of the sauce, if desired. Using a fork, shred roast for sandwiches.

To serve, add about 2 tablespoonfuls of sauce to each 1 cup of pork. Heat through. Serve warm on buns.

Cover remaining sauce and chill to store. Makes about 1 1/2 cups of sauce and 8 large sandwiches.

These sandwiches are a little different. The filling is baking right into the buns, so everything is all together and no mess or fuss. Make your own Slappy Joe mixture if you wish, or even try the recipe with leftovers from the recipes above. The kids just love this neat way of having their barbecues and so will Mom:

SLOPPY JOE BUNS

1 (1 pound) frozen bread dough
1 pound lean ground beef
1 (15 1/2 ounce) can Sloppy Joe sauce (such as Manwich)
1 egg

Defrost bread dough. Cut into 10 equal sized pieces.

Cover dough pieces loosely with plastic and let rise to double in size (about 2 hours). Dust with flour and flatten into disks about 2 inches in diameter. Cover again and allow to relax while preparing filling.

To make filling, brown beef in skillet. Drain fat. Add sauce and stir and simmer about 5 minutes or until sauce is very thick. Cool.

To assemble, roll a disk of dough with a rolling pin to about 3 1/2 inches in diameter. Put about 2 tablespoons filling in center of disk and fold up sides around filling. Pinch dough to seal and place sealed side up on oiled baking sheet. Repeat for remaining buns.

Cover filled buns loosely and let them rise 30 minutes. Preheat oven to 375 degrees.

Beat egg and use as egg wash, brushing it on the risen buns. Bake buns 15-20 minutes until golden. Serve warm or wrap and freeze. They can be reheated in regular oven or micro. Makes 10 filled buns.

Each bun contains 150 calories, 9 gm fat, 3 gm saturated fat, 12 gm protein, 6 gm carb, 40 mg chol and 330 mg sodium.

Grygla man pleads guilty to disturbing dead body

A Grygla man pled guilty this week in Grand Forks County, N.D., District Court to a Class A misdemeanor charge of willful disturbance of a dead body. Clarence Roger Smith and his girlfriend, Jody Weaver, allegedly placed the dead body of Weaver's deceased 2-year-old daughter into a plastic tote and transported her to Minnesota in February 2007.

Smith is scheduled to be sentenced Aug. 11, according to M. Jason McCarthy, Grand Forks County assistant state's attorney. A Class B misdemeanor charge of failure to report a death has been dismissed.

The willful disturbance charge carries a maximum penalty of one year in prison, a $2,000 fine or both.

At an earlier date, Weaver, a Grand Forks resident, pled not guilty to two felony counts of abuse and neglect of a child, and one count each of willful disturbance of a dead body and failure to report a death.

The latter two charges are Class A and B misdemeanors, respectively. The two counts of felony abuse stem from Weaver's alleged failure to "provide proper parental care or control as required by law, or other care or control necessary for the physical, mental or emotional health of two minor children, by allowing a deceased body to decompose in the minors' dwelling for approximately two weeks," according to a July 2007 press release from the Grand Forks County State's Attorney's Office.

Weaver's case is set to go to trial on Sept. 23, 2008, McCarthy said on Wednesday.

The abuse charge carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison, and $5,000 fine or both. The failure to report a death charge carries a maximum penalty of 30 days in jail, a $1,000 fine or both.

Smith and Weaver allegedly loaded Destiny Weaver's body into a plastic tote Feb. 12, 2007. The tote was then placed into the trunk of a vehicle that Smith drove from North Dakota to Minnesota. Jody Weaver followed Smith in another vehicle. En route, Smith called the Pennington County Sheriff's Office. Deputies met Smith and Jody Weaver at Kruse In in St. Hilaire, where the child's body was surrendered.

Aviation program gets its wings back

Support of the aviation program in Thief River Falls has been evident ever since the college announced a decision to suspend the program in October of 2007. Wednesday, Northland Community and Technical College President Anne Temte announced that the suspension was being lifted.

Temte had set a goal of 40 new students by Aug. 1, or the program could face permanent suspension. The number of students who have signed up for the program now numbers around 26.

The final report, which was delivered at the end of May, indicated that the college program faces many challenges, but that it is a world-class facility, from which any student would be glad to receive a degree. Cost was not one of the challenges as it is one of the least expensive programs in the nation. The lack of marketing for the program and the need for new curriculum were some of the challenges. Another challenge was the perception presented by the media that the college program is under suspension. That cloud of doubt was dispelled by Temte. Announcing that the suspension has been lifted will hopefully result in more students enrolling in the program.

To me, the most shocking conclusion of the study was the discovery that few people outside of our community know of NCTC, and even fewer knew of the aviation maintenance program. When students at the college were asked how they found out about the program, most said they learned about it by word of mouth. Even the U.S. Air Force ROTC cadet program in Fargo, N.D., which toured the facility this spring, didn't know the program existed until this year, when two of its students who had heard of the program through word of mouth, enrolled in the program.

We all know, or should know, that marketing is an essential factor in the survival of any business, and as it turns out, a school. But costs being what they are, we all know that many marketing options may be too expensive. Word of mouth is one of the least expensive and most successful marketing strategies, so it's one way we as citizens can help the college. Talk about the program, share your thoughts, invite people to the community to see this world-class facility.

Through its teachers, students and program costs, NCTC contributes millions - millions of dollars - to our economy. Students graduating from the aviation program have gone on to make significant contributions in their field, fields outside of aviation, and many have started up their own successful businesses. Regardless of whether these students stay in northwestern Minnesota, or even the Midwest, shouldn't be a defining factor in whether we should support the program. What matters most is that the program contributes thoughtful, skilled and intelligent people to the world.

It's unfortunate that vocal support of the aviation program became evident only when it was threatened with suspension. This lesson of not taking things for granted applies to all of us. We should never forget that the aviation program and many other programs at the college benefit this community, and the world, in many ways.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

Since the 2005 discovery of Bovine Tuberculosis (TB) in a northwest Minnesota cattle herd, state officials have identified 10 more infected beef herds. Simultaneously, the search for TB in wild deer within the area has led to testing of 8,222 deer; 4,164 within the TB surveillance zone and 4,058 outside the zone (the vast majority of sampled deer were harvested by hunters). This extensive testing has uncovered 18 deer testing positive and five to eight more suspect deer undergoing further testing. Additionally, 16 wild elk have been tested, all negative for TB. Testing continues and this fall, the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources anticipates sampling and testing approximately 1,000 more hunter harvested deer and several elk.

If you live, visit or have relatives in northwest Minnesota, you are aware of the widely differing opinions concerning efforts toward TB eradication. While some contest that not enough is being done, others contest too much has been done. The only thing it seems everyone can agree upon is that, right or wrong, "something is being done."

Locally, Minnesota Deer Hunters Association (MDHA) chapters, like the Roseau River Chapter, North Red River Chapter, Thief River Falls Chapter and Min-Dak Border Chapter, have all received praise and criticism for MDHA's stance. What is MDHA's stance? In a nutshell, MDHA is supportive of the joint efforts of the Minnesota Board of Animal Health, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, Minnesota DNR and Minnesota Board of Health. Since 2005, MDHA has been conversing and cooperating with each of the agencies. In fact, MDHA has gone on record in asking everyone to support the effort – hunters, cattlemen, businessmen, educators, those affected directly and those who just know someone who might be affected.

Having TB in our cattle and our deer is not beneficial for anyone. Whether something is done or nothing is done, many lives are affected. Consequently, our choices as to what course of action to take must be based upon what is best for everyone, including cattlemen, hunters and businesses and what is best for those who come after us and best for those adjacent to us. One thing is fairly certain, if we choose to do nothing, we ensure that TB remains in cattle and in deer and the TB cycle continues. Because of the movements of cattle and deer, a "do nothing" approach would allow the inevitable expansion of TB into the rest of Minnesota, as well as North Dakota and Canada. A "do nothing" approach simply is not responsible from any perspective.

On behalf of the MDHA, I wish to convey our support to the professionals who are working hard to eradicate TB. I also want to convey our support to the cattle operators who are suffering misfortune and our thanks to everyone involved in helping in any way with the TB eradication effort whether farmer, hunter, business owner, bureaucrat or politician. Your community spirit and dedication to stopping TB is what will make tomorrow better.

If you are still wondering what to think of the whole TB mess, consider this: TB is not your problem or my problem or the problem of cattlemen or of deer hunters, TB is everyone's problem. TB is costing Minnesota's livestock producers and taxpayers across the entire state millions of dollars each year and affecting every facet of life in northwest Minnesota in some way. Consequently, the quicker TB is eradicated, the better for everyone.

The task of eradicating TB has no choice but to include efforts in cattle and in deer. This is something we all need to be involved in. Whether we help by harvesting deer, fencing our cattle land or comforting our neighbors, the level of unity embraced by the entire community will be directly responsible for the speed at which success is gained. If we want to protect Minnesota's wildlife resources and the cattle industry in northwest Minnesota, we have only one choice and that is to get involved and support the eradication of TB from Minnesota's landscape. It will not be easy or fun, but we must do what we can now to ensure that our children and grandchildren can enjoy a TB-free Minnesota.

With fish moving to summer habitats there will be more and like structure fishing. There will be days when the winds won't allow you to fish out in deep water. But not all fish move deep during the summer; you can fish for them in the weeds.

Warroad runner Kyle Nowacki was able to slide into home plate ahead of the throw to Thief River Falls catcher Briar Verbout in the third inning of Tuesday's American Legion baseball doubleheader opener at the Multi-Event Center. Nowacki scored from second on a two-out, two-run single to right field by Matt Roberts. Warroad won Game 1 by a 7-5 margin.

Bandits lose first half of Legion twinbill vs. Warroad...

Seventh inning runs beat TRF

■ Post 117 rebounds for Game 2 win

Warroad pushed two runs across the plate in the top of the seventh inning to beat Thief River Falls 7-5 Tuesday in the first half of an American Legion baseball doubleheader at the Multi-Events Center.

The host Bandits responded with a 10-run rule 12-2 second-game victory.

Post 117 overcame an early two-run Game 1 deficit to go ahead 5-3 in the third inning on the strength of an RBI single by Spencer Johnson, a two-run double to left field by Cody Conners and a run-scoring fielder's choice ball off the bat of Myles Keefe.

Warroad tied it in the fourth when No. 8 and No. 9 hitters Nik Carpenter and Adam Shaugabay reached base on a walk and fielder's choice, respectively, to open the inning and both scored on a two-base throwing error on a sacrifice attempt by Brent Culleton.

The visitors broke the deadlock in the seventh when a one-out error was followed by an RBI double to right-center field by Kyle Nowacki.

They picked up an insurance run when Nowacki stole third and scored on the play when the throw went into left field.

It was a complete-game pitching performance for winner Lars Anderson. The loss went to Nick Gagner, who worked the final inning in relief of Thief River Falls starter Jordan Anderson.

A five-run third inning and a four-run fourth produced the Bandits' Game 2 win.

"After making a bunch of defensive mistakes that cost us a win in the first game, we came up with a complete effort in the second game," said Thief River Falls coach Courtney Skjerven.

Conners homered, doubled, walked and drove in three runs to help the Bandits improve their early-season record to 6-4.

Thief River Falls runner Ben Espeseth tried to break up a double play attempt by Warroad second baseman Mark McDonald in the third inning of a Tuesday American Legion baseball doubleheader opener in Thief River Falls. A toss from shortstop Kyle Nowacki (left) to McDonald got the out at second base, but the throw to first arrived too late to get the second out on the play.

Gust named coach at S.D. school

Steve Gust is the new head baseball coach at Dakota Wesleyan University. Officials at the Mitchell, S.D., school made that announcement June 20.

Gust has been head baseball coach at Northland Community and Technical College the past four years. He had stepped down this spring as the East Grand Forks American Legion baseball coach, a position he held for 13 seasons.

Dakota Wesleyan is a member of the NAIA Division II Great Plains Athletic Conference, a collection of 13 private, faith-based colleges and universities in Nebraska, South Dakota and Iowa.

Originally founded in 1969, the current GPAC membership includes Dakota Wesleyan, University of Sioux Falls and Mount Marty College (Yankton) from South Dakota; Briar Cliff University (Sioux City), Dordt College (Sioux Center), Morningside College (Sioux City) and Northwestern College (Orange City) in Iowa; and Concordia University (Seward), Dana College (Blair), Doane College (Crete), Hastings College (Hastings), Midland Lutheran College (Fremont) and Nebraska Wesleyan University (Lincoln) out of Nebraska.

With the Pioneers, Gust put together a 92-75 record and four straight 20-win seasons – a victory figure matched only once previously (1994) since the program began in 1973.

Succeeding Guy Finstrom in 2005, Gust guided Northland to records of 20-19, 21-20, 20-18 and 27-18. The Pioneers set a school record for wins in 2008 when they reached the Minnesota Community College Conference state tournament finals and participated in the National Junior College Athletic Association Division III Region 13 playoffs.

A University of North Dakota graduate, Gust coached high school baseball at East Grand Forks Sacred Heart for eight years and was an assistant coach at UND for one season in addition to his long tenure with the East Grand Forks Legion program.

At Dakota Wesleyan University, Gust takes over for Adam Neisius, who was unexpectedly let go by DWU May 14. With a ten-year record of 262-206, Neisius had the most wins in school history.

The Tigers, who went 25-21 this spring, including a 14-10 record in the GPAC. They've qualified for the NAIA national regional tournament four times in the past seven years.

Great Plains Conference school enrollment figures range from 1,500 students at Nebraska Wesleyan to 637 at Dana. According to the GPAC, Dakota Wesleyan has a student enrollment of 783.

Along with his coaching duties over the years, Gust has also served as a newspaper sports editor of The Exponent in East Grand Forks.

Rundell, Dorn are teammates on Minnesota 19U Ice Dawgs

Former Thief River Falls teammates Brooke Rundell and Alie Dorn have been reunited as members of the Minnesota Ice Dawgs 19U women's AAA summer hockey team.

The two played youth and high school hockey together for a number of years before Rundell graduated in 2007.

Rundell then went to Rainy River Community College in International Falls, where she played on the school's club hockey team.

Dorn will be a senior at Lincoln High School in 2008-09.

They were both named to the Ice Dawgs, a team made up mostly of first- and second-year college players from across central Canada and from U.S. programs like Rainy River, along with a few high school skaters.

The team recently won the Subway North American Summer Classic in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada.

The Ice Dawgs will be returning to Manitoba for the July AAA Sports Excellence International Tournament in Brandon and may play in the August International Cup at the Swann's Super Rink in Blaine.

TRF, Warroad wind up with doubleheader split

"Cody had a great game at the plate. He got us going, and the rest of our bats caught up later on," said Skjerven.

Keefe was the starting and winning pitcher, scattering five hits while striking out five and walking two.

"Myles pitched well," said Skjerven. "I told him to keep the ball on the outer half of the plate, and work in the curve ball."

The combination of Keefe's pitching and solid play from his defense helped keep Warroad from putting runners on base ahead of the hard-hitting Nowacki, who was coming off a strong freshman season at Northland Community and Technical College. "That kids (Nowacki) can hit," noted Skjerven. "Myles was able to get it done."

The Bandits will host Roseau Tuesday in a 5:30 p.m. twinbill..

Minor injuries reported after two-vehicle accident near Roseau

Minor injuries were reported after a two-vehicle accident five miles east of Roseau on Tuesday afternoon.

Stanley R. Melby, 57, Greenbush, suffered scrapes and bruises, according to the Minnesota State Patrol report. Tracy S. Kofstad, 42, Roseau, suffered unknown minor injuries. Both Melby and Kofstad went to LifeCare Medical Center in Roseau. Melby was treated and released, according to a family member. As of presstime Friday, a status report wasn't available on Kofstad.

At the time of the accident, Melby was driving a 1994 Ford pickup truck eastbound on Highway 11. Kofstad, who was also eastbound, had stopped his 1997 Chevy pickup truck in preparation to turn north onto 440th Avenue. According to the report, Melby's pickup truck rear-ended Kofstad's trailer. Melby's pickup truck then rode up the trailer and hit Kofstad's pickup truck, sending the latter vehicle into the north ditch.

Melby was wearing his seat belt, and his vehicle's air bags deployed. It was unknown if Kofstad was wearing a seat belt or if his vehicle's air bags had deployed.

Both vehicles had to be towed from the scene. The State Patrol was dispatched to the scene at 3:45 p.m. Tuesday. The Roseau County Sheriff's Office provided assistance.

Rural Reflections

Grant Nelson

The comments published in this column are intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. They are written by independent columnists and do not represent the opinion of the staff or management of The Times/Northern Watch.

"The Singin' Swede"

The title for this week's column was so easy; I've wanted to write about singer Jimmy Jenson for a long time. My dad liked Jimmy Jenson, so he was played on the stereo in a very heavy rotation around our house when I was young. He enjoyed the sort of status normally reserved for Lowell Lundstrom, Tennessee Ernie Ford or the Beatles, if my sister came to visit; I even brought his records to high school to play at noon during Christmas. The Singin' Swede has always had a nice spot in my memory, which is fine, but this week, I want to pull that memory out and take a look at it.

Christmas was made so much better with Jimmy Jenson playing in the background. I liked to hear my dad sing along with "Life in the Finnish Woods," and "I Yust Go Nuts at Christmas" really created a picture in my mind of Christmas chaos. I loved listening to Jenson describe, in this song, how a family of Minnesota Swedes gather for Christmas dinner and a fight breaks out. Meanwhile, Gabriel Heatter's WOR radio program plays in the background with wishes for "peace on Earth and good will to men." That's quite a contrast.

I remember the song "Ingevald" because it scared my young mind. As I recall, it was the tale of a man gone crazy and the wrath he visited upon a fictional Minnesota town. More happily, was Jenson's tune "Nicolena," which my dad used to sing as he cleaned up after milking cows. "You Gotta' Have a License" took a gentle poke at how almost anything fun requires a license; the song actually reminds me a little of "Signs" by the Five Man Electrical band, but I'm guessing that they and Jenson never toured together. All of Jenson's songs painted such a vivid picture; although he was not a writer, he phrased the songs so I really understood them.

OK, here's the kicker to this column; I recently spoke with Jenson. I took a chance and looked up everyone in the Alexandria area with the last name Jenson. I called the person whose first name was Jimmy, and it was him! I was so excited; it was an honor to talk with the talented man, but I also felt like I was shaking hands with my own childhood memories. Jenson is doing fine although he has been a little sick the last year. Last week-end, he played at the Vet's in Alexandria and the Galaxy in Barnesville. He has delayed any future performances until he feels better.

Jenson has quite a history in entertainment. He played the organ on the WDAY television show "Party Line" from 1957 through 1958. Jenson hosted his own television show on Sunday at noon in Alexandria at a time when there was only one station. He's also played at the Flame Café and Brady's in Minneapolis in the mid '50s at a time when they featured a Grand Ole Opry performer each week – along with Jenson and two other bands. Jenson's music was popularized in the Twin Cities by the children's show "Lunch with Casey." Casey, whose real name was Roger Awsumb, liked to pantomime to favorite Jenson songs like "Yingle Bells" and "Winter Wonderland."

Jenson told me that there is a book about him that someone wrote for friends and family, but it caught on with fans and so is for sale. His seven albums are on compact disc and are also available. A simple Internet search will find pretty much anything that was created by, or written about, Jenson. He gave me quite a bit of his time and even listened to my stories about the place his songs had in my memories.

Jenson's music always sounded like a party to me, and the words to his songs reminded me of what was going on around me in my little hometown of Viking. Jenson made me feel that eating lefse, listening to polka music and being Lutheran was something tremendously special and worth singing about; maybe the folks who bought all of those records felt the same.

No charges to be filed against Sparby

Roseau County Attorney Lisa Hanson has decided to not file charges against Greenbush-Middle River High School Principal Eldon Sparby for an April incident involving a student.

The student alleged that Sparby had kicked him during an April tornado drill. "While there are some discrepancies in the witness statements, there is nothing that would indicate that Mr. Sparby intended to cause fear of immediate bodily harm or to inflict bodily harm, which are elements of an assault," Hanson wrote in a June 20 letter to Greenbush Police Chief Mike Siems.

She added in the letter, "Based on your report and the witness statements, it is clear that Mr. Sparby's intent was to get the complaining student to comply with a directive that he had refused to follow, despite the fact that he had been talked to by at least three school staff members." Hanson wrote that the student was also encouraging other students to be belligerent and disrespectful.

In an interview with the Northern Watch, Hanson said that there are always conflicting statements made when it comes to incidents such as this one. She added that Sparby indicated he had kicked the bottom of the student's feet to get the student to move them out of the way. Hanson indicated that staff members backed up Sparby's statement.

As of presstime Friday, Sparby hadn't returned a phone message from the Northern Watch.

System president/CEO, at a news conference Thursday in Fargo. He noted that MeritCare needed to safeguard the organization but also had to be mindful of the "stark reality" that the reduction affects the livelihood of employees.

"We think that we will prevail, not only think that we will prevail, but that we must," said Gilbertson, who added that MeritCare Health System has had a continual financial decline in performance in the last four years. Three or four years, MeritCare Health System began efforts to become more efficient. Gilbertson went on to say that a major strategic plan to realign the organization's cost structure began two-and-a-half years ago. The execution of that plan began about a year ago.

MeritCare Health System officially partnered with the former Northwest Medical Center on Nov. 1, 2007. Six months earlier, the former Altru Northwest Clinic became a MeritCare clinic. The partnership was in the works since December 2006. The former Dakota Clinic in Thief River Falls became MeritCare Southeast Clinic on Jan. 1, 2008, and the two MeritCare Thief River Falls clinics consolidated on May 5, 2008.

MeritCare continues to see an 8 percent to 9 percent increase each year in its patient volume. It is reducing its workforce because it needs to change its cost structure and work processes.

When MeritCare talked publicly about its situation in early May, it said that it didn't expect to reduce its workforce. According to MeritCare, that was the truth based on the information that MeritCare officials had at that time. However, Blue Cross Blue Shield of North Dakota recently announced that it would withhold 2.5 percent of MeritCare's reimbursement from Aug. 1, 2008, to year-end.

In addition to the hospital and clinic in Thief River Falls, MeritCare has 17 locations in the Fargo-Moorhead area, 19 other regional clinics in Minnesota and nine regional clinics in North Dakota. It will close its clinic in LaMoure, N.D., on Monday. MeritCare clinics in Twin Valley and Ulen will be open fewer days than in the past. Similar to the clinic consolidation in Thief River Falls, two MeritCare clinics in East Grand Forks also consolidated earlier this year. As of this time, no decisions have been made regarding consolidating or closing clinics in the Fargo-Moorhead area or any other clinics in the region.

Ostby helped train Napoleon, a shorthorn steer that Hagen used to make the walk that year. Before leaving on the walk, Hagen told Ostby that he could make the same walk for Minnesota's 150th birthday in 2008.

Ostby kept the idea alive for the past 50 years, and about six years ago, he began planning in earnest. He searched for a team of oxen that he would be able to use for the trip. An ad on the Rural Heritage Magazine Web site, for a pair of Holstein steers that were raised and broken on a pumpkin farm in New Hampshire, caught his attention.

Ostby eventually purchased those Holsteins, named Pum and Kin, from the New Hampshire family in 2003. The pair had already been broken to drive by Thomas Philbrick, a 4-Her who was just 10 years old at the time. Both Thomas, and his father, Jeff Philbrick, are planning on participating in a portion of this year's Pembina Trail walk.

Pum and Kin have continued to work as a team over the past five years. However, in the spirit of recreating the historic Pembina Trail walk, Ostby has chosen to only take Pum on the 400-mile trip. He said Pum, who lines up on the left side as the lead ox when the two oxen work in tandem, is more experienced with taking directions and is calmer around people.

Ostby had to make a few adjustments to prepare for the trip. First, he had to modify an early-1900s Ontario ox cart. Ostby's cart features steel spindles and hubs, which can be greased, instead of the wooden axles and hubs. That means the obnoxious squeal, caused by ungreased wood on wood, that is heard from most ox carts, won't be heard from miles away. Ostby also mounted a flashing caution light on the backside of the cart.

A horse trailer and a camper will also be along for the trip. A large water tank was added to the horse trailer. The trailer will be used to transport Pum to the start of the walk and to any off-trail special appearances that may come up. It will double as shelter for Pum during bad weather. Most nights, however, Pum will be free to roam as far as a solar-powered livestock fence will allow.

Ostby said his group plans on camping each night, staying as close to the trail as possible.

"People probably wouldn't want me to bring my 2,700-pound ox into their yard," Ostby joked.

Traditional Red River ox carts carried furs from Dakota Territory to St. Paul. Supplies and other trade goods were carried back on the return trip.

Carts were packed carefully, carrying furs from small animals such as mink, muskrats, skunk and fishers, and furs from large animals such as bears, lynx, fox and wolverines. Furs were bundled into groups of 10 to 20, depending on size. Each group was packed as a bale, with carts carrying eight to 10 bales per trip.

During its peak, as many as 500 carts would travel as a cart train from Pembina to St. Paul. The large-volume trains protected both the drivers and the trade goods on board each cart. Ostby won't have the company of 499 other carts for protection, but he will have a black powder rifle.

For his trip, Ostby's cart will be carrying beaver, fisher, otter, muskrat, skunk and reindeer hides that have been donated. The hides will be stored in space bags, so they won't get wet during storms.

Rural Heritage Magazine will be following Ostby's journey, and Ostby and company will be documenting their trip using a laptop computer that was donated by the Garden Valley Telephone company.

Ostby said the final preparations are almost completed. Christopher Ostby has been walking Pum as many as seven miles a day to prepare for the 400-mile trip. Kin will be cared for by neighbors and friends staying at Ostby farm during the trip's duration, though he may be summoned if needed. Both oxen passed a required bovine tuberculosis test Thursday.

Ostby has already been asked to make appearances at Marshall County's Florian Park, Old Mill State Park and the historic Kelly Farm in Elk River during his trip. He said he will do the best that he can to make all special appearance requests, but narrowing down arrival times may be impossible.

"I've heard of airplanes being six hours late," Ostby said. "We're a bit slower, so I have no idea when we'll be anywhere."

program, equipment, and facilities, we are continuing to implement and restructure the AMT program. This program will offer a learning experience to students in an environment that is second to none, and the program will be more efficient and economical for the college.

We are at a point in the academic calendar where a decision has been made by college administration to "fly high" with the AMT program once again! We feel confident that the efforts we are investing in the resurgence of the program will allow the college to return to sustainable student enrollment by 2012. With this commitment, prospective students can be assured there is a place for them at NCTC, and there continues to be many exciting careers in the world of aviation waiting for them.

We realize how critical advertising is in creating awareness of a world-class program and we are working hard to strategically market the program to prospective students, and create strong industry partnerships. But, as we all know, word-of-mouth continues to be a most effective form of advertising. I ask for your continued support in promoting the program to family and friends in your network that may be considering a career in a technical field. Let us know if you have other ideas on how we might expand awareness of our program nationwide.

Again, thanks for all you do in support of Northland Community and Technical College.

Sincerely,
Anne Temte, President

Signs and well wishers in Argyle welcomed the American Veterans Traveling Tribute, which was escorted by the Minnesota Patriot Guard. The American Veterans Traveling Tribute, which includes a replica of the Vietnam Memorial in Washington, D.C., will be on display at Jay Sorenson Memorial Football Field in Argyle until 3 p.m. Sunday, June 29.

Harry and Deb Farris were among the 33 Patriot Guard motorcycle riders that escorted the traveling tribute from East Grand Forks to Argyle, which gave the procession a sense of respect and pride.

It was amazing, said Harry. People coming in the opposite direction would pull over and stop, he said. Some would honk their horns, and others wave. Farris, a veteran, even noted that a farmer driving a tractor in a field stopped when the group drove by. "It's nice to see there's still respect for the flag."

Minnesota Patriot Guard is a diverse group of riders and individuals with one thing in common: members have tremendous respect for those who risk their lives every day, whether on American soil or abroad, in securing our nation's freedoms and liberties. There are 4,150 members of the Patriot Guard in Minnesota.

Farris said the group formed up in East Grand Forks, where the ride captain discussed the order of riders and safety. Leading the procession into Argyle were Vietnam veterans.

Argyle is in the midst of celebrating its 125th anniversary. The American Veterans Traveling Tribute, which is open to the public, is part of the celebration that takes place this week.

The American Veterans Traveling Tribute, and the Cost of Freedom Memorial include a replica of the Vietnam Wall, a World War II tribute, a Korean War Tribute, a 911 Tribute, and the Gold Dogtag Tribute, which represents all who died in conflicts and all those who died in the global war on terrorism.

The Vietnam Memorial Traveling Wall, which Allen said is the centerpiece of their display, is an 80 percent size replica visual presentation of the memorial in Washington, D.C. It stands over eight feet tall at its apex, and is over 370 feet long.

The Cost Of Freedom displays are nine large memorials represented in gold dog tags under glass to remember and honor all who died in service since Vietnam, including 9/11.

A large art display, Vietnam Remembered and a Walk of Heroes' display, also accompanies AVTT.

According to the Web site for the organization (www.avtt.org), the AVTT travels the USA in order to provide a forum for communities to come together to HONOR-RESPECT-REMEMBER all who have sacrificed their lives for our country's freedom. By doing this it also honors all veterans and those serving today.

Allen said the tribute will visit 44 communities this year. The year started in Phoenix, Ariz., and will conclude in Key West, Fla., in December.

The tributes will be set up at the football field in Argyle, where Allen said, "I'm told they never lose."

The wall will be open for 24-hour viewing until the final inspection at 3 p.m. on Sunday, June 29, when the closing ceremony will be conducted. The guest speaker at that event will be Lt. Gen. (ret.) Emil R. (Buck) Bedard.

No injuries were reported after a fire destroyed the home of Red Lake Falls residents Allan and Cindy Ducherme on Monday morning. Allan Ducharme is the city administrator of Red Lake Falls and former mayor of that city. The fire was determined to be electrical and accidental in nature, according to Red Lake County Sheriff Mitch Bernstein. (Submitted photo)

Excel Dairy case in court

Motion hearing held on Tuesday

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Representatives from the Minnesota Attorney General's Office and Minnesota Pollution Control Agency met face-to-face with representatives of Excel Dairy for the first time during Tuesday's motion hearing in Marshall County District Court. Yet their arguments remained the same.

Judge Jeffrey Remick heard oral arguments from both the state of Minnesota, represented by Assistant Attorney General Bob Roche, and Excel Dairy, represented by Attorney Jack Perry.

Minnesota Attorney General Lori Swanson and the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency filed a lawsuit against Excel Dairy on June 20, requesting that Marshall County District Court issue an order:

- Declaring Excel Dairy's feedlot to constitute a public nuisance;
- Enjoining the feedlot from violating state air standards and creating a public nuisance;
- Ordering the feedlot to immediately comply with its permits by establishing and maintaining a straw cover and by ceasing to aerate the manure basin;
- And ordering the dairy to pay an appropriate civil penalty.

Excel Dairy's parent company, Prairie Ridge Management, responded with a June 23 press release stating that it expected the state of Minnesota's "misguided lawsuit" to be dismissed. The statement continued, saying that the source of the smell is 10 years worth of manure sludge, from the bottom of one of the basins, that was accumulated under the dairy's previous ownership. Excel Dairy also denied that there is any threat to health as a result of odor issues.

No action was taken during Tuesday's motion hearing. Remick set a July 8 deadline for both sides to file additional written testimony.

Red Lake County assists Roseau County

Red Lake Falls - "At their meeting June 24, Red Lake County commissioners discussed a letter sent to them by Roseau County, seeking financial assistance to help support the ongoing effort to eradicate bovine tuberculosis in northwestern Minnesota.

"The letter was drafted by Roseau County Commissioner Russell Walker and TB Coordinator Dave Grafstrom and was sent to eight counties in northwestern Minnesota. In the letter, Roseau County asks the counties to provide $300 a month in assistance.

"Pennington County decided against the $300-a-month payments but went with a one-time contribution of $500. Kittson and Beltrami counties have not acted on the request but appeared to be in opposition to it.

"The Red Lake County commissioners voted unanimously to follow Pennington County's example and offer $500 to Roseau County." - Red Lake Falls Gazette, July 2, 2008, by Destiny Harmoning Warroad - "Over 200 chairs were set up in the gymnasium of the Warroad Elementary School on June 28 for the Brotherna Truck concert. The seats were nearly full as music from Sweden filled the air.

Brotherna Truck performs in Warroad

"The six-member group was winding up a two-week tour with the Warroad concert. The music was well received by the attendees; vigorous applause filled the air after each number.

"Unfortunately, the group was minus its female lead singer, Eleonore Larson, sister of lead accordionist, Martin Andersson. Larson stayed back in Fargo, N.D., due to an illness. Andersson provided the vocals for a few numbers; the rest were instrumental."

"Andersson was accompanied by Bo Simenson on guitar, Magnus Sandgren on the accordion, Jonas Hutula on the bass violin and Johan Krussgard on the drums."

"There was space to dance in front of the stage, and several couples and young girls took advantage of that. Other couples waltzed and two-stepped in the back of the auditorium as the band played." - Warroad Pioneer, July 2, 2008, by Rob Crowe

FHS alum publishes Fosston recipe book

Fosston - "Favorite recipes, treasured memories and poetry are the ingredients that make up 'Nourishment for Body and Soul,' a book written by former teacher and 1943 Fosston High School alum Bernice Roysland.

"The idea for the book came from her involvement in a writer's club in Fergus Falls, where she currently resides.

"It was originally planned to be a cooperative effort between Roysland and her cousin Sharon Torbenson-O'Gorman (FHS Class of '66). However, Torbenson-O'Gorman's unexpected death in 2004, due to complications from diabetes, put the venture on hold.

"It wasn't until two years later that Roysland decided to take up the project again. The book is dedicated to the late Torbenson-O'Gorman and contains many of her family's recipes."

"The book is on display at Nord's Pharmacy and Gifts in downtown Fosston." - The 13 Towns of Fosston, July 1, 2008, by Dan Kindall and Susan Larson

Pennington Co. Fair starts Wed.

Parade and fireworks display scheduled for Wednesday night instead of Saturday

The 107th Annual Pennington County Fair will be from July 9 through 13 at the fairgrounds in Thief River Falls. This year's lineup includes two major schedule changes. Instead of on Saturday, this year's parade and fireworks display will be on Wednesday.

The parade will begin at 7 p.m. The parade route is also changing. The parade participants will begin lining up at 5:30 p.m. at the northwest corner of the Pennington County Fairgrounds. Spots will be pre-numbered. Parade participants are asked to park their vehicles behind the grandstand. The parade will proceed east on Sixth Street to Knight Avenue, turn south on Knight Avenue to Fourth Street, and then turn west on Fourth Street and to Brooks Avenue where it will conclude.

Organizers are hoping that the change in the time of the parade will attract more entries and larger crowds for the event.

The fireworks display, which is sponsored by Todd Armstrong Shows and the Pennington County Fair Board, will take place at dusk on Wednesday.

Wednesday is the official day the fair begins. The midway, provided by Todd Armstrong Shows, will open at noon. Mega Ride passes cost $45. The day pass is $20.

Bandshell

The bandshell will begin at 1 and run until 11 p.m. every day of the fair, except on Sunday, when it will run from 12:30 to 10 p.m. Acts scheduled in the bandshell include the Cathy Erickson Band, Saddle Tramp, The Great Outdoors, Ramblin' Fever, Bethany and the Bandits, Magic by Nick, Scotty Torgerson and the Wood Picks. Check the Fairgoers Handbook for more specific times and dates of performances. All performances in the bandshell are free of charge.

The bandshell will also host the Talent Show, which begins at 6 p.m. on Thursday, July 10. There are three divisions in the Talent Show: pre-teen (12 and under), teen (13 through 18) and open class (any age). Enter by July 9 by contacting Joan Hruby at 681-3475.

Activities in the bandshell are supported by the Pennington County Fair raffle tickets being sold by Fair Board members.

Entry Day

Thursday is entry day at the fair for many exhibits. Check the Fairgoers handbook for specific information about entering and submitting exhibits for display. Judging also begins on Thursday.

From 7 to 10 p.m. the Prairie Schooners and Street Wizards Car Club will sponsor a car ride through town, and then park on the fairgrounds.

Meeting addresses dust issues in Sanders Township

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Seven Sanders Township landowners presented a petition to the Sanders Township Board of Supervisors during a board meeting held at the home of Sanders Township Supervisor Alberta Johnson Monday, June 30.

The petition cited five concerns of residents, including: enforcement of township ordinances; the use of public hearings to gather input from residents when changes to township ordinances are proposed; and the location of township meetings.

The petition also asked the township board to abide by the majority will of those present at public meetings, or delay changes until all voters can vote on the matter at a special election; and to provide a mechanism to be included into the township's ordinance manual for the submission of petitions, and to allow for the recall and replacement of officers refusing to abide by the majority will.

Sanders Township resident Gerald Zblewski presented the petition, which included the signatures of more than 30 township residents and landowners. Zblewski is an asthma sufferer, whose condition is compounded by dust from gravel roads. He said during Monday's meeting that he has been battling the dust issue for the past four to five years.

Zblewski was one of nine Sanders Township residents who initially expressed concern over the health and safety hazards caused by the dust from gravel roads.

A recent meeting between the Sanders Township Board, the Pennington County Highway Committee and a representative of Concrete Inc., addressed that concern and resulted in Concrete Inc. agreeing to pay for the application of calcium chloride for a 900-foot section of County Road 59 that borders Zblewski's property.

Concrete Inc. also agreed to limit its hauling on gravel roads to the one-mile portion of CR 59 that borders sections 18 and 19 in Sanders Township. Zblewski's home is the only one located within the one-mile stretch on CR 59 that is used by loaded trucks leaving Concrete Sixty-nine motorcycles were lined up outside Thief River Falls City Hall on Tuesday evening as part of the Second Annual Ride with the Mayor and the Mailman. The event raised more than $1,700 for playground equipment and a covered pavilion at the Thief River Falls Ball Complex, which is located at the Multi-Events Center. The Thief River Falls Softball Association Playground Committee hopes to raise $25,000 for the project. So far, it has raised $12,229.46.

Robo Storm Camp

Area students attend Robo Storm Camp at NCTC - TRF

"Go, go, go!" The shouts could be heard all through Northland Community and Technical College campus in Thief River Falls as 24 middle school students from across Minnesota attended ROBO Storm second annual summer camp at the NCTC campus in Thief River Falls June 25 and 26. Noise was essential as campers used sound sensors to race their Lego Mindstorm NXT™ robots across the room - the louder they yelled, the faster the robots traveled!

Over the course of two days, robots were built and programs were written on laptops to maximize the robots' potential with various sensors.

Andrew Dahlen, an Automated Systems faculty member, said, "Today's workforce is already using this type of technology. Students were exposed to sensors, as well as basic engineering and programming principles, and encouraged to use their creativity and have fun!"

Students in the East Grand Forks area will also have an opportunity to participate in the fun. This year, a Robo Storm day camp will be held on the East Grand Forks campus on July 23 and 24. Camp activities include building, programming, and competing with Lego™ Mindstorm robots. Cost for this camp is $75, which includes food, activities, T-shirt and prizes. Space is limited to the first 24 students that register. For more information, or to register for the camp, call Kari Sundberg at (218) 681-0796, or e-mail kari.sundberg@northlandcollege.edu. Each participant will receive a camp informational packet in the mail following registration.

Sponsors of the event in Thief River Falls included NCTC, Bemidji State University, and seven community and technical colleges teamed together as part of a Center of Excellence in Manufacturing and Applied Engineering, also known as 360-degrees. The goal of 360-degrees is to provide new educational routes for students to pursue Company's coming! Wouldn't you like to serve a special dinner for them? Here are some main dish recipes for you to try next time you have guests. These are from my special Trinity Lutheran Church cookbook that celebrated the church's 100th anniversary in 1993.

Make this dish any time for a wonderful barbecue flavor. Great with baked potatoes or just serve it with homemade biscuits and a large green salad:

BARBECUED PORK CHOPS
JoAnn Prostebak

8 lean pork chops
Oil for browning
1/2 cup ketchup
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon celery seed
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/3 cup vinegar
1 cup water
1 bay leaf

Brown chops in hot oil. Place in single layer in baking dish. Mix remaining ingredients and pour over chops. Cover and bake at 325 degrees for 1 1/2 hours.

How many ways can we make chicken? I don't know, but I do know that this one sounds really tasty and easy too. I would serve it with rice and maybe some carrots or green beans:

CHICKEN BREASTS POLYNESIAN
Grace Bridges

3 chicken breasts, split and boned
1/2 cup oil
1 (6 ounce) can frozen orange/pineapple juice, undiluted
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon ginger
1 teaspoon soy sauce
1 tablespoon lime juice

Saute chicken, turning several times until brown. Place in shallow baking pan in single layer.

Heat juice, butter, ginger and soy sauce until blended. Brush over chicken.

Bake 35-45 minutes or longer, basting every 15 minutes with fruit sauce until chicken is glazed and tender. Serves 6.

BEEF STROGANOFF OVER NOODLES
Mrs. Robert Flynn

1 cup minced onion
2 cloves garlic
1/2 cup butter
2 pounds hamburger
1 (6 ounce) can mushrooms, undrained
2 cans cream of chicken soup
4 tablespoons flour
2/3 teaspoon salt
1/3 teaspoon pepper
2 cups sour cream
1/3 cup minced parsley
Noodles

Cook onion and garlic slightly in butter over medium heat. Add meat and brown. Add flour, salt, pepper and undrained mushrooms. Cook 5 minutes.

Add soups and simmer, uncovered, for 10 minutes. Stir in sour cream. Heat thoroughly but do not boil.

Cook noodles according to directions and serve Stroganoff over cooked noodles.

One more tasty recipe. This one is said to "wait" well if the meal is delayed and is good served with au gratin potatoes and a broccoli dish. The recipe serves 6 as a dinner, but you can make the meatballs tiny to use as a delicious appetizer too:

ALMOST HAM BALLS
Arlene Williams Mickley
Marion Williams

1 pound raw hamburger
1 can smoked Spam, ground
1/4 cup chopped onion
3/4 cup bread crumbs
2 eggs
1/2 cup milk

Sauce

1 (9 ounce) can crushed pineapple
1/4 cup vinegar
1/3 cup ketchup
2 tablespoons soy sauce
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 teaspoon ginger
No salt or pepper

Mix hamburger, Spam, onion, bread crumbs, eggs and milk well. Make into golf ball-sized balls. Place close together in a 9x9 inch baking pan.

Mix sauce ingredients and pour over meatballs. Bake at 325 degrees for 1 hour or until meatballs are done.

With his grant, he will demonstrate the use of warm-season grasses, such as bluestem and switch grass, as a source of livestock forage for both organic and conventional farms to determine if warm-season grasses increase production and profitability.

Pennington SWCD needs supervisors

Individuals concerned about water quality and soil erosion in Pennington County should consider being a supervisor of the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD).

This year, the Pennington SWCD has four supervisor positions up for election. SWCD candidates appear on the ballot for the general election which will take place Nov. 4, 2008. Candidates must live in and file from their nominating district which include the following:

Area I: Numedal, Sanders, Bray, Black River, Polk Centre
Area II: North, Norden, Rocksbury, Silverton
Area IV: Goodridge, Reiner, Star and Hickory
Area V: River Falls, Wyandotte, Mayfield, Deer Park

SWCDs are special purpose units of government that manage and direct conservation programs. Supervisors serve four-year terms. They meet monthly to discuss the business of the SWCD, including state grant allocations to landowners, district conservation priorities, coordination with other local units of government and state agencies, and legislative priorities. Supervisors do not receive a salary, although they do receive compensation for attending meetings and are reimbursed for expenses.

Those interested in running for Supervisor should file at the County Auditor's office before the July 15, 2008 deadline. Additional information about the SWCD can be obtained by visiting their Web site at http://nwmnswcd.org/ or calling the office at (218) 683-7075.

Mr. "Sam" is coming back to Goodridge for reunion

The news is out among Goodridge's 1950s alumni students. Mr. Sam is coming back.

Nearly 50 years after he left his teaching post at Goodridge High School to move on to bigger and better things, "Mr. Samber" (Sam) is returning to renew acquaintances with former Goodridge and Grygla music students. He is an the guest list for the 50th reunion of the Class of 1958, set for July 5 in Goodridge, and will meet with other former students at a supper to be held Monday, July 7 in Thief River Falls.

Roland Samber's seven years at Goodridge High School left an indelible mark on students who were fortunate enough to have him for a music teacher. He not only braught a new dimension to the music program - but also a new understanding in human relations to an area basically ignorant of racial issues.

He was probably the first black human being most students had seen in person - back in a day when characters like "Amos & Andy" had presented a clouded view.

Samber was born in Florida but grew up in New York City. He came to Goodridge in the fall of 1953 and taught vocal and instrumental music and music appreciation to students in grodes 7-12, for seven years. He also gave private lessons. Looking back to the '50s, former students from that era say Samber helped them to broaden their horizons in a positive way.

Students remember that music was so much fun in Samber's class, that they couldn't wait to get to the music building, which was then located across the street from the main building. Sam's rousing piano music drew the students like a magnet, and they wasted no time dartiag acrass the muddy or icy street for class. Samber introduced atudents to the classics, and helped them appreciate many varieties af music. He had a way of challenging students to tackle difficult music by making it fun.

While he was a respected teacher, Samber was also a friend ta all his students – many of wham stayed after school to harmonize with him or to thrill in his special piano music. "The Chicken Reel" was a favorite request of the students whenever Sam sat down to play.

He boarded with the Ellingson family in Goodridge during his atay there, and Larry Ellingson became one of his best pupils. "He (Larry) stayed after school every day to learn, learn, learn." Samber said. Ellingson has been singing and playing ever since. When he formed his own band, he adopted the stage name "Lee Silverton."

Samber recalled his years at Goodridge school in a piece he wrote for the Penningtan County history book (printed in 1976). In the book, Samber gave a humarous account of watching the faces of "little ones who had oever seen a black man in person before." In recalling his deer huntiog experience he wrote: "I remember the looks on the faces of deer hunters when I came out of the woods. Incidentally, I didn't bag a deer that first season - but I did get lost." He talked about his experiences with lutefisk, pinocle playing and Friday nights in Highlanding.

"I remember the honor, respect, and opportunity afforded to me by Supt. Brown," Samber said. "I remember how the kids used to run to the little old music building for their music lessons."

"I remember that I wished all of America could take notice of this school system. It was the most meaningful experience of my life. I was fully accepted as an educator and a person and, as a result, I never hesitated to do my utmost to meet the needs and demands of the students, parents, community and the school system. How could I ever forget Goodridge, Minnesota, USA."

After leaving the Goodridge area, Samber went back east to teach and continue his music career. He became a concert pianist, earned severol degrees, and also taught music for many years at an all-male university in Albany, Ga., where he now lives. Since retiring from teaching, he has continued as a classical concert pianist and now says he plays the piano about five to six hours a day - just for his own enjoyment.

The July 7 event at the American Legion in Thief River Falls is open to all of Sam's former students and acquaintances in the area. A 4 to 7 p.m. time frame has been set with a light meal to be served at 5 p.m. There will be time for visiting, and a piano will be available for impromptu entertainment. The Legion will offer a chicken croissant sandwich, salad and beverage for $7. Anyone planning to attend should call Yvonne Wells at 681-8182.

Rydell to host "Under Cart Wheels" on Sunday

On Sunday, July 6 at 1 p.m., Rydell National Wildlife Refuge will host Minnesota Department of Natural Resources ecologist and freelance landscape historian Nancy Sather, who will present a program called "Under Cart Wheels."

At the Rydell NWR Visitor Center at 1 p.m., there will be a slide program featuring plants and animals that were documented by early travelers or would have been seen en route from Fort Garry (Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada) and Pembina to St. Paul. Then at 2:45 p.m., those who are able can ride in a group from Rydell NWR to the Scientific and Naturol Area parking lot along Polk County Road 45. They will hike an old field road that is on a segment of the Pembina Troil on the east side of the preserve. They will view prairie plants typical of the Lake Agassiz Beach Ridges and the wet prairies at their base.

The Rydell NWR gift shop, provided by the Friends of Rydell Refuge, will also be open.

Rydell NWR is located two-and-a-half miles south of Highway 2, between the cities of Mentor and Erskine. For more information, call the refuge at 1-800-841-0172.

Project Flagpole

I can't believe we're neck deep in summer and I've yet to mention any specific do-it-yourself summer projects. It's Independence Day, so let's do something nice for our flag, let's give it light.

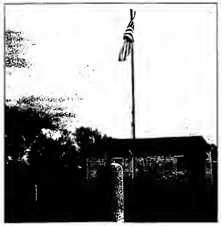
I love seeing the flag of the United States flown prominently in front of businesses and homes. I believe the American Legion can provide you with the rules for proper flag display, but they are fairly simple – just treat the flag like you would any symbol for the greatest country in the world and the shining beacon of democracy, and you should be OK. I want to focus on lighting the flag, as I see a lot of United States flags that are flown overnight without being lit. I think most do-it-yourself folks can erect a pole to hold the flag without my instruction, however, here is one rule to remember: For every three feet of pole height, you should have one foot firmly driven into the ground.

Let's light the flag; it's pretty easy and not that expensive. I believe a 150 watt halogen light operating 24/7 is probably overkill, and that a low voltage system with a 50 watt flood light should light the flag properly. Some folks will probably just push a solar-powered light into the ground and call it good, which is fine; just remember that the light needs to shine the whole night and few solar lights, even when exposed to full sun during the day, can handle this task.

Our flag is lit by a low-voltage controller that is wired underground to the spotlight. The controller was about $35, and the wire was cheap and easy to install; I usually just slice the sod with a shovel, pull on the grass to open the cut, then slide the wire under the top layer. A light that simply sits on the ground in front of the flagpole will be subject to lawnmower abuse, and it will be hard to trim the grass around it to the point the grass may block the light. I placed our light on top of a concrete column about three feet above the ground. I used a cardboard forming tube, placed one foot into the ground for stability, then ran the wire through before I filled it with concrete. I did us a favor by removing the sod around the tube and filling the empty space with concrete set to ground level, which prevents grass re-growth. I hate trimming, and if you use this little trick, you can trim with your rider or push mower.

The use of string trimmers is punishment for certain crimes in some countries, and I usually lose my will to trim by the time I get that little two-cycle engine running. After the concrete has set for about four hours, I removed the top six inches of the cardboard tube, then shaped the concrete with my gloved hands. I then wired the low-voltage spotlight and used its mounting spike to attach it to the soft concrete.

There are severol symbols that have represented our country, including the Statue of Liberty, which was originally called "Liberty Lighting the World." When you light the flag of the United States, you return the favor to the symbol, which inspired this statue and the idea of our country. It's an important act and a great summer project for those who need to make a little concrete, do a little digging, and try some basic wiring to make a summer holiday weekend complete.



Lighting the American flag so that it can be flown all night is a relatively simple and inexpensive project.

Signup begins for direct and counter-cyclical payment program

The Pennington County Farm Service Agency (FSA) Office wants to inform producers that the sign-up for the 2008 Direct and Counter-Cyclical Payment Progrom (DCP) began on June 25 and will run through Sept. 30, 2008.

Producers can fill out their 2008 DCP contracts at their local FSA County Office or can sign-up online. The online, electronic DCP (or eDCP) service saves producers time, reduces paperwork, and speeds contract processing at the FSA County Offices. It is available to all producers who are eligible to participate in DCP and who obtain eAuthentication accounts.

FSA computes DCP payments using base acres and payment yields established for each farm. Eligible producers receive direct payments at rates established by statue regardless of market prices. For 2008, eligible producers may request to receive an advance payment of 22 percent of the direct payment for each commodity associated with the farm. FSA will advance direct payments as soon as proctical after enrollment. Final direct payments will be issued after Oct. 1, 2008. Counter-cyclical payments vary depending on market prices, and are issued only when the effective price for a commodity is below its target price (which takes into account the direct payment rate, market price and loan rate).

The Pennington County FSA Office will be conducting the 2008 DCP sign-up by appointment. Before scheduling an appointment, if applicable, producers should have copies of their leases for any rented farms and bring them along to their appointment.

Participants must submit the completed DCP contract by Sept. 30, 2008. Applications filed after this date will not be approved for payment.

For more details, contact your local FSA County Office or the Pennington County FSA Office at 681-1612 ext. 2. Information is also available on the FSA Web site at www.fsa.usda.gov.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Dave Hill, Editor

Editorial opinion published under this heading is intended to stimulate thinking and discussion among our readers. Unless specified otherwise, the editorials are written by Editor Dave Hill and do not represent opinion of other staff members. Opinions in items from other publications may not coincide with the editor's own views but are offered for their general interest.

Recognize work zone areas on roads

The construction season, as short as it is, is well under way. Numerous highways and roads in northwestern Minnesota are scheduled for some kind of repair or improvement. These repairs and improvements don't come without their share of disruptions, but don't let your frustrations get the best of you because you may end up with a hefty ticket, injuries or worse.

The state of Minnesota generally has some clever way of grabbing our attention when it comes to traveling in work zones. This year's effort includes an advertisement listing the cost of a speeding ticket - $280, the cost for a hospital stay - $3,500, and the statement: "Paying attention in work zones costs less."

I guess that's a pretty good message because it gets the point across. During the construction season, it's best to expect the unexpected. It's also best to minimize the distractions in your vehicle, like cell phone calls, food, coffee, hair care and whatever else. The Minnesota Department of Transportation also urges motorists to be especially alert at night. Don't tailgate! Keep plenty of space between you and the vehicle ahead. One in three crashes in a work zone are rear-end collisions.

Be patient. I don't know about you, but on a hot summer day, delays can seem interminable and add to your travel costs, which brings most of us to a boil. In addition, it seems like everyone is going to the lake at tho same time. Mn/DOT reminds us to expect delays, especially during peak travel times. We shouldn't take it out on work crews. Work zone crew members are just doing their jobs and working to improve our future. Blame yourself. We should all understand by now that vehicle volumes on state highway systems have doubled in the past 20 years, so maybe we should take that into account when planning our trips. The state also makes it easier to plan our trips. If you're planning a trip, check 24-hour Mn/DOT Road Information by dialing 511 or by logging on to 511mn.org.

In Minnesota, speeding fines in a construction zone double when workers are present, and injuries are much more permanent. Recognize work zone areas. Please drive safely.

LETTERS

To the Editor:

The recent article about the Institutional Community Work Crew program operated by Inter-County Community Council and Pennington County was very helpful in helping the public gain an understanding of the need for moderately priced new homes in our area, the challenges facing the organizations which have tried to fill this gap, and the difficulties many first time home buyers experience. I would like to make sure everyone understands how much we appreciate the work and worry Inter-County has put into this program and how important it is to continue providing new homes that are truly affordable.

The primary difficulty the program has faced is trying to build a home and then finding a qualified buyer. Inter-County has built less expensive homes and found out current buyers really want something with more curb appeal. They have built in small towns when the market seemed good and then suddenly found no one interested. The financial cost of having a home that does not 'sell' and the disappointment in talking with potential buyers who need a bigger or smaller house or in a different location to make things work, wears hard on agencies, staff and buyers.

Besides building affordable homes, the program has also helped new homebuyers through homeowner education, down payment assistance and workable financing options. This is what young workers just starting out, seniors looking for a smaller home, and families trying to own a home really need. This is the very, very opposite of those who targeted the dreams of these same groups with homes and financial packages they could never afford. The existence of programs like the ICWC Homes provides a truly viable option and, along with our good local financial institutions, has helped prevent the growth of a predatory housing and mortgage industry in our area.

We are trying to move in a new direction with the ICWC Homes, but we may be too late to save the program. Looking backwards, this new approach, which is to find the qualified buyers first, get them the help they need in understanding home ownership and financing, and then building them the right home in the right place, seems like an obvious choice; but, it also involves getting a large number of organizations on the same page and changing some traditional governmental ways of thinking about home buyers, things that take time we may not have.

So, we hope that those potential home owners out there who need a boost, an affordable home, some guidance, and the perfect home at the perfect price and in the perfect place, will give us a call at 218-745-6733.

Restoring maple/basswood forests at Rydell NWR

Historically, maple/basswood forests made up 35 percent of the Rydell National Wildlife Refuge, but currently a lone 5 percent of the refuge houses this unique habitat. The Rydell NWR is dedicated to restoring the natural historic habitats that house rare animals and plants such as rich delicate ferns and orchids. Along with the maple/basswood forests, oak savannah and wet prairie are an integral part of the big historic and natural picture of the Rydell NWR area.

Many of these areas were cleared for farming during the homesteading era, altering the natural habitat of the area. Unfortunately, restoring habitat, even maple/basswood forest, requires a decision process that not all will come to understand. Many of these altered areas were planted with spruce trees by previous landowners. Spruce trees, however, are not native to this area of the state, and don't provide the habitat needed by native forest dwelling songbirds, which have declined in population over the last century. So before the sugar maple, American basswood or bur oak seedlings can be planted, the spruce trees are removed.

Since 2005, with the help of more than 200 individual and group volunteers, over 20,000 seedlings have been planted. Once the trees are planted, a protective tube is placed over each tree in order to shield the small tree from possible weather damage or being chewed or trampled down.

In 2008, an additional 8,000 trees have been planted and are awaiting tubes. Rydell NWR is looking for volunteers to help tube trees in its forest restoration project. All are welcome – school groups, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, and any other groups or individuals who would like to be part of this unique project of returning nature to its original habitat conditions that bring homes to many plants and animals, such as white-tailed deer, ruffed grouse and countless species of songbirds.

Rydell NWR thanks everyone who has already helped in this rewarding project. Come join the Rydell NWR in restoring this beautiful natural historic ecosystem and to ensure the future of the maple/basswood forest for future generations of wildlife, plants and our children to enjoy.

For more details, contact the Rydell NWR at (218) 687-2229.

Hundreds of soccer players in Thief River Falls participated in a clinic Monday that was put on by Kristen Gay, head soccer coach of the University of North Dakota women's soccer program, and several of her players.

University of North Dakota women's head soccer coach, Kristen Gay, gives some direction to students enrolled in the Thief River Falls Soccer Association program on Monday. Gay and several players from her team provided a soccer clinic for the students at the Multi-Events Center in Thief River Falls.

UND soccer team conducts clinic with Thief River Falls Soccer Association

by David Hill
Editor

As interest in Thief River Falls soccer grows, youth are more excited about learning more from athletes they look up to. Monday, the young athletes were particularly excited when athletes and the coach from the University of North Dakota women's soccer program conducted a clinic at the Multi-Events Center in Thief River Falls.

Kristen Gay, head coach for the women's soccer program at UND, said this was an opportunity for them to give back to youth in the region.

Soccer in Thief River Falls is a relatively new sport that's attracting ever increasing numbers of youth in Thief River Falls. This year, over 350 youth enrolled in the program.

Gay said it's important to keep youth excited about soccer. Monday in Thief River Falls, Gay and five members of her team worked with students on foot skills and basic technique.

Dennis Buckley, one of the volunteer coaches in Thief River Falls, said he plans to start using some of the drills the UND players demonstrated. "As the program grows, we're learning, too," he said.

Michael Fisher, one of the organizers with the Thief River Falls Soccer Association, said the Association arranged for the clinic about a month ago. He believes clinics like this and others in the future will not only continue to build excitement about the program, but improve player and coach knowledge about the game.

Interest and enthusiasm for the sport in Thief River Falls continues to grow. Fisher said a concession stand and storage facility are being built.

The soccer season in Thief River Falls is about three-quarters of the way through the season.

This clinic was a first for the UND program. Gay said she would like to conduct similar clinics in the future. She noted that younger students had attended some of their games. She hopes more students attend their games in the future and that it builds a relationship that results in more students attending UND for soccer.

UND will open its season with a pair of games in Utah (Aug. 28 and Aug. 30) before returning for a home opener against Northern State on Sept. 2. The schedule also features former North Central Conference opponent South Dakota as well as Missouri Valley Conference stand-outs Drake and Creighton. The 18-game schedule includes 12 matches with Division I opponents.

Rachael Loomis of Fargo, N.D., who is a member of the University of North Dakota Soccer Team, works with children enrolled in the Thief River Falls Soccer Association program. She was one of several students from UND working with students in the Thief River Falls program on Monday.

Bandits take doubleheader from Roseau

Thief River Falls Bandits got a great start and never looked back in their doubleheader against Roseau on July 1 at the Multi-Events Center ball fields.

"I love the way we came out from the start," said coach Courtney Skjerven. "There have been times we started flat and it takes an inning or two to get going."

The Bandits won both games, winning 12-0 in game one and 12-2 in game two. Skjerven credited the wins to strong play from the team that included a no-hitter in the first game pitched by Cody Conners.

"Conners pitched very well. When he's on, he can go out and no-hit a team on any day. He got one today," said Skjerven.

In game one, players were hitting well, too.

"Our bats were on tonight. We we got runners on, we knocked them in. We hit a lot of balls hard. Without the wind we would have had four or five homeruns."

"We used the same formula in game two; great pitching, lots of hitting, solid defense, and aggressive base running," said Skjerven.

Skjerven noted that Spencer Johnson was pitching well. "He has been dealing with some back tightness. He is feeling better and got back on track tonight."

But, anytime a team comes out and scores six in the first inning, the chances of winning improve greatly.

"Overall, we played two very complete games against a young Roseau team. I liked the fire and intensity we played with. We hit and pitched great. Two areas that are often overlooked are base running and defense. We did both very well. We had 14 stolen bases, including three at third. We were really hustling out there. We had one error all night and that was made by a sinking line drive that got under our second baseman. Our defense was nearly perfect," said Skjerven.

On Wednesday, the team was at Warroad for two non-district games.

Skjerven said it was a good opportunity for the younger guys to play. After Wednesday, the team gets four days off for Independence Day. "This will be our first weekend off since sections of the high school season. These guys need a nice break," said Skjerven.

Four people injured in accident near Roseau

Four people were injured after a broadside accident four miles west of Roseau on Monday afternoon.

Megan M. Olson, 16, Roosevelt; Cassandra M. Rockis, 20, Roseau; Lorraine Horn, 18, unknown city; and Mary G. Carlson, 46, Detroit Lakes, suffered non-life-threatening injuries in the accident. They all went to LifeCare Medical Center in Roseau, according to the Minnesota State Patrol report. Ronald M. Rockis, 17, Roseau, suffered no injuries in the crash.

At the time of the accident, Olson was driving a 2001 Pontiac Bonneville northbound on 350th Avenue. According to the report, she crossed Highway 11, traveling into the path of Carlson, who was driving a westbound 1989 Pontiac Grand Prix. Carlson was wearing her seat belt. It was unknown if Olson or any of her passengers were wearing their seat belts. Olson's car sustained severe damage, and Carlson's car sustained moderate damage.

The State Patrol was dispatched to the scene at 1:49 p.m. Monday. The Roseau County Sheriff's Office provided assistance.

Kristen Gay, head coach of the women's soccer program at the University of North Dakota, provides Hannah Brickson, a student enrolled in the Thief River Falls Soccer Association program, with some tips. Gay and several of her players conducted a soccer clinic in Thief River Falls on Monday.

Inc.'s pit and unloaded trucks returning to the pit.

Concrete Inc.'s old route used the same one-mile stretch on CR 59 for loaded trucks, which would head west to County State Aid Highway 12 and south to CSAH 3 to reach their destination, west of St. Hilaire. Unloaded trucks would then return to Concrete Inc.'s pit from CSAH 3 by heading north on 140th Ave. N.W and west on CR 59, both of which are gravel roads.

Zblewski feels the changes are a step in the right direction, but they don't address safety concerns. He said he would like to see the township ordinance followed more closely.

A portion of the Sanders Township Ordinance regulating the excavation of mineral material states: "All roads used to haul the sand and gravel shall be maintained to allow normal traffic to freely use the roads. These roads shall also be watered to reduce dust. Upon completion of the hauling, or at the direction of the Town Board, all roads must be immediately returned to the condition that existed prior to the start of the hauling, or to a condition agreed upon with the Town Board. The Town Board shall have the right to direct the permit holder in maintenance of roads if the permit holder does not maintain the roads in a satisfactory condition."

Specifically, Zblewski said he would like to see the road's surface watered as stated in the ordinance, or sprayed with calcium chloride to control dust for the entire one-mile stretch.

Tom Wold, Sanders Township chairman, said the township's supervisors are working on resolving the issue. They brought the issue to the Pennington County Board first (June 9) because CR 59 is a county road. He said the county did not take any action, which is forcing the township to work with Concrete Inc. to resolve the issue.

Addressing the petition's second concern, he said the township already holds public hearings when changes to the township ordinance are considered.

Discussion turned toward the residents' third area of concern, which is the location of township meetings. The majority of township meetings have been conducted within the homes of township supervisors instead of the township hall. Ray Ulrich, a Bray Township resident and Sanders Township landowner, read a portion of Minnesota's Open Meeting Law, which states, "Open meetings must be held in a public place within the borders of the public body."

Supervisor Randy Knott responded that without researching the statute, he couldn't respond. He added that the Sanders Township Board chooses to hold its meetings at other locations because the township hall does not have adequate restrooms.

Johnson added that the annual township meetings are held at the Sanders Township Hall and attendance is poor.

Addressing the date and time of township meetings, Sanders Township officials said the board does not have a set meeting time. Meetings are called based upon need and the availability of the board.

Discussion returned to enforcing the township's ordinances. Wold said if the township enforced every ordinance to the letter of the law, it would become a law enforcement unit.

Knott said it's never been the board's desire to be a police force. If the township cracked down on one ordinance, it would have to do the same for all ordinances. That means cracking down on other things like too much garbage.

"We don't have the man-power to do that," Johnson added.

The supervisors said they will continue to work with Concrete Inc. to address the residents' concerns over dust throughout the one-mile stretch of CR 59.

Richard Haugen, superintendent and 36-year employee of Concrete Inc., said Tuesday that his company has done everything it's been asked to do by Pennington County and Sanders Township regarding the maintenance of CR 59. The company has also spent thousands of dollars on maintaining the road.

Haugen said he is disappointed that residents didn't bring their concerns to Concrete Inc. first.

"If any of these people had come to us, we would have addressed this problem," Haugen said. "We're trying to be a good neighbor, and we're doing the best that we can."

He echoed the township's statements, saying that Concrete Inc. will continue to work with Sanders Township to address the concerns of residents.

Zblewsi and Ulrich said they felt the meeting was productive and they believe that a solution will be reached.

Matt Griggs of Bemidji quickly makes some adjustments to his Lego Mindstorm NXT™ robot so that he can join his fellow campers in some robot battles. During the two-day camp at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls, students built and programmed robots. Andrew Dahlen, an Automated Systems faculty member at NCTC, explained, "Today's workforce is already using this type of technology. Students were exposed to sensors, as well as basic engineering and programming principles, and encouraged to use their creativity and have fun."

Pennington Co. Fair starts Wed.

Grandstand

Grand Passes allow admittance to all five of the grandstand events. Grand passes, which when purchased in advance, cost $40 for adults and $20 for children under 12. Advance tickets can be obtained at Pennington Square and Main, Petro Pumper, Erl's Market, Kruse In in St. Hilaire, Eagle Square in Red Lake Falls and Goodridge Cenex in Goodridge.

The Roosters

From 7 to 11 p.m. on Thursday the Roosters will perform at the grandstand. The Roosters are an up and coming country band who's new Nationally released CD "Sorry 'bout the Mess" has earned them a New Music Weekly Award nomination for Best New Group/Duo. The Roosters started crowing in 2004, performing in country music festivals, the club circuit and opening up for national acts like Alabama, Reba McEntire, Toby Keith and Sawyer Brown, just to name a few. During that time, members of the Roosters have developed a tight live sound, which only comes from playing together as a group. Based out of Fargo, N.D., the group has become a regular favorite at the largest country music festivals in the nation.

Thunder on Hooves

The Thunder on Hooves bullride, a Copenhagen Bull Riding Challenger tour event, returns to the Pennington County Fair and Pennington County Grandstand on Friday and Saturday. The show begins at 7 p.m. each night.

The PBR's Copenhagen Bull Riding Challenger Tour is comparable to baseball's minor league. It offers up-and-coming bull riders the opportunity to compete in PBR sanctioned events while earning money to qualify them for the elite Built Ford Tough Series.

The PBR has, through its 15-year history, taken the position that there are two great athletes in every 8 second ride. The bulls are treated with as much respect as the human athletes who ride them. A portion of PBR's Animal Welfare Policy summarizes the great respect that everyone associated with the organization shares for its animal athletes.

Professional Bull Riding is fully committed to ensuring the much deserved health, safety, and respect of each bull that enters a PBR Arena. To mistreat a bull would be a detriment to the sport upon which a bull rider's own livelihood depends. Therefore, the care and treatment of PBR Bulls is a top priority to those who govern and/or participate in PBR events.

What separates a Good Ride from a Bad Ride?

Bull Riders are scored by highly trained judges that review many aspects of there ride to decide on the score. Judges score both the bull's performance and the rider's performance separately to a combined total of 100 points. (50 points for the bull and 50 for the rider)The rider only gets a score if he stays on for the full 8 seconds, but the bull always receives a score.

MN DNR Conservation Officer Academy underway at Camp Ripley

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Conservation Officer Academy XII is underway at Camp Ripley, with 10 Conservation Officer Candidates (COCs) participating in the initial 12-week training program about state natural resource laws and how to enforce them.

"As a conservation officer, you enforce fish and game laws to ensure that hunters and anglers abide by the restrictions of the season and their limits, have proper licenses and use the proper equipment," said Capt. Mark Johanson, DNR interim enforcement director. "You investigate complaints, cite violators, prepare briefs and present evidence in court. Some investigations are done in a day, others require detective work and modern technology."

The recruits will learn everything from using a laptop computer to collecting evidence to citing and interviewing suspects. The idea is to allow each candidate to become familiar with the variety of challenges confronting conservation officers who protect the state's natural resources. Upon successful completion of the academy, they will spend 16 additional weeks learning from, and being evaluated by, veteran conservation officers before starting their first assignment.

"The training will be both physically and mentally challenging to ensure they're prepared for the normal activities encountered by our nearly 200 current conservation officers," Johanson added.

Car show planned for Pennington County Fair

The next event for area car enthusiasts will be on Thursday, July 10, with a special interest car show at the Pennington County Fair. The event will be free for all entrants and spectators. It will be held in the area in front of the Huck Olson arena and adjacent to the Ralph Engelstad Arena parking area.

The event will be held from 7 p.m. until dark. The event is open to all antique, collector, custom, street rod, muscle car, classic, convertibles and others.

The event is sponsored jointly by both the Street Wizards and Prairie Schooner Car Clubs and is open to both members and non-members, along with enthusiasts from surrounding communities. For more information contact either Jason at 681-5452 or Chuck at 681-3869 evenings.

City moves to stimulate housing market

Karlstad - "Housing starts and current home purchases are falling off all around the country right now, but the city of Karlstad is offering some incentives to curb the trend at the local level.

"The incentives are available to first-time property owners purchasing an existing home, for building a new home and even for remodeling an existing home. The incentives were approved by the City Council at its regular meeting July 2." - North Star News, July 10, 2008, by Dan Nordine

Toddler saved after nearly drowning in pool

Red Lake Falls - "Jeremiah Rondorf, the 2½-year-old son of John and Carrie Rondorf of Red Lake Falls, had a near-death experience at the city swimming pool July 1.

"The Red Lake County Sheriff's Department and the Red Lake Falls Volunteer Ambulance Service were dispatched to the incident.

"Jeremiah, who had been among several swimmers on a packed day at the pool due to the hot weather, was pulled out of the water unresponsive. It is unknown how long he was underwater before it was discovered he was drowning.

"For a period of about one minute, the toddler was not breathing. He was resuscitated through CPR given by his mother; the on-duty lifeguard, Kayla Knott and EMT Louie Stich, who arrived on the scene.

"Jeremiah was taken by ambulance to RiverView Health in Crookston to be checked over. His father reported that Jeremiah was doing well; he even enjoyed a day at the pool on Sunday." - Red Lake Falls Gazette, July 9, 2008, by Destiny Harmoning Fosston - "A new helmsman has taken control of the Fosston School District Gene Paulson officially became superintendent July 1. He succeeds the now retired Dale Salberg, who spent 10 years in the position.

Paulson takes the helm

"Paulson is the former superintendent of the Mesabi East School District, which covers the communities of Aurora, Hoyt Lakes and Biwabik. He spent 32 years there in a variety of positions from teacher and athletic director to assistant administrator and transportation director.

"Originally from Goodridge, Paulson graduated with a teaching degree from Bemidji State University." - The 13 Towns of Fosston, July 8, 2008, by Dan Kindall

Meet Miss Marshall County – Jaclyn Beito

Newfolden - "Jaclyn Beito decided to compete in the Miss Marshall County Pageant on the recommendation of her friend Brittany Pyle. She thought it would be fun, and it was. She said that she decided to go for it because she wanted to see if she could make a difference."

"Not only did the pageant afford Jaclyn a good time, she earned the crown and the title, winning, along the way, the Talent and On-Stage Personality divisions as well." - The Middle River Honker, July 5, 2008, by Barb Geer

TRF-area teacher center launched

Improving mathematics and science instruction and learning will be the focus of the new Math and Science Teacher Center in Bemidji.

Minnesota Department of Education Assistant Commissioner Karen Klinzing joined local educators to launch the Thief River Falls-area Teacher Center, a part of the Minnesota Math and Science Teacher Academy, which consists of nine Teacher Centers throughout the state.

"After parents, teachers have the biggest impact on student success," said Klinzing. "Through the training at this Center, teachers will have the opportunity to hone their skills in order to help prepare their students for success after high school."

The Teacher Center is training 10 teacher leaders from 10 districts on how to effectively prepare students to meet the new mathematics standards requirements put in place in 2007. The Center developed a training module for middle school algebra (grade 6-8) and is developing a module on elementary algebra connected to number (grade 3-5).

The Math and Science Teacher Academy is a result of Minnesota Governor Tim Pawlenty's efforts to improve teacher effectiveness, especially in the areas of math and

Roseau Co. Relay For Life Aug. 8

Cancer survivors are our "Heroes." On Aug. 8, 2008 the American Cancer Society's 12th annual Roseau County Relay For Life will be held at the Roseau City Park. This celebration represents one day - one night - one county. By participating in the Relay For Life event, participants honor Cancer survivors, pay tribute to the lives lost to the disease, and raise money to help fight cancer right in your county.

Those who have experienced cancer and fought back with an amazing spirit for life are our heroes. Those remarkable people are Roseau County's cancer survivors.

Committee member Barb Erickson, RN, has worked with the cancer program for the past 17 years as a nursing supervisor and chemotherapy nurse. She has developed the Chemotherapy Treatment Center in Roseau, which enables patients to receive chemotherapy in Roseau in conjunction with their oncologist, whether the oncologist is from Grand Forks, N.D., Fargo, N.D., or Mayo.

Relay For Life events held all over the world have enabled more medical research and discoveries in early detection, new drugs and new cancer treatments. As a result, the number of cancer survivors has grown by an astounding rate.

Roseau hospital gets top marks in safety

Forty-six Minnesota hospitals have received a new award recognizing superior efforts to prevent the most prevalent types of adverse health events. LifeCare Hospital in Roseau received three awards.

The Minnesota Hospital Association's inaugural Patient Safety Excellence Awards were distributed June 27. The program honors hospitals that are participating in at least one of the association's four safety campaigns and achieve at least 90 percent of a campaign's requirements.

"These awards set the bar very high," said MHA Patient Safety Vice President Tania Daniels. "Hospitals that qualify have achieved measurable and meaningful progress toward implementing best practices to drive down adverse health events, and we truly commend their outstanding efforts."

The initiatives work to prevent pressure ulcers, or bedsores ("SAFE SKIN"); patient falls ("SAFE from FALLS"); wrong-site invasive procedures ("SAFE SITE") and retained foreign objects in labor and delivery ("SAFE COUNT"). Improvement measures in the SAFE SKIN campaign, for example, call for repositioning patients at least every two hours to keep pressure ulcers from developing. Each campaign included thorough sets of improvement steps based on national and state best practices, and on information gleaned from hospitals sharing information about adverse health events that occurred at their facilities.

Eleven hospitals won two awards, and LifeCare Medical Center in Roseau took top honors for earning three accolades. Other area hospitals receiving awards included LakeWood Health Center, Baudette, and North Country Health Services, Bemidji.

The next awards in the quarterly recognition program will be given in September. To learn more about the safety campaigns visit www.mnhospitals.org/index/tools-app/tool.390.

LHS grad becomes chief of staff at medical center

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Teachers may never realize the impact they have on their students. That may have been the case with Lincoln High School chemistry teacher Larry Brown, who suggested that one of his young chemistry students attend medical school.

The student was Susan (Wysoski) Markstrom, a 1973 graduate of Lincoln High School. Markstrom didn't take Brown's advice to heart – at least, not right away.

Markstrom eventually accepted Brown's advice, and today, she is a successful physician. Markstrom was named the chief of staff of the St. Cloud Veterans Affairs Medical Center April 27.

Markstrom's life-changing conversation with Brown came during her junior year at Lincoln High School. Brown told Markstrom she should study medicine and become a physician – something few women did at the time.

"I recall thinking that was just not something that I could do as a female," Markstrom said. "I am also a first generation physician in my immediate family, so had no role models. His words of confidence in me always stayed with me, however."

Students celebrate teacher's lessons

by David Hill
Editor

"He came to us during segregation and we accepted him like he was one of us," said Yvonne Wills Pederson.

On Monday, Pederson, and about 60 other former students and guests, were waiting for Roland Samber, their guest of honor, for the 50th reunion of the Goodridge Class of 1958 at the American Legion center located on the west edge of Thief River Falls.

"Sam is Sam," smiled Pederson. "He was never prompt."

When Samber arrived, his shy, endearing smile evaporated any tension or concerns in the room. The loud, modern rock music playing in the background near the bar ceased, and the visitors gathered in the hall reached out to one of their own.

In 1953, Roland Samber, who had never heard of Goodridge, a small town located in northwestern Minnesota, moved to Goodridge without any preconceptions or fear.

Samber said he only knew he needed a job and that the postcard from a college placement service came at the right time.

Pederson said the people of Goodridge only knew they needed someone to teach music.

"I wasn't worried at all," said Samber, who seemed a little surprised the thought of being afraid had never crossed his mind. "After I got here, I met Superintendent Brown. Everyone was so polite and welcoming. It was wonderful."

Today, Samber believes it was the most rewarding job of his professional career.

No achievement elsewhere has ever matched what happened in that small town, he said. "They treated me like a prince. And I never had a discipline problem. Not one."

Pederson and others from that class agree. "He is an amazing man," said Pederson.

To a large extent, Pederson also believes many people in her class are who they are today because of "Mr. Sam."

Pederson recalls a bus ride out on the East Coast years later when she was attending nursing school. She went to the back of the bus to ride, but was chided by another passenger for doing so.

Pederson said the woman said, "You're not from around here are you?"

No, she recalled, she wasn't. She could see beyond the color of a person's skin ... because of Mr. Sam.

In 1976, Samber penned an

SOUPÇON

Sherry LaCoursiere

Today's recipes have come from one of my favorite old cookbooks, the 1991 Centennial Cookbook from First Lutheran church in Stephen, MN.

Make this dish when you have a bunch of people to serve and not a lot of time. It is great for pot lucks too, because it doesn't need to be piping hot - it's just as good lukewarm (the best way to eat pizza anyway, if you ask me):

DEEP DISH SPAGHETTI PIZZA

Evelyn Nelson

7 ounce box spaghetti, cooked and drained
2 eggs and 1 cup milk, beaten together
32 ounce jar spaghetti sauce
1 to 1-1/2 pounds of hamburger, browned and drained
1 (3 ounce) package pepperoni
8 ounces shredded mozzarella cheese

Prepare 10x15 inch pan with nonstick spray. Place spaghetti in prepared pan and spoon the egg/milk mixture evenly over it. Spoon spaghetti sauce over top. Crumble hamburger over, then add pepperoni, and then cheese.

Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Let stand 5 minutes before cutting.

(I'm going to make it the way it says first, then try adding some veggies to it next time I make it - what a great dish to serve when the kids and grandkids come over - SL)

This side dish is perfect with the spaghetti pizza - cool, crunchy and refreshing - and I have a garden filled with broccoli again - seems to be the only thing I can grow:

EASY BROCCOLI SALAD

Muriel Setterholm Bring

1 bunch broccoli, chopped fine
4 ounces grated cheddar cheese
8-10 slices bacon, fried and crumbled

Dressing

1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 teaspoon vinegar
1/8 cup sugar

Broccoli may be used raw or blanched in boiling water until tender/crisp (cool immediately in ice water).

Mix broccoli, cheese and bacon. Mix dressing and pour over broccoli mixture. Chill.

Make this dish ahead of time for an easy, super-delicious, summery dessert:

FRUIT FLUFF DESSERT

Carol Hoper Hagen

2 cups Bisquick baking mix
2 tablespoons sugar
1/4 cup margarine or butter
2 (3 ounce) packages cream cheese
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups whipping cream
1 cups mini marshmallows
4 cups mixed fresh fruit

Mix Bisquick and sugar. Cut in margarine until crumbly. Press into ungreased 9x13 inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees until light brown, about 15 minutes. Cool.

Mix cream cheese, 1 cup sugar and vanilla. Set aside.

Beat whipping cream stiff. Fold whipped cream and marshmallows into cheese mixture. Spread over cooled crust. Refrigerate 8 hours and then top with fresh fruit just before serving.

This recipe is from First Lutheran's Circle No. 1 Ladies Aid 1934 cookbook. Bet it is good too - just the thing to top off a summer meal:

RHUBARB PUNCH

Teckla Lundin

3 cups rhubarb
3 cups water
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 cup orange juice
3 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups ice water.

Cut rhubarb into small pieces and cook soft in the 3 cups of water. Rub through a fine strainer and add sugar, stirring just to dissolve. Chill.

Add fruit juices and ice water. Recipe makes 6 glasses.

Thank You

Thank you to everyone who sent cards, food, memorials, flowers and prayers throughout Raymond's ongoing illness and death. It was greatly appreciated.

EDITORIAL OPINIONS

Why buying local is important

I can't count the number of times people have commented in the past few weeks about the number of empty store fronts in our downtown areas - not just Thief River Falls, but other small towns, too. I wonder if perhaps the high price of gas and retail prices have finally caused area residents to consider shopping at home, and in doing so discovered that their downtowns were nearly deserted. Coincidentally, I received a newsletter from the Center for Rural Affairs in Lyons, Neb., this week. One of the stories in the newsletter was entitled, "Why Buying Local Makes Sense."

Buying local has always made sense because we spend less in money and time obtaining those goods, and receive better overall service. Additionally, buying local supports our local economies and keeps people employed.

The Center For Rural Affairs points out that we have become "accustomed to paying less for items brought from great distances than what we would pay for goods produced or manufactured locally. This is no longer the case. Large retailers and even online Web distributors can no longer absorb the transportation and shipping costs, and are passing those costs on to the consumer or even the producer."

Our pioneers depended on creativity and skill to survive in northwest Minnesota. Their pioneering spirit was fed on a diet of creativity and ingenuity. If they couldn't find it nearby or afford it, they made it, grew it or did without. In today's economy, this may be a more sustainable approach for rural communities.

In the days, and unfortunately probably years to come, higher fuel costs will have a significant impact on our lives. It's time to start putting some of our pioneering spirit, ingenuity and creativity to use. It's time to start shopping at home again.

One of the better bargains is locally produced food. In fact, dinner clubs promoting sustainable, locally produced food and commodities, are springing up all over the country. Let's take advantage of what is being produced in northwestern Minnesota. Let's start spreading our money to our neighbors rather than to far flung producers. This may be the first step in filling empty downtown business store fronts in our communities.

"Cattle Education"

I've always liked cows. Even when I was young I liked the cattle on our farm. Growing up on a dairy gave me an appreciation for cattle that led to my own small beef herd; cows and I have taught each other quite a few things, which I'd like to share this week.

It's nice to be among cattle that are calm and quiet. The truth is that most cattle are calm and quiet until you add in human intervention. Feeding cattle in the winter is pleasant because the cattle let you get pretty close and some even become pets. Cattle don't understand my words, but my words shape my emotions, which they seem to sense. I sometimes tell our cattle about my day or how nice they look as a way to maintain a voice that inspires a nice, calm herd. I've found that I can walk right next to a skittish steer by looking away from him, and that I can make that same steer move by staring at him, or raising my arms above my head. Cattle appreciate a little subtlety - maybe even more than people.

People who chase cattle would have more luck pushing Jell-O up a hill. Chasing cattle is the last club out of my bag and an indication that I haven't planned how to handle them well enough. I remember the first year at our farm; how bad I felt when my brother and my dad came to help me move cattle. I had made a corral out of bales and old gates, and the results were as bad as you might imagine. I swore I would do better and over time have taken steps to back up those words. Cattle react pretty much the same in any situation; you just have to tailor how you handle them to these reactions.

Farmers and cattle are a good match because they understand and need each other. I like watching a farmer who loves his cattle, as much as I dislike watching someone for whom cattle are mere yard decorations. I always think it's sad when a good cattle farmer gets so big that he has to hire lots of people. They seem to lose touch with the very reason they farm - the cattle. Instead, they have to manage people whose reactions often make no sense and are much less predictable than the cows. A cattle person should be on the ground with his or her cattle so they can decide what their cattle may require. A cattle farmer may occasionally need to sit at a desk, but that should be reserved for times when they are meeting their accountant in the morning, and are several months behind in bookwork. At least that's how I do it.

You can tell much about a person by how they act around an animal, even a cow. Go watch young people show their cattle at the fair and how cattle respond to positive attention from their handler; a little affection goes a long way - a good lesson learned.

Jury convicts Fosston man of 16 counts of child pornography

On July 3, a Polk County jury convicted a Fosston man of 16 counts of possession of child pornography and four counts of illegal transportation of a firearm in a motor vehicle.

The jury deliberated for about two hours before convicting Dean Melvin Johnson, 42. Sentencing is scheduled Aug. 18 in Polk County District Court, according to the Polk County Attorney's Office. Each of the 16 counts of possession of child pornography carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison, a $10,000 fine, or both. Each of the other charges carries a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail, a $1,000 fine or both. Johnson is being held in the Northwest Regional Corrections Center pending sentencing.

The charges stemmed from an April 7 report to the Polk County Sheriff's Office. Johnson's wife, Lindsey, reported that she had learned Johnson's password, "keep out," for his file "my pictures" in January. On the night of April 4, she used the password to enter the file, according to the amended criminal complaint. In the file, she saw many photographs of naked children, who she believed were about 10 years of age. She indicated that Johnson had indicated he wants to have sex with a young girl, specifically one as young as 12 years old. She used a video camera to tape some of the photographs in the file. She gave the videotape to the sheriff's office. She also gave her computer to the sheriff's office and allowed deputies to look at the files.

She also indicated that Johnson owns many firearms, including a handgun. She indicated she is afraid that Johnson will come after her.

On April 7, a sheriff's deputy spoke with Johnson. After he was asked if he had any weapons either on him or in his vehicle, Johnson said he had a handgun in a case under a seat in his vehicle. Another sheriff's deputy found the .357 caliber Taurus revolver, loaded, in a case, under the seat of the vehicle. The deputy seized the handgun.

The amended complaint indicated that Johnson told law enforcement that he looks at sexual photographs of naked teenage people on the computer. However, he said one never really knows the age of the people in the photographs. He saves such photographs on the computer. He indicated that his wife knows the password for his files on the computer. When a deputy asked him if he had any photographs on the computer of people younger than 18, Johnson said that the deputy was starting to bother him with the line of questioning, that he was free to leave at any time, and he ended the conversation.

On April 9, another sheriff's deputy went to Fosston to locate Johnson. He saw Johnson driving a vehicle and followed Johnson to a mini-storage business in McIntosh. Johnson agreed to be interviewed at the McIntosh Police Department.

Johnson was read his Miranda rights and recorded a statement with the deputy. Johnson said he has a file labeled "Jimmy Dean" on the couple's computer. The file has a password. He said his wife had assigned the password, according to the amended criminal complaint. Johnson said his wife and another person, who both of them know, knew the password and may have downloaded photographs into it. He admitted that he has downloaded into the file some photographs of girls who appear to be under the age of 18 and who are performing sexual acts. He indicated he doesn't know any of the girls in the photographs, so he can't say exactly how old they are. He refused to look at any of the photographs to identify which ones he downloaded and to estimate how old the girls were in the photographs.

Johnson indicated he used to have a notebook of names and telephone numbers of other people who were into this activity. He claimed to have downloaded the photographs and kept the notebook to assist law enforcement in their investigation of pornography cases, according to the amended criminal complaint. He indicated a friend told him to get rid of the notebook, so he took it to an incinerator. He also said he asked his wife to "scrub" the computer of the downloaded photographs, but she hadn't gotten a chance to do so yet. He indicated he felt that people who are into child pornography should be dealt with severely.

Johnson was arrested and transported to the Northwest Regional Corrections Center in Crookston. Johnson's vehicle was impounded by deputies. A sheriff's deputy conducted an inventory search of the vehicle. Inside the vehicle, he found a 12-gauge Mossberg shotgun, a 30-30 caliber Winchester rifle, and a .22 caliber KSA rifle. None of the firearms were in cases. He also found a .300 Weatherby caliber Vanguard rifle, a 20 gauge New England Firearms shotgun and a .410 gauge Rossie shotgun. All of the firearms were in cases. He seized all of the firearms.

On April 10, a deputy viewed the videotape that Johnson's wife had given to the sheriff's office. It showed many photographs of people who were naked and/or in various stages of undress. Most of them were young females, and some were obviously minors, depicting actual or simulated sexual conduct.

On April 29, a deputy applied for a search warrant to search the Johnsons' computer for pornography. Judge Jeffrey Remick issued the search warrant.

Count delayed for western prairie fringed orchids

This year's slow summer season has delayed the flowering of western prairie fringed orchids, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, and has pushed back the annual orchid count.

The orchids would normally begin their show in northwestern Minnesota prairies just after the Fourth of July. However, this year, prairie enthusiasts shouldn't expect to see the knee-high white spikes of flowers until sometime in mid-July.

Because of the late season, the annual DNR orchid counts in Polk, Pennington and Kittson counties are being delayed until July 12 through 15. People interested in volunteering to help DNR crews with the counts should call (651) 259-5136. They should leave their name, the dates they are available, e-mail address and phone number at which they can be reached in the evening near the dates of monitoring.

New name is selected for MCCC

Minnesota Community College Conference has changed its name to the Minnesota College Athletic Conference. The new name took effect July 10, it was an announced by Justin Heckenlaible, the conference coordinator.

Recent addition of technical and tribal colleges was a driving force behind the name change. "We thought it was time for the conference name to reflect the change in membership and growth we have experienced in recent years", stated Heckenlaible.

The Minnesota Community College Conference was first established in the fall of 1967, although many two-year colleges throughout the state were competing in intercollegiate athletics prior to that time.

The MCAC offers competition in baseball, men's and women's basketball, football, men's and women's golf, softball, volleyball and wrestling.

Legion baseball...

Bandits beat Buzz behind pitching trio

June was a busy month for Thief River Falls baseball. An appearance in the Minnesota State High School League Class AA state tournament was immediately followed by 17 American Legion games in 17 days.

But a Fourth of July weekend break and a Monday rain-out of a scheduled doubleheder at Bemidji created some concern for Post 117 coach Courtney Skjerven.

Worried that his pitchers might be 'rusty' heading into the Bandits' appearance at the July 11-13 Duluth Lakeview Invitational, Skjerven elected to go with a pitching-by-committee approach in the first game of a Wednesday doubleheader against Ninth District Division I rival Perham at the Multi-Events Center.

Judging by their performances, the Bandits should be ready for their first appearance in the large Duluth event that annually draws from 24 to 32 teams. Spencer Johnson, Nick Gagner and Jordan Anderson combined on a four-hit pitching performance in a 6-1 win over the Buzz.

Johnson started and recorded five strike-outs in two innings of work. Gagner gave up the run and the hits during a four-inning stint, but got the win. Anderson worked the seventh to finish it.

Johnson and Sam Mattison had two hits each to lead Thief River Falls' eight-hit offense.

Mattison started things by drawing a one-out walk in the first inning. He stole second and scored on a single to right by Nick Gagner.

Perham tied it in the top of the third when No. 9 hitter Cody Soderstrom came through with a lead-off single to left, stole second and scored when designated hitter Herschel Masinas bounced a two-out single over the third base bag.

Thief River Falls answered with a pair of unearned runs in the bottom of the inning. With two out, Gagner reached base on an error, Myles Keefe drew a walk and Joey Dondelinger dropped a fly ball single between three players in short center field. Gagner scored on the hit and Keefe crossed the plate on a throw back to second trying to keep Dondelinger from gaining an extra base.

A slide by Thief River Falls runner Derek Lunde kept Perham second baseman Ben Omberg from making a clean double play pivot during the first game of a Wednesday American Legion baseball doubleheader hosted by the Bandits. Next home action for Post 117 will be a 3:30 p.m. Friday, July 18, twinbill vs. Fergus Falls.

L&M SALE $3.79

Guide tip of the week
Make sure you change your monofilament line if you haven't since spring. With the additional heat of the summer, the weather can take its toll on monofilament and weaken it. You can replace it for only a few dollars and be set to go.

First of three pitchers used by Thief River Falls coach Courtney Skjerven in the first game of Wednesday's American Legion baseball doubleheader against Perham, Spencer Johnson struck out five batters in two innings of work as the Bandits beat the Buzz 6-1. The win went to Nick Gagner, who pitched the middle four innings. Jordan Anderson then worked the seventh in the pitching-by-committee method employed by Skjerven.

The Bandits' game-clinching final at-bat started with a one-out walk issued to No. 9 hitter Derek Lunde. He was replaced on the bases by Jordan Espeseth via a fielder's choice that was out No. 2. Mattison then lined a single to right, taking second on a throw to third in attempt to get Espeseth. Johnson bounced a two-run single through the left side of the infield and Sean Sarteberg doubled to deep left for a 6-1 difference.

Teens gather to buck the tobacco industry out of bullride

This weekend, more than 25 Minnesota teens will gather at the Pennington County Fair to speak out against tobacco industry advertising and sponsorship at bull rides, rodeos and county fairs. Teens from across the state will meet up with teens from Thief River Falls to staff a booth at the county fair, educating spectators about tobacco use and tobacco industry marketing tactics. They were on-site Friday evening, and will be on-site Saturday (today).

The display will include an opportunity for fairgoers to screen-print posters with a custom rodeo design and to sign a petition and postcards urging the Professional Bull Riders Inc. to drop tobacco sponsorship. Teens across the state are tired of being targets of the tobacco industry, and they think it is inappropriate for a company like U.S. Smokeless Tobacco Co. to advertise its products at a county fair and bullride that are heavily promoted as family-friendly and youth-friendly events.

This public education effort is organized by Catalyst – a group of teen leaders dedicated to making their voices heard on public health issues. In addition to calling attention to the number of lives lost to tobacco, Catalyst youth advocates hope their display will send a powerful message to the public and the tobacco industry: Minnesota's teens refuse to be targets of the tobacco industry, and they will not be a captive audience at county fairs and rodeos across the state and the country.

"I think the tobacco industry should not advertise at county fairs because teens need to keep their lungs clean," said Brittany Scott, an incoming senior at Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls.

Catalyst youth board member Nikki Bunnell, an incoming senior at Apollo High School in St. Cloud, said, "To see tobacco advertising at a rodeo is just another example of how the tobacco industry is targeting kids and teens in our country. I think it's absolutely ridiculous that the tobacco industry would sink so low as to sponsor a family-friendly event such as a rodeo, and then continue to deny targeting children."

Youth board member Alyssa Carlson, an incoming senior at Fridley High School, agreed, "Rodeos and county fairs are a popular place for family gatherings, and it's really too bad that even at a place where families go to have fun, tobacco is still pushing their slogans into younger and younger minds. My grandmother passed away six years ago due to lung cancer from smoking most of her life. My goal is to steer people in a direction that will keep them alive and kickin' and tobacco-free."

"Our focus is to empower youth to make a positive difference in their communities," said Andy Berndt, project director of Catalyst. "Today, they developed a creative way to show the public how the tobacco industry continues to target teens and kids – and to remind people why it is important for the citizens of Minnesota to speak up against this. We want to help educate teens across the state about the tobacco industry and encourage them to get involved with Catalyst and become advocates for making their communities healthy."

Tobacco use is the leading preventable cause of death in the United States and in Minnesota, killing more than 400,000 people every year across the country, including more than 5,890 in Minnesota. Each year, the tobacco industry spends $237.9 million in marketing and promotions in Minnesota alone. Catalyst youth advocates are tired of being targeted as replacement smokers, and they are ready to take action.

Catalyst is Minnesota's movement of teen leaders from across the state who are passionate about public health issues (like tobacco use) that adversely affect their peers and the communities they live in. For more information, contact Holly Aprea at (202) 270-7311 or holly@bethecatalyst.org, or visit Catalyst's Web site (www.bethecatalyst.org).

Students celebrate teacher's lessons

Goodridge class of 1958 honors former music teacher Roland Samber

article about his experience in Goodridge for a Pennington County history book. "I will never forget the faces of little ones who had never seen a black man in person before." He also remembered the looks of deer hunters when he came out of the woods. "Incidentally, I didn't bag a deer that first season, but I did get lost."

Samber taught music in grades kindergarten through grade 12 for five years. Fully accepted as an educator and a person, he said he never hesitated to do his utmost to meet the needs and demands of the students, parents, community and school system.

The children, he said, were so excited. "They would come running into class," which was located across the street from the main building.

In Goodridge, Samber taught everything - basic music fundamentals, classroom singing, instruments, and counting time in music.

"I'll never forget the look on their faces when I had the instruments set out in the room and told them to pick out an instrument," said Samber, shaking his head and laughing.

Pederson said she still remembers that day she picked out her cornet. She added that she also remembers having to practice in the milking barn.

It was a busy time in Samber's life, and he understands now that it was a fulfilling one for him and his students.

The goodwill wasn't limited to the school. Samber said he was busy most of the time. The only time he got to relax was at the end of the day when he and other friends and educators could gather at Asta's Cafe. "That's where I learned how to play pinochle."

He also picked up another lifelong passion there. Samber said, "Rev. Bjorgon convinced me to start playing at a small, rural church near Goodridge. That has stuck with me my entire life."

While in Goodridge, Samber stayed with the Ellingson family. Lana (Ellingson) Sandahl, a child at the time, said she remembers those years fondly, and was so glad to see that so many others did too.

Five years passed in Goodridge, and Samber moved on. He worked one year in the public school system in Milwaukee, Wis., then became a postal clerk in New York City. After working at the post office, he taught at Southern University in Baton Rouge, La. In 1965, he taught at Albany State University in Albany until his retirement in 1988. During that span of time, he obtained his second master's degree, this one in piano performance at the University of Georgia in Athens, Ga. He now lives in Albany, Ga.

Samber was born in Key West, Fla., to West Indian parents (Jamaica and Barbados). His father was a custom tailer, the first black businessman in that community. The family later moved to New York City.

Samber said when he was about nine his father encouraged him to play the violin. "I didn't like it that much," he said. But when he heard his buddy play a piano, that's when he decided that was for him.

During his days in Goodridge, whenever he sat down at the piano, the children's favorite request was "The Chicken Reel." As Samber sat down and began to play the slightly out-of-tune blond, upright piano at the American Legion on Monday, he began to play "The Chicken Reel" ... first with one hand and then adding a second. And as if being called, his former students and friends came into the dinning room to listen, to remember, to appreciate the patience, skill and love of Mr. Sam.

Former students interested in writing Samber can do so by writing to: Roland Samber, 1932 South Riverview Circle, Albany, Georgia, 31705-1117.

LHS grad becomes chief of staff at VA medical center

Following her graduation from Lincoln High School in 1973, Markstrom decided to attend Bemidji State University. She began a medical career path and graduated from BSU in 1977, with a bachelor of science degree in medical technology.

She spent more than four years working as a medical technologist in Duluth and St. Cloud, but she eventually became bored with her career of choice. Recalling the conversation she had with Brown led Markstrom to reconsider attending medical school.

"At the time it wasn't something that women did," Markstrom said. "It took me several years to get up the courage to try and get in."

Markstrom was accepted and graduated from the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities Medical School in 1986 and she completed her residency three years later at Abbott Northwestern Hospital in Minneapolis, where she specialized in internal medicine.

Markstrom continued to work in internal medicine, when she took a job at a private practice in Alexandria. Two years later she accepted a job with the St. Cloud Veterans Affairs Medical Center as a staff physician.

She assumed the chief of staff role after spending the previous 17 years working at the St. Cloud VA Medical Center, where she served as the director of Primary Care and Specialty Care Service from August 1997 to February 2008; chief of medicine from February 1995 to August 1997; and staff internist from July 1991 to February 1995.

As chief of staff, Markstrom is the St. Cloud VA's administrator, manager and clinical leader. She provides oversight for all clinical services at the St. Cloud VA Medical Center and community-based outpatient clinics in Brainerd and Montevideo.

"My number one goal is to provide the best care we can to our veterans," Markstrom said.

Markstrom currently resides in Alexandria with her husband and fellow LHS class of 1973 alumnus, Jon. They are the parents of Laura, 22, and Luke, 19.

science. Initial funding of $3 million was approved during the 2007 legislative session and an additional $500,000 was made available through a grant from the National Governors Association.

"The power of this partnership model is exciting," said Mary Klamm, education specialist for the Northwest Service Cooperative in Thief River Falls. "The collaboration among our partners gives us a better product, more comprehensive training and the ability to provide ongoing support and technical assistance to the teachers who attend the Teacher Center."

The Roseau County Relay For Life will celebrate its cancer survivors with special events, said Barb Erickson, Survivor Committee Chair.

On Monday, July 28, the local Cancer Support group will host a community picnic for cancer survivors and caregivers. The picnic will be at the Life Care Hospital Auxiliary room from 5 to 6:30 p.m. Signs will be posted!

This should be a fun time with activities, entertainment and door prizes said Co-Coordinators Barb Erickson and Jan Carr. Also on the committee are Julie Pahlen and Patty Champagne. Food will be provided by the American Cancer Society. For more information on the picnic, contact Barb Erickson at 463-4703.

At the Relay For Life, luminaries will line the walking path at the Roseau City Park. Each luminary honors a cancer survivor or remembers a person who has died from cancer.

The Relay For Life is a family-oriented event where participants enjoy the camaraderie of a team and also raise funds to support the activities of the American Cancer Society. When team members are not taking their turn walking, they take part in fun activities and enjoy local entertainment.

Teams from families, companies, churches, organizations, hospitals, and schools collect donations throughout the year. Donations made to the Roseau County Relay For Life go to three main areas: 1. Research; 2. Patient services in Roseau County; and 3. Education in Roseau County. Two-thirds of the donations stay in Roseau County and are used in many ways: gas cards, volunteer drivers, equipment, wigs, Reach to Recovery, cancer support groups and educational materials just to mention a few.

The 2008 Roseau County Relay For Life theme is "Celebrate. Remember. & Fight Back."

Bethlehem-Nazareth Parish to host yard tour

The parishioners of Bethlehem and Nazareth Lutheran churches will host yard tours benefitting area food shelves on Sunday, July 20. Interested participants should bring canned goods or a cash donation as an Admission Fee.

From noon to 1 p.m., a freewill offering meal of BBQ's and bars will be served by youth going to New Orleans National Youth Gathering in 2009.

From 1 to 4 p.m., yard tours will begin at any of the homes listed on the tour. Participants starting in Holt, should have lunch first and there will be at least one van at Nazareth ready to take a group of people on the garden tour. Yards to visit include: Pastor Nancy Hanson, Ron and Sharon Davidson, Audrey Swenson and Kenny Garthus, Cliff and Marj Steinhauer, Rueben and Dolores Benitt, Myron and Sharron Olberg, Dean and Mary Anderson, Jon and Jane Hirst, Greg and Jodi Graham, and Jeff and Melanie Sorenson.

Anyone who can drive a car or van for a group should call Hanson at 218-449-3841.

Marshall County to continue with legal case against dairy

Warren - "On Tuesday, Marshall County Attorney Michael Williams received authorization from the Marshall County Board of Health to proceed with a criminal proceeding against Excel Dairy regarding an alleged public health nuisance created by hydrogen sulfide coming from the dairy's waste treatment lagoons.

"Authorization to proceed with the criminal case came during the regular meeting of the Marshall County Board of Commissioners as commissioners sat as the County Health Board."

"On June 17, the County Health Board authorized Williams to begin legal action against Excel Dairy to require the dairy to remove or abate a public health nuisance caused by the dairy's emissions of hydrogen sulfide.

"On Tuesday, Williams told the County Health Board that, while the legal procedures for the state case and the county's proceeding against Excel Dairy are similar, the underlying theory is quite different. In the state case, the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency contends in court that Excel Dairy is violating the terms of a feedlot permit issued by MPCA. Williams said the county's case is quite different in that a threat to human health is being alleged by the County Public Health Board." - Warren Sheaf, July 16, 2008

McIntosh mayor resigns office

McIntosh - "Virgil Lerfald announced that he is resigning as mayor of McIntosh at the July 10 meeting of the McIntosh City Council."

"Lerfald is expanding his business, Farmcheck, and will obtain an economic development loan for the construction of an addition. In order to qualify for the city-administered loan program, he cannot hold any position with the city."

Lerfald's term was up this year. Vice Mayor Bruce Haaven will serve as the interim mayor until the winner of the November election is sworn in. - McIntosh Times, July 16, 2008

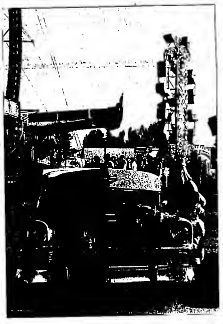
Let's Play Ball

Members of the Thief River Falls Youth Baseball Association nine-year-olds team stood at attention as the Color Guard from VFW Post 2793 marched onto the diamond for the playing of the national anthem during Tuesday dedication ceremonies at the new Little Twins Field. The facility, built in part through a grant from the Minnesota Twins Community Fund Field for Kids program, is located on Spruce Avenue, adjacent to Franklin Middle School.

What's great in 2008? Fair time

Results from the 2008 Pennington County Fair will appear in the next edition of the Thief River Falls Times.

Oh, oh! This young cowboy isn't sure of his new mount. He was one of many young participants in the Friday, July 11, mutton busting event that took place during the Thunder on Hooves bullride in Thief River Falls. Helping the young rider is, from left, John Praske, Jeff Olson and Carl Clerk.



Although it is from a bygone era, this handsomely maintained car seemed to fit right in at the 2008 Pennington County Fair. Thursday, July 10, the Street Wizards Car Club and Prairie Schooners conducted a car club ride through Thief River Falls before parking at the fairgrounds in Thief River Falls.

Texas company says it can end odor problems at Excel Dairy

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Advanced Aeration Inc. (AAI) has accomplished what some would consider to be minor miracles in the dairy industry. Now the Houston, Texas-based company hopes that the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency, Prairie Ridge Management and residents living near Excel Dairy will be willing to give AAI a chance to prove that its technology works.

Thomas P. Hickey, national sales manager for AAI, says his company's system succeeds where other manure management systems fail because of a unique form of aeration that utilizes Vacuum Bubble Technology.

Hickey said traditional aeration works by forcing air into a lagoon. More oxygen in the water means healthier bacteria, which means quicker metabolism of solid organic waste. He said traditional aeration systems fall short because forced air creates air bubbles with air pressure that is much higher than the pressure of the surrounding water. Forced air systems also tend to produce larger air bubbles, which are bad because they rise to the water surface much faster than smaller bubbles.

AAI's system uses air bubbles that are created through the use of Vacuum Bubble Technology. The bubbles are very small - about a quarter of a millimeter in size - and are much lower in air pressure than those created through forced air. As a result, they stay in the water much longer and add more oxygen to the water than traditional aeration systems.

Hickey said AAI's Vacuum Bubble Technology has already solved odor problems at large dairy operations. One of the best examples of AAI's capabilities, came at a California dairy with 3,700 cows. At the time, the dairy was using the more tried and true method of allowing a crust to form over manure management lagoons.

Hickey said the lagoons needed to be excavated at least once a year and often twice a year. Each excavation meant disturbing the lagoon's crust and releasing high levels of hydrogen sulfide, the byproduct of an anaerobic manure management system.

Hickey said AAI installed its system at the California dairy. When installation began, the dairy had 15 feet of solid manure and very little water in its lagoon system. Water was added to the lagoon system and over the course of four months, the manure sludge was reduced to a depth of three feet.

"That was a pretty intense treatment; we probably had 10 units in one lagoon," Hickey said. "Since then, we've had only five units in that same lagoon."

Hickey said the dairy has not needed to excavate since the aerators were installed three years ago. That has been common with AAI. Hickey said with most applications, hydrogen sulfide levels are reduced by 90 percent within two weeks of installation.

That was the case during a 10-day air quality study conducted by Iowa State University. During the study, hydrogen sulfide levels were reduced from high readings of 22.3

Family fun at Marshall Co. Fair

A Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association rodeo, believed to be the first in the Marshall County Fair's 100-year history, will be conducted during the fair. But there will be many traditional events, too, during the fair's run from Wednesday-Sunday, July 30-Aug. 3.

One of the nicest traditions at Marshall County's free-gate fair in Warren is the variety of free entertainment that has graced the Vonasek Stage and other locations on the fairgrounds the past several years. This year will be no exception.

Wednesday evening, following the fair parade, brings pianist Mike Olson. A magician performs three free shows on Thursday and two more on Friday, all on the Vonasek Stage. Thursday, Kids Day, also brings two performances of "Kids and Nature" activities. Friday, a big day for free entertainment at the fair, includes two performances by Paul Tandberg and Bruce Elseth, two concerts by Pembina Trail, and two shows by the Cathy Erickson Band. That is all on top of the gigantic free fireworks display in front of the grandstand at dusk on Friday (about 10:30 p.m.), plus many other free attractions elsewhere on the fairgrounds.

Hewitt among top five at Nashville

by Scott DCamp
Reporter

Ashlee Hewitt will be coming home next week – but that doesn't mean she's been eliminated from Nashville Star.

Ashlee, a Lancaster native, is one of five Nashville Star finalists. The finalists who remain, following Monday's edition of Nashville Star, will be permitted to leave Nashville to perform a concert in their hometown.

For Ashlee, a return to Lancaster will also serve a second purpose, as she performs at a benefit event for for her friend and former employer Tracey Brewer, who is in need of a liver transplant. Ashlee, and many of her siblings, have worked for Brewer and his business, the End of the Line Drive Inn.

Kelli Hewitt, Ashlee's mother, said the benefit for Brewer and the homecoming for her daughter will be held from 4 to 8 p.m. on

The following are recipes from "Recipes Remembered," a 1991 cookbook from the Stewartville (MN) United Methodist Church.

When they say "easy as pie," they must mean these pies. You can't get much easier than these. I bet you can mix and match the fillings and toppings any other way you desire too:

MUD PIE

Becky Kidd

2 chocolate pie shells (ready made)
1/2 gallon butter pecan ice cream
Light brown chocolate fudge topping
5 crushed toffee candy bars or 1 cup toffee bits

Stir crushed candy bars into softened ice cream, reserving some for topping. Pour into crusts. Spread chocolate topping over each pie and sprinkle with reserved toffee bits. Freeze firm. Let stand a few minutes before serving.

Wouldn't this be a nice dessert to serve this weekend - cool and smooth with tasty bananas inside - like banana pie only square. Use some fat free or low fat topping, cream cheese and pudding for a low-fat treat:

ROSANNA BANANA DESSERT

Marj Kolbert

1/2 cup butter, melted
1 cup flour
1 cup powdered sugar
1 (16 ounce) carton whipped topping
1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese, softened
2 packages instant vanilla pudding
3 cups milk
5-6 bananas, sliced

Mix butter and flour. Press in cake pan and bake at 340 degrees for 10 minutes. Cool.

Blend one-half of the whipped topping with powdered sugar and cream cheese until smooth. Spread with wet spatula over crust. Slice the bananas over top.

Beat instant pudding and milk and pour over banana layer. Spread with remaining whipped topping. Refrigerate.

MARBLE SQUARES

Cindy Bushman

1 (8 ounce) package cream cheese
1/3 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup margarine or butter
1 1/2 (1 ounce) squares of unsweetened chocolate
3/4 cup water
2 cups flour
2 cups sugar
2 eggs
1/2 cup (4 ounces) sour cream
1 cup chocolate chips
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt

Combine softened cream cheese and sugar, mixing well. Add egg and set aside.

Combine margarine, water and chocolate squares in saucepan. Bring to a boil, remove from heat and stir in combination of flour and sugar. Add eggs, sour cream, soda and salt. Mix well.

Pour chocolate mixture into greased and floured jellyroll pan. Spoon cream cheese mixture over chocolate batter. Cut through to marble. Sprinkle with chocolate chips.

Bake at 375 degrees for 25-30 minutes.

Everyone will think you slaved over this decadent dessert - but it's a breeze to make - and it serves a bunch, depending on how you cut it:

CHOCOLATE CARAMEL DESSERT

Ferrolyn Hildebrandt

1 box Devils Food cake mix
32 caramels
1 (14 ounce) can sweetened condensed milk
1 (12 ounce) container whipped topping
1 small box vanilla instant pudding mix

Mix cake as directed. Pour half of batter in greased 9x13 inch pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes.

Melt caramels and milk together (Ferrolyn says this scorches easily - I might try to use my micro for this step -SL). Pour over baked layer of cake.

Top with remaining cake batter and bake again 20-25 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool.

Mix whipped topping and pudding and place on completely cooled cake. Refrigerate.

NCTC considers additional LPN program in Roseau

Northland Community and Technical College's satellite site in Roseau is currently considering the possibility of a second cohort group of students in its Practical Nursing (PN) program. Approximately 15 students are needed to go forward with the program.

The first group of practical nursing students is halfway through the program at the Roseau site and there has been enough recent interest generated for the college to explore the start of a second group of practical nursing classes in the fall of 2009.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for people in the area considering getting their practical nursing diploma," said Nicole Hagen, academic advisor at the Roseau site. "The next closest campus offering this program is in Thief River Falls. This is a great way to save time and gas money with the classes offered in Roseau, via ITV (interactive television), and online so students do not have to drive to Thief River Falls."

Nursing is a growing field with multiple career opportunities. Practical Nursing is designed to provide the knowledge and skills necessary for students to enter the world of nursing. Licensed Practical Nurses (LPN) may provide for persons of all ages in a variety of settings including hospitals, clinics, nursing homes, home care, hospice, camp nursing and occupational nursing. As a graduate of the Practical Nursing program, students are eligible to apply to take the national Council Licensure Exam for the Practical Nurse.

Those interested in starting the program should contact Nicole Hagen at the Northland College site in Roseau by calling 218-463-1606, or Dorinda Sorvig, practical nursing department coordinator at 800-959-6282 ext. 1865.

Prospective students will need to apply to Northland College and schedule a time to take the Accuplacer assessment test to determine what developmental classes they need to complete, if any, before they can enroll in the PN classes that start in the fall of 2009. Prospective students are encouraged to apply and take the test as soon as possible. They will also need their Nursing Assistant (NA) Certificate and/or evidence of NA Course within the last five years.

Evidence of NA completion must be provided before enrollment. You can contact Jo Christian at LifeCare Medical Center in Roseau at 218-463-4728 to sign up for the NA course. The next course is anticipated to start in October 2008.

Two classes are being offered via ITV at the Roseau site beginning August 25, 2008. They are English Composition 1 from 6 to 9 p.m. on Tuesdays and Developmental Psychology from 6 to 9 p.m. on Mondays. Both of these classes are part of the PN Diploma program and are also available online for those who need a more flexible schedule. These classes are also required as part of several other programs at Northland College.

Northland Community and Technical College is a comprehensive college with campuses in East Grand Forks and Thief River Falls. The Roseau satellite site is located on the second floor of the Roseau City Center.

Cancer Ride and Benefit to support Filling the Gap

On Saturday, Aug. 9, join ranch owners Mardy and Ronette Anderson at M & R Triple T Ranch, near Strathcona, for the Cancer Ride and Benefit supporting Altru Cancer Center's Filling the Gap program.

"It will be a very busy day," said Mordy Anderson. "We have activities kids will love – minnow races, a bucking barrel, wagon rides, piñatas, SnoCones and a contest for the best dressed cowboy and cowgirl. It's a different way to spend your Saturday for a very good cause."

The day begins with a trail ride lined with luminaries at 1 p.m. For those who don't ride, contests, a silent auction and other activities are being organized. There will also be a barbecue supper with all the fixings. A dance concludes the festivities. Mardy Anderson predicts some people will camp out.

Last year, the Andersons raised nearly $4,100 for Altru's Diabetes Center and Camp Sioux. This year, the Andersons invited their friends at the North Country Horsemen Saddle Club to pull off their first benefit ride. Proceeds will support Altru Cancer Center's Filling the Gap program.

"We have a committee member who lost her sister to cancer. She shared with us the huge financial burden her sister and family faced while going through treatment," said Mardy Anderson. "When we learned how Filling the Gap helps ease that burden, it was an easy decision."

The Andersons, saddle club and volunteer committee are scouting sponsors and participonts. More sponsors and participants are needed to help make this a successful event. "We've seen 200 people at our ranch at past benefits," said Mardy Anderson. "We'd love to see 300 come out. Whether you love to ride or not, it will be a fun day."

For more information or to get involved with the Cancer Ride and Benefit, call Mardy Anderson at (218) 781-3162 or e-mail mardy@wiktel.com.

ACLU files brief in support of James Stengrim

On July 14, the ACLU-MN announced that it had filed an Amicus Curiae brief on behalf of James Stengrim. Stengrim was sued by the Middle-Snake-Tamarac Rivers Watershed District, a state government entity, for expressing an opinion critical of the District's flood control plans. Stengrim and other land owners opposing the flood control project filed suit against the District in 2002. At that time a settlement agreement was reached and one provision of it forbade the land owners from challenging the project again.

In its brief, the ACLU argues that Stengrim has not filed a legal challenge since, but remains an outspoken critic of the District's plans. Further, he has filed several requests for District documents related to the project. The ACLU believes the District is now attempting to silence Stengrim by suing him for breach of the settlement agreement, arguing that his outspoken criticism and data requests constitute a new challenge to the project.

The ACLU states that "under both the United States Constitution and Minnesota state law, Stengrim and all citizens have a right to freely express their opinions without fear of punishment or reprisal. The District acts in contravention of that right, seeking to intimidate its critics through lawsuits. Under Minnesota law, Stengrim may seek the dismissal of any civil suit that seeks to silence lawful speech or action aimed at government action, but the lower courts have refused to apply that law."

The Minnesota Supreme Court has now agreed to hear the case and the ACLU-MN is urging them to protect the First Amendment. Citizens' inalienable rights to free speech may never be signed away by contract or quashed by lawsuit. The ACLU brief states that Stengrim has upheld his end of the settlement agreement, but the District seeks to ignore the laws and silence its opponents. The ACLU stated that it opposes such unconstitutional tactics and will always work to defend all people's rights to speak freely without fear of punishment.

FSA county committee nomination deadline nears

John Nelson, county executive director of the Pennington County Farm Service Agency (FSA) Office, reminds producers that they have until Aug. 1, 2008, to nominate eligible candidates to serve on the local FSA County Committee.

"FSA County Committees are important because they assist local farmers," said Nelson. "They help deliver Federal programs, which is an important aspect of our service to agriculture. I encourage all producers to get involved by nominating eligible candidates to serve on the FSA county committee."

FSA county committees assist local producers through their decisions on commodity price support loans, conservation programs, disaster programs, and by working closely with FSA county executive directors.

To hold office as a FSA county committee member, a person must participate or cooperate in a program administered by FSA, be eligible to vote in a FSA county committee election in the Local Administrative Area in which the person is a candidate. A complete list of eligibility requirements and additional information is posted online at www.fsa.usda.gov; click on News & Events, and the "FSA Counts on You" Spotlight.

The 2008 FSA County Committee election in Pennington County will be held in Local Administrative Area number 1 which includes the townships of Black River, Bray, Norden, North, Numedal, Polk Center, and Sanders.

Individuals may nominate themselves or others as candidates. Also, organizations representing minorities and women are encouraged to nominate candidates.

All nominees must sign nomination form FSA-669A, which includes a statement that the nominee agrees to serve if elected. Form FSA-669A is available at the Pennington County FSA office and online at the Web site listed above. All nomination forms for the 2008 FSA county committee election must be postmarked or received in the FSA county office by close of business on Aug. 1, 2008.

The FSA county committee nomination period began June 15. Voting takes place in the fall. Ballots will be mailed to eligible voters by Nov. 3. The final date to return voted ballots to the FSA county office is Dec. 1. Newly elected FSA county committee members take office Jan. 1, 2009.

Producers with questions concerning FSA county committee elections should contact their local FSA County Office or the Pennington County FSA Office at 681-1612 ext. 2.

Florence has had it with Olive, who wasn't home in time to help with the dinner that they were supposed to prepare for their date with two sexy Spanish guys. The feeling is mutual as Olive is sick and tired of Florence's obsessive cleaning ... and cooking ... and crying. See Olive Madison (Keri Mooney, right) and Florence Unger (Lori Ann Walseth) in the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council's production of "The Odd Couple (The Female Version)." Performances are scheduled July 23 to 26 at 7 p.m. at the Northland Community and Technical College theater. Advance tickets are available at Kezar Music in Thief River Falls and will be available on a first-come, first-served basis at the NCTC Theater Box Office. (Submitted photo)

RACF receives memorials

At its July monthly meeting, the Roseau Area Community Fund (RACF) reported it has received numerous memorials since December 2007.

Donations have been received in memory of Bill and Bonnie Pitblado, Gordon Halverson, Velma DeFrates, Howard Degemess, A.J. Kramer, Hazel Halvorson, Inga Rugland, Severin Halvorson, Delores Johnson and Gary Halverson.

The RACF is building a permanent endowment to help maintain Roseau as a healthy, viable community that strives to make improvements to the quality of life for all residents living within the Roseau School District area, both city and rural. The earnings from endowed gifts will be dispersed each year. The principle will not be depleted, so funds will be available year after year.

RACF is a charitable nonprofit fund, and all donations are tax deductible. Send memorial gifts to RACF, 200 Fourth Ave. N.E., Roseau, MN 56751; or talk to any RACF Advisory Committee member: Phil Sallberg, Mary Dieter, Rusty Billberg, Don Miller, Elizabeth Kvien, Nancy Swanson, Norb Pastir, Sarah Klint or Northwest Minnesota Foundation Fund Development Specialist Caryl Turnow.

Newfest dates set

The CMC Project Future Newfest Committee has set the 2008 Newfest dates for Sept. 5,6, and 7.

The Newfest Parade will be on Saturday, Sept. 6 at 11:30 a.m. Anyone wishing to sign up for the parade can do so by calling Sharon Bring at 874-3713 or e-mailing sbring@wiktel.com. It's not too early.

Rentertainment inflatable games will return this year. The Northern Pullers Antique Tractor Pull, sponsored by the Lions Club; kiddie pedal tractor pull; petting zoo; a music tent; and much more will be offered.

A car show has been led by Monty and Heather Booren the last few years. Unfortunately, they cannot chair the event this year, but will help someone who is willing to take the lead. If anyone has an interest in taking care of the show, please call a committee member as soon as possible. Organizers would like to continue this successful event and add antique tractors. The Boorens have offered to help anyone interested.

Craig Wawrzyniak is willing to organize a softball tournament for Saturday morning. Four to six teams will be needed. Call 874-5477 or e-mail Craig Wawrzyniak at craig@wiktel.com if you would like to sign up a team.

A Newfest Consignment Auction will be back this year by popular demand. If anyone is willing to donate or consign to the auction, please contact Shari Anderson at 874-2266.

Tentative plans have been made for a Miss Newfolden Pageant or a talent show if there is enough interest. Anyone who is interested in either should let a committee member know.

Raffle tickets, which are available at local businesses and from committee members, are being sold. Prizes being given away after the parade. One of the fundraiser's goals is to have a music and speaker system in downtown Newfolden in conjunction with the city's street-light project.

Dedicated sponsors to Newfest events have been the area churches and other local nonprofits, downtown businesses and other area businesses.

The Committee welcomes new ideas for this year's Newfest and willing volunteers. Newfest committee members include Sharon Aaker, chairperson, at 874-2441; Sharon Bring, 874-3713; Shari Anderson, 874-2266; Shelly Staebler, 745-7514; and Angie Anderson, 874- 2051.

to 0.2 parts per million over the course of 10 days. The readings were taken at the edge of the lagoon, instead of the property line standard used by MPCA and other health organizations.

Currently, AAI has installed 150 treatment systems in dairies throughout the country. Hickey said AAI's technology was being introduced to Minnesota dairies when AAI leaders first heard about the hydrogen sulfide problems at Excel Dairy.

Hickey sympathizes with the landowners near Excel Dairy, but he also feels that Prairie Ridge Management was moving in the right direction when it began to implement an aeration system.

"They were acting in good faith and they took the best technology they could find," Hickey said. "Unfortunately, we had not made it into Minnesota by then."

Hickey strongly feels that AAI's Vacuum Bubble Technology could solve the odor and hydrogen sulfide problems at Excel Dairy. First, he noted, the original system of storing manure in anaerobic lagoon, promotes the byproduct of hydrogen sulfide.

In many anaerobic lagoons, chopped straw is applied to the lagoon surface to help the formation of a thick crust. Hickey said the straw tends to get wet. It then sinks to the bottom of the lagoon and becomes additional food for anaerobic bacteria.

Once a crust does form, it traps the majority of the hydrogen sulfide gas below the lagoon's crust. Once a lagoon is excavated, that gas is released into the air.

In an AAI aerobic system, bacteria break down solids at a much quicker rate and the byproduct is odorless carbon dioxide and water.

"If you have waste material coming in, you're talking about days, not weeks, for it to be worked on by the bacteria," Hickey said.

He says there is still some odor, but hydrogen sulfide emissions are reduced to levels near zero. He added that the solid material or sludge is reduced by 75 to 90 percent.

Hickey said AAI systems can be configured to meet both immediate and future needs. He encourages anyone who would like to learn more about AAI's technology to visit www.advancedaeration.com.

It may be too late for AAI to have any involvement in controlling the odor problems at Excel Dairy. Last month, the MPCA ordered Excel Dairy to discontinue its use of a different aeration system and return to the use of an anaerobic crust system as stated on Excel Dairy's permit. That doesn't mean Hickey is giving up.

"We would love to have the opportunity to have a chance to solve this problem," Hickey said. "Unfortunately, we're not in control of that decision."

Street Wizards cruise planned for July 22

Wednesday, July 23 at the Riverside Golf Club in Lancaster. The event will feature free horse-drawn buggy rides and several performances by Ashlee. Admission to the event is free, but a freewill offering will be accepted.

Ashlee's welcome home will continue with a dance at the Hewitt Ranch, from 9 p.m. to midnight. Ashlee will be accompanied by the Fargo, N.D. group 32 Below. The dance is open to the public and is free of charge. Directions to the Hewitt Ranch can be obtained by calling 218-762-6881.

Earlier this week, Ashlee advanced to the top five in the Nashville Star competition. Episode seven of the Nashville Star will air Monday, July 21 at 8 p.m. on NBC.

Kelli said the welcome home and dance will be held, regardless of the outcome of Monday's episode of Nashville Star.

"If she stays on, NBC will be filming the festivities," Kelli said. "If Ashlee is voted off, which we sure hope she is not, we will continue with festivities as planned, as she will be coming home.

"People do need to realize this does not mean she has made it through. They still need to vote, vote, vote like crazy on Monday night."

Trouble at the border

It must be the season for fraud. Each day, I receive at least one or two e-mails encouraging me to help someone in Africa solve a financial crisis for them. Lately, however, I seem to be receiving more, and hearing about more attempts at fraud.

Wednesday morning, I received an e-mail from a Mr. Ben Kamara. It starts out: "How are you today? I am writing to inform you that I have Paid the fee for your Draft and converting of your cheque into cash which has been with me for a long time."

If I follow the directions from Mr. Kamara, who I don't know, and supply him with all sorts of personal information (for the bank, of course), he said I stand to earn $650,000. I'm so used to getting these e-mails each day that I hardly get past the first misspelled word or salutation before I hit the delete key on my keyboard. Not everyone, however, is as jaded or has had any experience with this sort of fraud. In fact, a local woman recently lost over $9,000 to a slick con artist she met online. Of course, had she known he was a con artist I doubt she would have sent the money. Con artists usually don't come with nametags identifying them as con artists, and are often fairly convincing. How can you protect yourself against this sort of fraud? You can begin by not giving out any personal information over the Internet, or to anyone, for that matter. Quite frequently, there are warning signs, too. If it sounds too good to be true, like $600,000 for doing nothing, then the offer probably isn't legitimate.

Also on Wednesday, The Forum in Fargo, N.D., printed a story about a elderly woman in North Dakota who rushed to wire money to someone in Canada purporting to be her grandson. According to the story, grandma received a telephone call from a young man in Canada claiming to be her grandson. He said he had been arrested and needed some money to get out of jail. He also pleaded with her not to let his mother know. She was "falling prey to a widespread fraud known as the 'grandparents scam.'"

According to the story, "elderly people across the country are fielding calls from slick con men posing as grandsons in Canadian custody."

Officials are urging people to slow down and evaluate whether the request is legitimate. That may mean calling other relatives.

Several news outlets have reported hearing about the same scam being used. It appears that elderly citizens in North Dakota have become the latest targets of the grandparent's scam. I find that curious. I also wonder how con artists are getting the kind of information that makes their requests seem so real. One hypothesis is that they are using information found on Facebook or other similar Internet Web sites.

The office of the Minnesota Attorney General reports that every year Minnesotans lose hundreds and thousands of dollars to scam artists, bogus telemarketers, and fake "contests." "The Attorney General's Office accepts complaints on con artists, and does help citizens recover their losses. However, the best defense against fraud is YOU! Learn to spot the telltale signs of consumer fraud: pressure tactics, payment up front, time pressure, and refusal to provide references."

Please don't become a victim. For more information about how to protect yourself from fraud or where to report fraud, log onto the Minnesota Attorney General's Web site at www.ag.state.mn.us and click on "Consumer," then "Fraud."

Garage Sales

Summer means vacations and fishing to some, but to many the word summer is interchangeable with the phrase "garage sale." It's the season of the year to seek valuable information contained on garage sale signs before they are removed for the weekend. No one wants to purchase old plastic flowers or bent aluminum window frames from a garage in the winter, so it's time to strike while the iron (and weather) is hot. It's time to have a garage sale.

Saturday morning will invariably draw early risers hoping for a great deal. Most garage sales have set times; however, those who arrive early with pockets full of money often make their own rules. I've noticed that some people price every item while others have various islands of goods organized by price. I prefer the island theme, but that's difficult unless you're selling books or like items. Sunday afternoon is a difficult time at a garage sale; items competitively priced at 10 cents that would have gone home with someone instead were priced at 15 cents and are returned to storage. The seller's high hopes of a little less clutter are only partially realized, and the effort to carry everything back inside is exponentially greater in comparison to what was needed to first display everything.

Some folks buy garage sale stuff and just use it. Some are just looking for project ideas, but the most interesting buyer is the one looking for parts. My mother in-law, Jeanette Walseth, looks for parts. Jeanette visits garage sales like parents visit an orphanage - everything can be saved. She built planters, bird feeders, benches and whatever her creativity demands from items many folks throw away or sell at garage sales. While doing a bit of research for this week's column, I discovered Mr. Jalopy. Mr. Jalopy is like Jeanette in that he finds items bound for oblivion and creates something useful, interesting or both. He recently rewired an old stereo so that he could record vinyl albums to an Ipod. He also gives a lot of credence to those who garage sale creatively in that he is a leader of something called "the Maker Movement." This movement is composed of people who make items bound for a landfill into something useful. Mr. Jalopy has even been consulted by large corporations seeking to market their products to people like him. The "Maker Movement" is supposed to be a new group in America's culture; however, I believe it's simply making do with what you have, or with what you find at a garage sale.

Some garage sale for fun, others for their children's dorm room, while others have a whimsy to satisfy. If times are indeed getting a little tougher, then garage sales make even more sense than ever. You can save money over buying new, and a weekend of sales is much less expensive than the same time spent boating on a lake. Plus, where in the world are you going to find old plastic flowers or bent aluminum window frames, competitively priced, but at a garage sale.

Twins COMMUNITY FUND
Twins Fields For Kids
2007 GRANT RECIPIENT
The Minnesota Twins Community Fund proudly supported the development of this field with a 2007 Twins Fields for Kids grant.
TORO

A new home for Thief River Falls youth baseball and softball was dedicated Tuesday with a ribbon-cutting ceremony at the Little Twins Field, located on grounds adjacent to Franklin Middle School.

Featuring a grass infield with cutout areas for the bases, dugouts and chain-link fence that surrounds the complex, the project is a result of local manpower and donations that accompanied Thief River Falls' approval of a grant from the Minnesota Twins.

The Twins Community Fund Field for Kids program provides financial support to improve baseball and/or softball facilities for youth in the Upper Midwest and southwest Florida, where the club trains and operates a minor league farm team.

Matching grants up to $5,000 are available for upgrading essential field components, such as sod, infield, fencing and dugouts. Non-essential items such as lights, bleachers, grandstands, restrooms, cages and scoreboards do not qualify.

Since its inception in 1999, Fields for Kids has granted more than $1.3 million to renovate 357 ball fields.

Thief River Falls Baseball Association General Manager Tony Greene completed the paperwork and was notified of the grant approval in the summer of 2007.

Part of the Thief River Falls youth baseball program, first as a coach and now as administrator, for 15 years, Greene was beaming with pride as he watched pregame festivities prior to the start of a Thief River Falls vs. Warroad dedication night match-up of nine-year-olds. Currently the Activities Director at Marshall County Central High School in Newfolden, he vowed to continue his summer role until the field project was completed.

Even with volunteer work, Greene estimated the field costs would be in the neighborhood of $12,000.

The facility will be used for practice and games for baseball players ages 7-12 and softball players from the 12U through 18U age groups – probably around 120 youngsters.

In addition to their new digs, players will continue to utilize facilities at the Multi-Events Center.

"There was a need for another field to play games on," said Greene. "You can always find a place to practice, but it's a little tougher to find someplace decent to play."

Thief River Falls Baseball Association Board members did the Tuesday ribbon-cutting duties; the Color Guard from VFW Post 2793 was on hand for the national anthem; and members of media – Thief River Falls Radio and the Thief River Falls Times – gave the occasion special recognition.

Shane Zutz, who coached the Prowlers to the Minnesota Class AA state high school baseball tournament this spring and teams with Shannon Boen in coaching the Thief River Falls nine-year-olds this summer, called the new site, "a cozy field" that is both player and fan friendly.

Greene said he joined Matt Okeson, Tim Magnusson and Tyler Norland in much of the hands-on portion of the field construction, but he was quick to credit the many contributors listed in a dedication program flyer.

Those given public recognition for aiding the project included individuals like Greene, Okeson, Magnusson, Norland, Zutz, Jason Schuster, Jake Foslien, Rick
